650 Graduates Receive Degrees At Commencement

THE one hundred and twenty-seventh commencement exercises of the University of Maryland were held June 6 at College Park with more than 5,000 people present for the conferring of degrees. His Excellency, Harry W. Nice, Governor of Maryland, extended congratulations and best wishes to the 650 graduates receiving diplomas.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon two men outstanding in their fields. Charles Henry Davis, a noted engineer and philanthropist, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Engineering; Fred Pierce Corson, president of Dickinson College, received the degree of Doctor of Laws.

H. C. Byrd, Jr., Receives Diploma

President H. C. Byrd conferred the degrees. Among the graduates was his son, Harry Clifton Byrd, Jr., who received his B. S. in Agricultural Economics. He also received his commission as Second Lieutenant in the O. R. C. Dr. A. F. Woods, former president of the University, was accorded the honor of conferring the degree of Doctor of Philosophy upon his son, Mark V. Woods, '31.

Advanced Degrees To Alumni

Many alumni were among the recipients of the 57 advanced degrees awarded at commencement. Doctor of Philosophy was conferred on W. H. Anderson, '31; Arthur P. Dunnigan, '30; H. M. Duvall, '32, and A. B. Herberger, '32.

Master of Arts degrees were received by Evelyn F. Ballou, '30; J. T. Elvove, '34; Jean Hamilton, '35; Olga Lofgren, '35; Cecil Schutt, '32; Perry Wilkinson, '28, and Charles W. Williams, '35.

Ralph W. Powers, '28, a prominent attorney with offices in Hyattsville has been reelected president of the Prince George's County Chamber of Commerce.

Reappointed To Board

DR. W. W. SKINNER

Governor Harry W. Nice, '98, Law, has announced the reappointment of Dr. W. W. Skinner, '95, to the Board of Regents of the University for another nine-year term.

Doctor Skinner was first appointed to the Board in 1916 and has served continuously since that time. In July of last year he was elected chairman of the board following the resignation of Mr. George M.Shriver. He is a resident of Montgomery County, and is a graduate in chemistry. At present he is chief of the Bureau of Chemistry for the Department of Agriculture.

Davis, '74, Celebrates Eighty-fifth Birthday

On June 11th, Horace M. Davis, '74, the oldest living graduate of the College Park Schools of the University, celebrated his 85th birthday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Hershberger of Poolesville, Md.

Following Mr. Davis' graduation he taught school in Maryland for 27 years and for six years in California. He was born in Frederick County and has been a resident of Montgomery County for more than fifty years.

He is the father of the late Dr. Horace M. Davis, Jr., '05, a graduate of the University Dental School and a prominent dentist of Baltimore City.

On behalf of the Association the NEWS takes this occasion to congratulate Mr. Davis.

Physical Education Rises

Figuring in more than 20 pastimes, physical education at Maryland, under the direction of Charles LeRoy Mackert, made great strides during the 1935-36 term. A fine organization, with students directing the various activities, was in command. Mack is doing his job like he used to play football for the Terps, and that was fully 100 per cent.

Dr. Davis Announces Plans For $100,000,000 Institute Of Transport

A project which is expected to establish a $100,000,000 Institute of Transport at the University was announced by Dr. Charles H. Davis at the Commencement Exercises, June 6. Doctor Davis, a nationally known transportation engineer and a wealthy philanthropist of New York, is giving the University a $500,000 library and building as a nucleus toward establishing the institute. Work on the first of 22 buildings is expected to begin next winter and will house the headquarters for the American Road Builders Association.

It is the plan of Doctor Davis to procure further gifts from prominent engineers throughout the country, pledging himself to give a large share.

Doctor Davis is a Marylander by birth, having been born in Montgomery County.

Dental Faculty and Staff Honor Dr. J. Ben Robinson

At the annual Alumni Banquet of the Dental School the faculty and staff of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery presented the University with a portrait in oil of Dr. J. Ben Robinson, Dean of the School. President H. C. Byrd accepted the portrait from Dr. Robert P. Bay of the Dental School Faculty. The portrait was presented as an expression of the high regard the faculty and staff hold for Dean Robinson.

The University medal for scholarship attainment during the dental course was presented to Ralph W. Hodges of Rhode Island.

Six Hundred And Fifty Graduates Receive Degrees At Commencement

Master of Science was conferred on John H. Eiseman, '21; Guy W. Gienger, '33; Henry Harns, '35, and Hulton Slade, '35.

The professional degree of Civil Engineering was conferred on Ray D. Blakeslee, '29; Theodore J. Van Doren, '25, and G. Edward Taylor, Jr., '31.

Luncheon On Campus

Following the exercises the graduates, their parents and friends were guests of the University for a buffet luncheon served on the campus. Governor Nice was the guest of honor and received many visitors.

Class Of 1911 Celebrate Twenty-fifth Anniversary

When the alumni assembled at College Park for the 44th annual reunion, the Class of 1911 stepped into the limelight by celebrating its 25th anniversary. L. M. Sylvester, president of the class led the reunion and reported a large percentage present.

The class first met in the Board Room of the Library at 9:00 A. M., then attended the annual meeting in a body at 10:30. Following the meeting the afternoon was spent in sightseeing on the campus and attending the annual athletic field day events. They concluded the day with a class dinner in the University dining hall, where each member present gave a resumé of his 25 years' experienee.

Plans Laid For Fall Meeting

In conclusion, it was unanimous that "a cooperative spirit makes us interdependent and broadens our appreciations of Alumni Life. Also, more reunions should be held." Therefore it was agreed to meet again this fall. L. M. Sylvester, H. R. Devilbiss, D. W. Glass, and C. A. Chaney were appointed to make arrangements. Those present were as follows:

J. W. "Baldy" Kinghorne—with the economic survey division of the A.A.A. in Washington, D. C.; Paul E. Goeltz—teacher and director of Physical Education at Verona, N. J.; F. M. "Max" White—operates a farm near Dickerson, Md. Has a daughter at Md.; T. O. M. Davidson—in the Engineering Department of Baltimore City; C. R. Drach—with the Department of Public Roads in Pennsylvania; Garey Dixon—superintendent of construction for C. C. C. Camps in the 3rd Corps Area; Lindsay Sylvester—Colonel in U. S. Army and stationed in the Tank Division at Fort George Meade, Md.; D. W. Glass—contracting engineer in Baltimore; H. Roland Devilbiss—civil engineer, Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, Washington, D. C.; C. A. Chaney—engineer, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., and J. M. Burns—promotion representative for the Heurich Brewing Co., of Washington, D. C.

Dr. Kirby, '92, Again Heads Medical Alumni Association

When the annual meeting of the Medical Alumni Association was held in Baltimore, June 4th, Dr. F. G. Kirby, '92, was reelected president, and Dr. Morris was again named secretary. On the same evening the annual banquet was held at the Emerson Hotel. During the day several clinics were conducted.

On the following evening pre-commencement exercises were held at the Lyric Theatre at which time the University's gold medal for meritorious work was presented to George H. Davis of Maryland.

Dr. Harry Friedenwald, president of the class of 1886 spoke on the 50th anniversary of his class.

Forty-fourth Alumni Reunion Elects F. B. Hines, '00, Pres.

With a display of increasing enthusiasm the 44th annual Alumni Reunion was held May 2 at College Park. More than 300 alumni were present for the various events of the day which began with the annual meeting in the morning. Dr. T. B. Symons, '02, president of the Association, who has been connected with the University in some capacity ever since graduation and for the past 10 years has been an active officer in the alumni organization presided at the meeting.

Dr. Skinner Talks To Alumni

President H. C. Byrd, '08, gave an interesting talk on the developments of the University and the plans for the future. Dr. W. W. Skinner, '05, chairman of the Board of Regents, brought greetings from the Board. Doctor Symons and the secretary, G. F. Pollock, gave a resumé of the Association's activities for the past year.

The class of 1911, celebrating its 25th anniversary, was given a rousing cheer by the Association. More than 20 of their members were present.

Zalesak, '25, Vice-President

Election of officers for the ensuing year were as follows: President, F. B. Hines, '00, from Chestertown; vice-president, E. F. Zalesak, '25, of College Park; secretary-treasurer, G. F. Pollock, '23; representative of the College of Arts and Sciences, Reuben Brigham, '08; representative-at-large for women, Harriet Bland, '21; representative-at-large for men, Charles Lindhardt, '12. The nominating committee recommended to the Association that inasmuch as the secretary-treasurer is on the University staff he be appointed by the Board in collaboration with the president of the University.

1937 Date Left To Board

The date for the annual meeting in 1937 was referred to the incoming board for their decision as to the most appropriate time in conjunction with the University calendar.

Following the meeting a buffet luncheon was served in the gymnasium. In the afternoon the athletic events of the annual Field Day were held in Byrd Stadium. Concluding functions of the day were held by the various sororities and fraternities at their houses.

President Byrd Receives Doctor Of Law Degree

"A statesman in education," was the remark made by Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, president of Washington College, when he conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on H. C. Byrd, '08, at the Washington College commencement exercises. Doctor Byrd was introduced by Dr. William R. Howell, registrar of Washington College, and given credit for the great advancement of the University of Maryland in the field of education.

It is interesting that Doctor Byrd, a native of the Eastern Shore, was practically called back home to receive this honor of distinction.

Winning 70 Per Ct. Of Its Events And Taking Titles In Baseball And Lacrosse, Maryland Enjoys Great Year

FASTENING the Southern Conference baseball title and the National Collegiate lacrosse crown to laurels already picked up in the winter and having good seasons in every other spring sports, Maryland wound up one of its finest years in its history during the 1935-36 term.

Sending varsity and freshman teams into difficult schedules in football, boxing, basket-ball, lacrosse, baseball, track and tennis, the Old Liners set a pace matched by few institutions that battle it out in such fast company.

Record Is Exceptional

Maryland won 59 varsity contests, lost 23 and tied one, while the yearlings scored 33 victories, suffered 13 reverses and deadlocked once.

This is better than a 70 per cent winning average for both the varsity and frosh teams, an exceptional record.

Here are the figures:

Varsity.

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Football	7	2	2
Basket-ball	13	5	0
Boxing	2	5	0
Baseball	14	6	0
Lacrosse	8	1	0
Track	6	2	0
Tennis	8	2	0
Total	59	23	2

Freshman.

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Football	0	5	0
Boxing	2	0	1
Track	*2	2	0
Baseball	9	2	0
Tennis	2	2	0
Total	33	13	1

Boxing Has Tough Luck

Varsity boxing, though it finished in the red in the won and lost column, had one of its most interesting seasons since the pastime was established at College Park and with a little better luck might easily have captured the majority of its meets.

In addition to the bigger titles, the Terps led the State competition in basket-ball, baseball and football, and figured heavily in the selection of all-star State athletes.

Bernie Buscher also was chosen all-Southern Conference basketer, Bill Guckeyson was all-Southern Conference football back, while Jack Kelly, goal; Lou Ennis, defense; Herb Brill, John Christhilf and Charlie Ellinger, attack, were named on the all-American lacrosse ten.

Arnon Mehring, a member of Maryland's rifle team, also was selected as a member of the all-American college team.

Eighty-eight Contests Planned For Terp Sports Schedule For 1936-37 Term And All Of Them Will Be Difficult

MARYLAND will have difficult schedules, as usual, in all sports during the 1936-37 term, and with the exception of the list for the tennis team, they are about complete.

Adjustment of a date or two in track is about all that is to be done to complete the various cards, with the exception of that of the racketers. And the last mentioned seldom is filled until late in the fall preceding the season.

The Terps football, baseball, boxing, basket-ball, lacrosse and track engagements call for meetings with teams in the East, South and Mid-West, and presage the same sort of keen competition that marked the 1935-36 term and others that have preceded.

Grid Card Is Tough

Eleven football games, all of them major affairs, except the opener with St. John's, will start the Old Line athletes on their way in the 1936-37 term and from then on it will be a succession of attractive events.

A feature of the baseball season next spring will be a trip North after the scholastic year is over to play Vermont twice, Dartmouth, Yale and Temple. The jaunt will start June 10 and end five days later.

In all, the Old Liners plan to compete in 88 varsity events, 11 football gams, 19 basket-ball contests, 9 lacrosse frays, 21 diamond tilts, 8 boxing matches, 10 track meets and 10 tennis engagements.

Freshmen will also have limited schedules in all of the pastimes that Maryland supports.

Dr. W. W. Skinner, Chairman of the Board of Regents and an alumnus of the University brought greetings from the Board. President H. C. Byrd made the farewell address to the class.

Awards Presented

Special awards were presented by representatives of the Board of Regents and faculty members. Mr. Henry Holzapfel, '93, a member of the Board, presented the Mortar Board scholarship cup to Florence Rea of Washington. Dr. H. J. Patterson, Dean of the College of Agriculture, presented, on behalf of President H. C. Byrd, the citizenship prize to Mr. Louis A. Ennis. Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, Chairman of the Athletic Board, presented the Silvester Athletic Medal given by his class to Louis Ennis. Another medal was presented by Doctor Broughton on behalf of the American Institute of Chemistry to Leonard Smith for high scholastic standing in chemistry. Dean Adele Stamp, '23, presented the women's citizenship award given by Mrs. A. F. Woods to Miss Routh Hickey of Popes Creek, Maryland.

Miss Jeanette Bittner and Eugene Kressin, '35, gave several musical selections. Following the banquet the class was the guest of the Shoreham Hotel on the Terrace where dancing and a floor show concluded the program.

Corbin Cogswell of Pikesville, Maryland, was chairman of the Banquet Committee.

Joppa, Md., lad who in his soph year pole vaulted 12 feet 4¾ inches to create a school mark. Cronin also was a consistent quarter-miler and walked off with the Southern Conference crown in 49.6.

Guckeyson Standing Alone As A Four-letter Athlete

Bill Guckeyson, the versatile track man, in the field events and ace football player, became a four-letter man with the close of the baseball season, during which he played right field regularly after reporting somewhat after the start of the campaign.

Guckeyson temporarily was out of track on account of a nerve ailment in his shoulder and then turned to the diamond. His previous letters came in track, football and basket-ball.

He returned to track in time to win the javelin title in the District A. A. U. title meet and to go into the Olympic trials.

He is the only four-letter man in school, as Bernie Buscher, who had gained four insignias was in the graduating class. Guckeyson will be a senior next fall.

Boxers Student Leaders

Members of the boxing team will play a big part in ruling the Maryland student body during the 1936-37 term. Tom Birmingham, 125-pounder, has been elected president of the Student Government Association and Mike Lombardo, who battles in either the 155-or-165-pound class, has been named head of the Men's League. Birmingham is from Sparrows Point.

Baltimore Group Makes Headway

Fine progress is being made by the Alumni Group in Baltimore. The Rennert Hotel has been established as headquarters and two meetings a month are being held. During the summer only one special outing is being planned in the nature of a dinner dance, July 30, at the Summit Club. Ches. Tawney, and George Weber are giving the club a big push. Call "Ches" when in Baltimore, Plaza 2654. The club meets on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Coleman Headley, middle distance runner, and Frank Cronin, pole vaulter and quarter miler, added individual Southern Conference titles to boost the list of Terp championships.

Number Of Stars Go

Maryland has lost such linemen as Ed Minion, guard; Carl Stalfort and Charlie Callahan, tackles; Lou Ennis and Bernie Buscher, ends, in football; Buscher and Vic Willis in basket-ball; Willis in baseball, Ennis and Jim Hart, Herb Brill, John Christhilf and Pearce Maccubbin in lacrosse; Spike Webb, boxer; a half dozen of its high-scoring trackmen, including Bob Slye, hurdler and broad jumper, and a trio of its best netmen.

However, except for football linemen and lacrosse defense men, the teams of 1936-37 appear pretty well fixed to begin their next campaign.

Dr. F. P. Veitch and Son Achieve Success In Chemistry Field

"Like father, like son" happens to be true in the case of Fletcher Pearre Veitch and Fletcher Pearre Veitch, Jr.

Doctor Veitch graduated in 1891 with the degree of B. S. in chemistry. Twenty-two years later, in 1913, in recognition of his many contributions to science, of his continued effort and interest in promoting the welfare and growth of his university, and of a career that his alma mater was proud to have had a part in shaping, there was conferred upon him by the University of Maryland the degree of Doctor of Science.

Specializes In Leather

Turning his attention from soils to leather, paper and related fields of research in his characteristic intensive manner, Doctor Veitch soon became a widely recognized authority on these subjects. He has been a member of the American Leather Chemists' Association since 1905, serving in 1911-12 as its president and is a former member, respectively, of the Committee on Leather of the National Research Council, the Committee on Leather Products of the Federal Specifications Board, and International Committee on Preservation and Disinfection of Hides and Skins, chairman of the former Interdepartmental Committee of Agriculture and Commerce on the Conservation of Hides and Skins, and other offices too numerous to mention.

He is a prolific writer, being the author, either independently or jointly with his coworkers, of over 200 contributions to scientific and technical literature.

In 1927, with the reorganization of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, Doctor Veitch was designated principal chemist in charge of the Industrial-Farm Products Division of the Bureau of Chemistry.

F. P. Veitch, Jr. Does Research

Doctor Veitch is now in his sixty-eighth year. He has one son and three daughters. The son is following closely in his father's footsteps. He too has chosen chemistry as his life work. He received his B. S. in 1932, his M. S. in 1933, and his Ph. D. in 1935. Shortly after graduation in 1935, Doctor Veitch, Jr. accepted a position with the Research Laboratories of the National Canners' Association. He is a member of Sigma Xi and Alpha Chi Sigma.

Geary (Swede) Eppley, Teacher, Coach, Student Leader, Is Selected As New Athletic Director By President H. C. Byrd

GEARY (Swede) EPPLEY, who has spent more than 20 years at College Park as a student, teacher and coach, has been named as Maryland's new Athletic Director. H. C. Byrd, president of the University, filled his old post with a man he has coached and worked with in many activities at the Old Line Institution.

Eppley, who was graduated in the class of 1920, spent another year in getting his master's degree, and then became connected with the teaching staff at the University. He has been a highly valued man ever since and at present is associate professor in agronomy.

He became track coach in 1924 and has been turning out creditable teams all during his regime. Eppley will continue to coach track but will share the job jointly with Frank Dobson, head football coach. He will handle the runners and Dobson will look after the field men.

GEARY EPPLEY

Leader in Student Affairs

Eppley, as he was in his pre-graduate days, is a prominent leader in the student affairs on the campus. In addition to his other exacting duties he is chairman of the highly important Student Life Committee and faculty advisor on finances to the various organizations.

Swede was a good athlete in his college days, being a member of the track squad for four years and a letter man in football. He was an outstanding end in his senior year.

In announcing the appointment, President Byrd said: "Eppley will have entire charge of the athletic program at Maryland and full authority that goes with the position."

Miller Gets Boxing Job

Maj. Harvey L. Miller, secretary of the District of Columbia Boxing Commission, veteran of over 200 fights, and noted referee, has been named as head boxing coach. He will be aided by Lyman McAboy, former Terp star, who coached the freshmen last year.

Eppley's appointment, the elevating of Frank Dobson to head coach of the football team and Miller's appointment were major happenings in Terp athletic circles. Dobson, who was field coach last fall, became the grid chief with the full accord of Jack Faber, who was in charge in 1933 and 1934. Faber, now first assistant, and Dobson have been real pals ever since the latter "hit" the Maryland campus.

One other shift has occurred in the football staff. Al Heagy is taking the place of Roy Mackert as line coach. Mackert who will continue to scout Maryland's rivals, a highly important assigment, found the duties as director of physical education and intramurals too exacting to continue in a coaching role.

Staff Now Is Complete

With these new arrangements, Maryland's athletic set-up is as follows:

Frank Dobson—Head coach of football, joint coach in track, instructor in physical education.

Jack Faber—Head coach in lacrosse, assistant in football and basket-ball.

Burton Shipley—Head coach of baseball and basket-ball, instructor in physical education and in general charge of equipment and physical condition of the teams.

Maj. Harvey L. Miller, boxing coach.

Lyman McAboy, ass't, boxing coach.

Members of the Maryland Athletic Board, the supreme ruling council, are: Dr. L. B. Broughton, chairman; Prof. Charles S. Richardson, pioneer in Maryland athletics and leading factor in bringing Curley Byrd to College Park; Dr. William B. Kemp, Dr. Ernest Cory and Eppley.

Largest Freshman Class In History Registered

An increase of approximately 15 per cent in the freshman class was the latest report from the registrar's office. Returns were greater in the upper classes than in previous years, which means a student body of considerably more than 2,000 in the College Park Schools for the ensuing year.

The registrations for the professional schools of the University in Baltimore are not held until the latter part of September. Here, however, the enrollment is more constant because of the limited facilities required for each school. The combined enrollment for the year is expected to be more than 3,500 students. It will be the largest enrollment in the history of the University, which is beginning its one hundred and twenty-eighth year.

News Making Changes

Beginning with the October issue, the NEWS will start a new type of publication. Advertisements have been made a part of the publication which it is felt will add greatly to its attractiveness as well as making it possible for an increase in size.

For some time it has been known that the NEWS should be increased in size and that advertisements would make this possible. It is however, necessary that every Alumnus must realize his part in making the NEWS an outstanding publication. More subscriptions are needed and additional news about fellow Alumni.

Your Association, a growing organization, is endeavoring to keep pace with the great strides being made by its Alma Mater. Send in your help.

* * * * *

Many Activities On Campus

With the exception of approximately two weeks, there is activity of some nature taking place on the University campus the entire year. As soon as the students depart in June, many adult organizations in the State begin to arrive for short courses on various subjects. Even during the Summer School session, the Parent-Teacher Association have their annual conference.

From August 15 to September 1, is actually the only time in the year when the University campus is not being made use of.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ANNUAL DUES ... $2.00

Alumni Luncheon Club

It has been the desire of your Alumni Association officers to get more luncheon or dinner clubs organized. The Maryland graduates in every town of any size should have at least one day each month when they meet, if for only a few minutes, in an informal way and discuss the old school. Many worth while suggestions for the betterment of the Association would result.

New York and Washington are now operating luncheon get-togethers successfully. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia meet in the evenings, Baltimore, organized last spring, is making good headway. It is expected that many more will be organized throughout the State in the near future.

The only way to keep the old spirit is to get-together, swap yarns and keep in touch with the happenings of your Alma Mater.

* * * * *

Booklet Sent To Alumni

About the first of this month, a prospectus of the University was sent each Alumnus. The purpose was to give the old grad an up-to-date view of the campus and its activities in pictures.

Comments from Alumni on this particular gesture will be appreciated by the officers. Should such meet with favor among the Alumni, it will likely be repeated each year.

Many of the old grads of ten years or more ago who have not returned to the campus for a visit can readily see what a revelation has taken place. It all goes to prove that more Alumni should return to the Hill on Alumni Day.

Arthur Bowers, '31, is now located with the Campbell Soup Company in New Jersey. Bowers' rise is interesting from the standpoint that he started as a caddy, was picked up by an Alumnus and helped through college. He is now making good and has repaid all of his obligations. His address is 227 King Highway, Audubon, New Jersey.

Short Course For Firemen Held

For the seventh year, the University has conducted a Short Course for the Volunteer Firemen of the State. On September 1, 2, 3, some 150 to 200 men attended this course in which the instructors were men who have had twenty or more years of fire-fighting experience. Over sixty companies in the State were represented.

The firemen received instruction in several phases of fighting and self-protection. Attacking actual fires, applying water and chemicals, wearing gas masks, saving property and life, were all included in the comprehensive course.

A high light of the course, was the lecture by Chief Ross Davis of the Philadelphia Fire Department who has spent forty years in the fire-fighting game. Prof. S. S. Steinberg, acting dean of Engineering, was the director of the course.

With A Fine Array Of Backfield Talent, Maryland's Grid Coaches And Players Strive To Solve Problems In Line

Blessed with a fine array of backs who are ready to go places over ground and through the air, the Maryland football coaches are faced with line problems that must be solved if the Terps are to come out on the long end of the horn this season.

Facing 11 games, 10 of them of major caliber, Maryland is striving to get the needed linemen out of a rather inexperienced but willing and spirited bunch of aspirants. The squad in all totals only 35, more than a dozen less than received the call to try for jobs.

However, there is not a note of pessimism in the Maryland camp, as Head Coach Frank Dobson, Jack Faber and Al Heagy and the players co-operate in a great effort to fill the gaps left vacant by the graduation of such exceptional forwards as Lou Ennis and Bernie Buscher, ends; Carl Stalfort and Charlie Callahan, tackles; Ed Minion, guard, all 1935 regulars, and a number who did fine service in reserve roles.

Some Notable Backs

Bill Guckeyson, ace runner, and kicker; Charlie Ellinger, field general; Coleman Headley, fleet all-around performer, and John Gormley, star blocker and defensive player, all 1935 regulars; Ed Daly, another letter man who is almost a duplicate of Gormley in efficiency; Waverly Wheeler, who proved his worth last season; Jim Meade, the sophs main contribution, and others give the coaches a ball toting array that also is highly capable on defense.

Maryland has a pretty good nucleus around which to build a line in Vic Willis and Blair Smith, ends; Ed Fletcher and John Birkland, tackles; Bill Wolfe and Mike Surgent, guards; and Frank DeArmey, center; all of them "M" men in 1935. However, Surgent and DeArmey were the only regulars, although Willis figured prominently in most of the games. However, with the exception of Charlie Zulick, a tackle; John McCarthy, an end; and Bill Bryant, a 1935 back; shifted to the wing position, all of the needed forwards to complete two sets of linemen essential to success in a tough campaign, must come from the ranks of sophs who lack development.

And no matter how great the backfield talent, no team ever will meet with marked success unless it has a capable forward wall and sufficient replacements to keep it solid.

Rivals Are Formidable

Not counting St. John's, of course, every foe of Maryland for 1936 is rated stronger than in 1935. Maryland with its line problems, is particularly under pressure for its first two big games with Virginia Tech and North Carolina, as experts are picking the Tarheels and Gobblers to be second and third in the Conference standing at the finish. Duke is the favorite.

After these two battles, all the Terps have to do is to oppose Virginia, Syracuse, Florida, Richmond U., Virginia Military Institute, Georgetown, Washington and Lee and Western Maryland. All have great prospects, with Florida, V. M. I., Georgetown and Washington and Lee due to show the greatest improvement over last fall.

But regardless of what may happen or what their record may be, the Terps may be depended upon to play intelligent, scrappy and interesting football, and what more could be asked?

Those desiring tickets for home games should write the Athletic Board, University of Maryland, College Park, and check should accompany the order. Prices include any tax in all instances. When ordering tickets please enclose postage. If it is desired that tickets be sent by Registered Mail, fifteen cents additional will cover this cost. Make checks payable to the Athletic Board.

Five Games Are Arranged For Freshman Grid Squad

Maryland's freshman football team will play five games, all of them with yearling combinations of other schools, four of them with rivals within the Southern Conference.

Two of the games will be played on foreign fields and the other three at home.

If all five of the rivals have as strong frosh teams as they did last year, the young Terps will find the going exceptionally difficult.

The Schedule

October 16—Virginia at Charlottesville.
October 30—Richmond U., at College Park.
November 6—Georgetown at College Park.
November 13—Washington and Lee at Lexington.
November 21—V. M. I., at College Park. (10 A. M.).

Buildings Progressing

It will be a delight to many to know that good progress is being made on the new dairy barns, and that in due course of time, the old building will be obliterated. The new barns are being erected on that part of the campus north of the poultry plant near Paint Branch. It is a PWA project.

Another project—being watched with interest, is the Bureau of Mines building. At the time this was written, construction was approximately one-third completed.

Columbia System

Following a system somewhat similar to the one at Columbia, the applications for admission were passed on by a Director of Admissions. Wm. M. Hillegeist, '12, who was for many years Registrar, now holds this position.

Freshmen began to arrive on the Hill at College Park as early as 7 A. M. Monday, September the 14th, and it was but a short time before they were University students attending to their proper assignments.

A new system of registration was instituted at the University this year. Heretofore, it was to the Dean's office, then to the Library, and to the Sectioning Committee, etc. This year everything was carried on in the Gymnasium. Each new student, as he entered the front door was met by an information director, and his routine prescribed. Everything was attended to in this building. It took just about one-third of the time to register a student.

Special Notice

Alumni are here informed that special consideration will be given their applications for tickets to all athletic contests during the year. There will be held until a specified time, a certain number of tickets in the reserved section for Alumni. To procure these seats it will be necessary for Alumni to write the Athletic Office. It will be impossible to hold any seats in this section unless checks accompany the orders.

This procedure will assure the Alumni who order tickets in advance to be seated with Maryland grads. Definite specifications as to time limits, etc., will be more fully described in the next issue.

FROM OUR PRESIDENT

FELLOW ALUMNI:

I consider it an honor to be elected President of our Alumni Association of the University of Maryland. I have been interested in the Alumni Association ever since my graduation from the College Park Schools in 1900 and from the Medical School in 1904. My son, Frank Hines, Jr. attended and graduated in 1933 at College Park. Convinced as I am that the Alumni serves a highly useful purpose, I have continued my interest in the Association because I believe that it is a vital link between the University and its former students. I do not think any educational institution worthy of the name can have a healthy, progressive development without the good will and active support of its alumni.

It is my belief that the officers of the Association must assume genuine responsibility. Therefore, I assure you that I intend to do everything in my power to do what a president should do. I am sure that I can speak for the other officers when I say we intend to have a constructive program of activity this year and that we shall do our utmost to see that it is carried out. Our first endeavor is the ALUMNI NEWS. You will notice this issue is an enlargement over the previous ones. Your support, criticism and suggestions are solicited.

From long experience, I know an Alumni Association President is only as good as the cooperation he receives. In the last analysis, what we do or fail to do this year will depend on you. I want you,—I urge you,—to take part in the work of our Association. I believe now to a greater degree than ever before, the Alumni Association can be, and is a vital force to further the interests of the University and of its alumni.

Do not forget Homecoming on November 14. I expect to see you there.

Sincerely yours,

FRANK HINES, '00, MD. '04,
President, Alumni Association.

Governor Appoints Fellow Alumnus

Governor Harry W. Nice, '98, appointed his fellow alumnus and former law partner, Edwin T. Dickerson, '97, to the Supreme Court Bench of Baltimore. Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis warmly praised Governor Nice on the appointment because it "marks the first time, as far as I can recall, when any Governor of Maryland has gone outside the members of the bar subscribing to his own political faith to select a new judge."

DO NOT DISAPPOINT

FOR many years it has been the custom of the University to set aside a specific Saturday during the fall season as Homecoming for the Old Grads —a time when entertainment will be provided by a visiting rival of the gridiron pastime.

When the day is over, it is sometimes said that Homecoming was marred because "Old Alma Mammy" went down in defeat. This is far from the actual fact. A small return of old grads and the disappointment that comes to those who expected to see their old school mates, separated by many years, is the only chance of spoiling a gala occasion.

It is enjoyable to gather around the fireside and hear the undergrads talk with great enthusiasm about the heroes of the gridiron as fellow students but better still is the refreshing talk with Tim, Tom, Jim or Harry and maybe Sally, about old times "on the hill."

What a wonderful feeling to go back to the campus at Homecoming and see those whose fellowship has not been dimmed by intervening years. What a revelation, to swap yarns, tell and hear experiences since the days when you were undergraduates together and then back in memory's lane recall how they looked when they were flashing cleats in a notable gridiron victory.

What a great opportunity to lay aside the old daily grind and get into the swim of campus enthusiasm, relive for a day the good times of the past, even though it be in memory—with your pals of yester years.

If you are not at Homecoming, Saturday, November 14, you will miss a real day, but still further you will be missed by many. Do not disappoint them.

Football Program Growing

Maryland is getting out its own football program this year, with Bill Hottel editor, and is hoping before the season is over and in the future to have a worthwhile publication. The issue for the opening game with St. John's met with many compliments and it is planned to effect more improvements as time marches on.

AS A MARYLANDER SEES EUROPE

By GEORGE FOGG, '26, Reference Librarian

WHILE a few weeks' trip through several European countries can hardly make one an authority on the social, political, and economic problems of the Old World, it quite definitely will contribute to a few permanent impressions.

For instance, to many Americans visiting France this summer the spirit of "Lafayette, we are here" has been changed to "Lafayette, good-bye forever." The amazing pleasure that Frenchmen in hotels, restaurants, and public services seem to derive from insulting their transient guests was the talk of a good many returning tourists groups, and this, along with French dirtiness as compared with American or other European standards accounted for no small number of shortened visits in gay Paris.

Political disturbances in Paris have left their mark. Walls are marked with "A bas La Rocque" and "Vive le communisme," and more concrete still, the walls of the Hotel Crillon still show the bullet marks where the soldiers fired on the mob a few months ago. It seems quite likely that fear of Germany is all that keeps France from blowing up.

Germany appeals far more to the average American taste than France. Returning travellers commented on the clean, healthy appearance of the Germans, and their courtesy, friendliness, and honesty. Perhaps, too, the idea of a German beer garden with a lively Bavarian band, a plate of wurst and cheese, and large family tables of singing young people is more attractive than the Parisian amusement of sitting at a table on the sidewalk of a dusty boulevard drinking either wine or bad coffee and speculating on whether the passers-by come from Iowa or Michigan.

Merry England is now merrier than it has been for some years. A commercial boom, thousands of tourists, and an improving employment situation contribute to the merriment. England is just enough different from America to be continually interesting and just enough like home to be always comfortable.

Marylanders who feel so inclined may visit the 14th century Kiplin Hall, the birth place of the first Lord Baltimore, or still see the magnificent ruin that once was Wardour Castle, the home of the Arundels, whose name appears so often on a Maryland map. Many of the old churches of London have tablets to the memory of the early proprietaries of Maryland. The last residence of the Lords Baltimore, a large house at Woodcote, is now the country club of the Royal Automobile Club.

There are still some things to be said about London. All the new policemen have to be educated in a private school, so they say, and are uniformly courteous; there are no chain drug stores with sandwich counters; the subway is quiet; and there are no Coca Colas.

The attitude toward a future War is an interesting side-light on popular feeling. The French are sure that the Germans are busy nights thinking up German names for the streets of Paris; the Germans are quite sure that they will soon have to polish off Russia and are certain they can do it; and the young Englishmen are naive enough to believe that they can stay out of the next war.

War talk is in the background of the conversations on the continent, but there is little enthusiasm among the young people who will fight the battles. The young men are quick to realize there is quite a difference between wearing a neat looking uniform in the streets and in wearing service uniforms in the trenches. Emphasis on aviation provides a litttle of the romantic war talk. The French bluster; the Germans plan; and the English hope.

University To Have Historical Museum

Work to establish a state historical museum at the University is going forward under the supervision of Prof. Leland G. Worthington, '25, of the College of Education. Worthington is collecting rare documents, books, old weapons, and furniture with a view toward creating interest in the development of Maryland since the early Calverts.

On display now at the University of Maryland Library are two original land grants, one by the Third Lord Baltimore to Peter Pinxton, in 1710, and the other by the Fifth Lord Baltimore to John Worthington, in 1726. These were loaned to the University by John Bowie of Anne Arundel County, and Professor Worthington. Two early posters, one advertising the presentation of three plays at Annapolis in 1798, and the other soliciting subscriptions for the Maryland Herald of Easton, one of the State's oldest newspapers, are also on display.

The museum is the outgrowth of a thesis by Professor Worthington on Maryland history, and is being added to by contributions of the citizens of the State.

American Chemical Society Hears Dr. H. B. McDonnell

At the sixteenth anniversary meeting of the American Chemical Society held in Pittsburgh, the University was represented by Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, the head of the Chemistry Department; Dr. H. B. McDonnell, professor of Agricultural Chemistry; Dr. N. L. Drake, professor of Organic Chemistry; Dr. C. E. White, '23; and Dr. R. C. Wiley, associate-professor of Chemistry.

Many noted scientists from all parts of the world attended the meeting and were surprised to learn of the wide spread uses of new materials made every day from unlikely sources, as revealed by American chemists.

Dr. H. B. McDonnell presented a paper on ozone, the purest of air, revealing that the earth is surrounded by a poisonous gas. The following is an excerpt from the Literary Digest's report on the meeting.

"Dr. H. B. McDonnell, of the University of Maryland, raised guinea pigs in air rich in ozone, a form of oxygen. Even a little shortened the animal lives. A high concentration acted about like chlorin, one of the war gases. Fortunately, there isn't much ozone in the atmosphere, and what there is lies high up.

"Things are delicately balanced on this earth; if there were more ozone, we should all be poisoned. If there were less we'd be scalded to death by ultra-violet rays from the sun, most of which are absorbed by this thin blanket of gas."

¶ Word just arrived that the class of 1922 is getting started on a 15 year reunion plan for Alumni Day this year.

"I WOULD LIKE TO KNOW"

By FRANK DOBSON, Head Football Coach

THE ALUMNI NEWS has asked me to discuss the football situation at your Alma Mater, which I shall endeavor to do as briefly and frankly as possible.

None of us is interested in the losses we have suffered thru the usual and natural channels, but what we would like to know in the main is—"who will play" and "how will we do."

I feel qualified in a measure to write of the former, but shall refrain from commenting on the latter—merely saying that "I would like to know."

The big issue in the development of a football team is the line and since the key position in the forward wall on defense as well as offense is center we will begin our discussion at that important post.

Frank DeArmey, who came from Windber, Pa., as a likely fullback, was assigned to this position last fall and fulfilled our fondest hopes. He is fast, strong and big, and much is expected of him this year. He is nearly six feet tall and weighs in the neighborhood of 200 pounds.

Next in importance is the young man who must share this responsibility, and here we find a highly capable workman in Bob Walton from Tech H. S., Washington, whose rapid development has made this position well fortified. In contrast, however, to DeArmey, Bob meets the same situation with only 164 pounds, a tribute to his spirit and courage.

The men who flank the center can no longer be clumsy, slow, heavy chaps, but must have the speed and drive of a back on offense to qualify for the guard jobs, and we are fortunate to carry over from last year Billy Wolfe and Mike Surgent who are dependable blockers in and out of the line and hard driving chargers on defense. Each carries about 190 pounds and much of the success of our running and passing attack depends upon them. John De Armey, Alex Males and Leroy Witzke came up from the freshman team and have made some progress, especially the last.

At the important tackle positions we feel our losses most acutely since experience is essential to good tackle play regardless of one's physical attributes.

Birkland, a big rangy six footer of 195 pounds is the only veteran, and he is capable of playing better football than his work last fall indicated. It is to be hoped that he will measure up to his sophomore standard in which case one half of the starting tackle problem will be solved.

Ed Fletcher, who previously played guard, has been switched to tackle and, while not endowed with a tackle's disposition, has shown marked improvement to date and at this writing is our choice to team with Birkland. However, his 180 pounds can only stand the gaff so long against the high class of opposition we meet for 10 consecutive weeks and we are working overtime to find replacements. Egnall and Page, sophomores, and Zulick, senior, are best qualified physically, but only Page of this trio has shown any inclination to give and take. There must be a real love for the game to play tackle since you are bombarded from all sides and only hard fighting, courageous big boys can play there. We hope for a change of heart in Egnell and Zulick whose efforts, so far, have been disappointing to all of us.

The situation at the ends has brightened considerable since practice started and we would have a superb line if the same type of fight existed for the tackle jobs that we find at the flanks. From the standpoint of experience big Vic Willis outranks the other candidates and the same can be said about his ability as a pass receiver; but there must be a vast improvement in his blocking and defensive work before he can be stamped as an outstanding wingman, and only the hard games ahead will prove that. He has entered his last season with a fine spirit and we expect him to enjoy his best season.

Blair Smith, a substitute last year, is vastly improved. He is an excellent blocker and hard fighter and with the improvement made to date in his defensive work he has earned the other starting end.

Nick Budkoff, a strapping youngster from Lynn, Mass., lacks only speed to be a standout at end. His fierce charging and accurate tackling, however, make it difficult to keep him out of the picture, and at present it is our plan to make full use of his versatility and use him at tackle as well as end. This procedure is further necessary because of the utter lack of reserves in the line.

John McCarthy and Bill Bryant, converted backs, are making a strong bid for these positions. Each is a capable pass receiver and has made progress in practice. The big question to be answered now is just how tough and aggressive they will be under fire.

As we approach the layman's unit of a football team, the backfield, we find much to be thankful for, but in all honesty not as much as we are credited with in quantity. Two complete sets of backs can be called upon and our schedule will require their constant use.

Heading this list of talented ball carriers is Bill Guckeyson of Bethesda, Maryland, who can be truthfully called a product of Maryland's sane athletic policy and the best half-back it has ever been my pleasure to coach. This young man not only possesses all the requisite qualifications of a great football player and all around athlete, but his quite unassuming manner of carrying his honors makes for a type of leadership that must be inborn.

At this date this greyhound of a halfback is inactive because of a strained muscle in the upper leg, and by the time this message reaches you, the press will have broadcast information as to the seriousness of his ailment. Naturally, such an outstanding player as Bill exerts a mental as well as physical influence on a team, but to the everlasting credit of the fine bunch of boys in our squad no evidence of pessimism is to be found.

Our team will be directed by Charlie Ellinger, of Baltimore, whose rise from a substitute end to quarterback has been phenomenal. He carries his responsibility lightly and the team reflects his fighting qualities and leadership. His drive and tackling are great. Coleman Headley, of College Park, will nominally be listed as a halfback but his versatility equips him for various duties and he will carry on for Ellinger when necessary. Coleman is an excellent dodger and nearly matches Guckeyson's speed. He is a hard accurate blocker and fine tackler.

We are well fixed at fullback with John Gormley of Tech H. S., Washington, and Ed Daly of Peddie. Here, as in the line, we find two boys who are typical coach's players, because the important factors they are to the team's success goes unnoticed except on defense. The most unselfish players on any man's team are the guards and blocking backs and their praises should ever be sung. John and Ed will divide

Flashy Backs Will Add Color To Homecoming Game With Virginia Military Institute On November 14

By W. H. ("BILL") HOTTEL

MARYLAND'S "HOMECOMING" tilt with Virginia Military Institute on November 14 promises to be one of the most colorful, closest and interesting games the Old Liners ever have played with the Cadets.

In the first place, the Cadets doubtless have the best team that has worn their colors in recent years, and possess one of the flashiest backfields in the South.

Trzeciak, V. M. I.'s sophomore quarterback, has been one of the sensations of the grid campaign. He's probably the best back to come up from a yearling team in Virginia in years, and a triple-threater in every sense of the word. His passing, kicking and running have been sensational, and his dash of 101 yards for a touchdown against South Carolina on a fake-kick play may go into the record books as the longest run of 1936.

V. M. I. has three other brilliant ball toters in Roberson and Clark, the seniors, and Kovar, another sophomore star.

Terp Backs Good, Too

BUT Maryland also has its share of speed and color in its backfield with Bill Guckeyson, Coleman Headley, Charlie Ellinger and John Gormley, last year's regular quartet; Jim Meade and Charlie Weidinger, a pair of scintilating sophs, and Waverly Wheeler and Ed Daly, who have displayed their prowess in many games.

Probably the outstanding linesmen on the teams are Willis, Maryland's great all-around end and pass snagger, and Farley, V. M. I. guard who could play on any man's eleven.

There, of course, are others on both teams with marked grid ability and, as far as could be forecast when this was written, a 50-50 contest is in sight. Maryland had a tough time beating a less capable V. M. I. team last year, 6 to 0.

Maryland and V. M. I. first met back in 1906, just 30 years ago, and have played 14 games in all. Of these the Old Liners have won eight, the Cadets four, and two have ended in ties.

Play Thrilling Game

PROBABLY the most thrilling battle ever staged between the Old Liners and Cadets, one that many of the alumni will recall with a thrill, was played back in 1916 at College Park when Maryland won, 15 to 9.

In that game, Maryland led 3 to 0 and 3 to 2 early in the contest, trailed 6 to 9 at the half and was in command in the last part of the battle. Michael made Maryland's only touchdown, Jamie Smith kicked a field goal and Untz Brewer booted two.

Others to play for Maryland were Capt. Lyman Oberlin, M. Rich, Ralph Into, C. C. Tarbutton, A.A. Murrell, H. M. (Fuzzy) Coster, W. M. Kishpaugh, W. B. Posey, Dutch Axt, Hobby Derrick and Ike McDonald. R. S. Dearstyne was manager and J. H. Remsburg was assistant manager.

Oberlin and Brewer are all-time all-Maryland players at tackle and halfback, respectively, and some of the others were outstanding. Into transferred to Yale and became one of the finest linesmen the Elis ever had and was selected for several all-American teams.

Posey and Derrick are county agents and Axt lives just off the campus.

o

Leech, of V. M. I., Great

JIMMY LEECH, who scored V. M. I.'s touchdown, was one of the country's greatest backs and still holds the record for the number of touchdowns garnered in one season—26 in 1920.

Leech, like Brewer and a lot of others in college in 1916-17, was out for a couple of years serving in the World War. He came back to be better than ever in 1919 and 1920.

It was in the V. M. I. game that Brewer made one of the most celebrated punts on record. Standing behind his own goal line he booted the ball 95 yards from the line of scrimmage, it going out of bounds on V. M. I.'s three-yard marker. On the next play Leech booted from behind his goal.

Other members of the 1916 squad who did not get into the game against V. M. I. were Avy Williams, a great center; Andy Fletcher, a scintilating back; Stubbs, an outstanding end, all of whom were on the injured list; Bert Coggins, Leiter Aitcheson, Jimmy Stevens and McConnell.

Reunion For 1912

The class of 1912, under the leadership of Bob Tolson, President, is making plans for its twenty-fifth reunion. The first meeting of the committee in charge will be held Saturday, November 14, the annual Fall Homecoming. Plans cannot be started too soon. How about your class?

"I Would Like To Know"

this key assignment to our complete satisfaction.

Waverley Wheeler, another Tech H. S. boy showed rapid improvement last fall in his first year of football and he will furnish acceptable replacement at halfback.

From the freshman team of last year Jim Meade, of Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Maryland, has lived up to the great promise he gave, and, with the experience he will gain this fall, bids fair to be given a place among Maryland's greatest backs. He lugs 190 pounds around like a sprinter, loves to play, and above all is a team player.

Charlie Weidinger, a quarterback, and Fred Hewitt, halfback, have really exceeded our fondest hopes and each bids fair to be worthy successors along with Meade to the five great backs we lose this year.

Our season closes on December 5, with Western Maryland in Baltimore. The rest of the schedule you know. As to the outcome "I would like to know."

Heinie Miller, New Coach of Varsity Boxing Team, Comes In For High Praise

APPOINTMENT of Maj. Harvey L. (Heinie) Miller as boxing coach at Maryland has met with compliments on all sides. Here is what the Washington Star had to say about him:

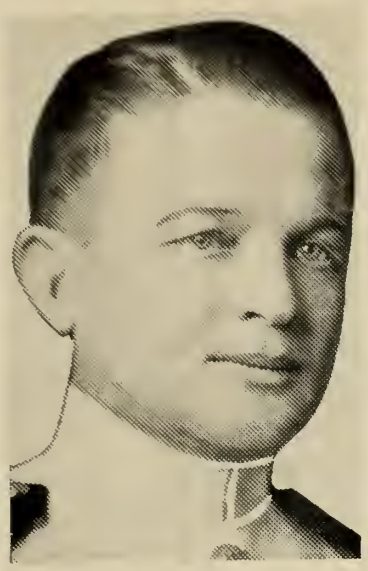
"Maryland's ring destiny has assumed a rosy hue with the appointment of Miller, who, despite participation in 205 bouts, is unmarked by the usual cauliflower ears of veteran pugilists. Miller intends to eliminate the off-balance, wild swinging phase of collegiate fighting and instruct the Terps in the style of boxing that carried him to several titles.

"Thus, with Miller's appointment local collegiate clouting has been placed on a new high plane, with Eddie Lafond, Catholic University coach and local referee, also well versed in scientific noggin-knocking.

"Miller, secretary of the District Boxing Commission, long has been identified with boxing. As a fighter, he lost but six encounters while winning the bantamweight championship of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and the professional featherweight and lightweight titles of the Far East.

Keeps Up With Game

"A referee for the past 30 years, Heinie has served as the third man in the ring for the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association and the Southern Conference since 1925. He is a former sport's editor and boxing writer and veteran of the World War. He also saw service in Cuba, the Philippines, China, Nicaragua and Mexico and at present is a major in the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve.



Maj. Harvey L. Miller

"Succeeding Capt. John W. Harmony, Old Line coach for four years, who was ordered to the Army school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Miller will be assisted by Lyman McAboy, former Maryland mittman, who tutored the freshman squad last year."

Attractive Program Planned for Alumni

HOMECOMING "On the Hill" will be a real assembly of old grads on Saturday, Nov. 14, at College Park. On this occasion the annual gridiron classic between the Virginia Military Institute and the Terrapins will be one of the attractive features of the day. The Kaydets have a flashy aggregation which will call on the snapping Terps for real football.

Plans for the day call for many colorful and interesting events. Alumni Registration and headquarters, prior to the game, will be in the Ritchie Coliseum. Here tickets for the Alumni sections will be on sale until 1.00 P. M. All seats will be in good sections but those desiring the "Old 50 yard line seats" are advised to write the Athletic office in advance, sending a check with the order. First come first served!

Float Parade

Between the halves of the game a colorful pageant of floats will be presented by the sororities, fraternities, and student organizations. Prizes will be offered by the Athletic Association for several places in the competition.

Following the game a real alumni mixer and get together will be held in the Girls' Field House. Here Alumni, their wives, husbands, and friends, will assemble for chats with faculty members and schoolmates. For the convenience of the ladies, Miss Stamp, Dean of Women, offers the facilities of the new girls dormitory, which is only a short distance from the Gym.

Buffet Supper

At 5.00 P. M. the Annual "M" Club meeting will convene in the Ritchie Coliseum. Several matters of interest and importance to former letter men will be discussed and the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held. Immediately following the meeting an alumni buffet supper will be served in the Girls' Field House at a nominal charge of 75c per person.

The shining social event of the program will be the Homecoming Dance for Alumni and students in the Ritchie Coliseum, which will be the first time a dance has ever been held in the Coliseum. This spacious building will be elaborately decorated and lighted for the gala occasion. Dan Gregory and his popular dance orchestra from Harrisburg, Pa., will provide music supplemented with comedy and vocal entertainment.

Several lucky number dances have been planned for which prizes will be given. There will be one for the alumni, one for the football squad, and another for the student body in general. Noise makers, novelty hats and things essential for a gala occasion will be provided all for a cost of $1.50 per couple. All events for the entire day will not cost more than $5.20 per couple.

Committees in charge of various affairs are as follows:

"M" Club meeting, Lewis W. Thomas and Dr. E. N. Cory.

Buffet supper, Colonel L. M. Silvester, Geary Eppley, K. A. Besley, and Dr. Cory.

Dance Committee: H. B. Shipley, R. W. Axt, E. M. Zalesak, G. F. Pollock.

Undergraduate "M" men on the dance committee are Ed Fletcher, Alton Rabbitt, and Bud Hammerlund.

R. O. T. C. Boys Win Many Honors

By Maj. Howard Clark, 2nd

WHEN the Maryland boys returned from the annual summer encampment for Advanced R. O. T. C. students at Fort Washington, they brought with them the lion's share of the honors.

Out of a total enrollment of 431 men from 22 universities, 49 men from Maryland won 24 prizes, or 35% of the total number of awards for military and athletic attainments.

Using the regular army service rifle, four men of the unit qualified as expert riflemen, 14 as sharpshooters and 24 as marksmen, for a percentage of 87½ which was not only the record for the camp, but also set a new record for rifle marksmanship qualifications in R. O. T. C. camps for the Third Corps Area. The four expert riflemen who won the right to compete in the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, were Raymond Davis, E. F. Mueller, Wilson C. Clark, and W. G. Calder.

On the pistol range, Maryland was surpassed only by Penn State, who have a pistol range on their campus for practice. Thirty-six Maryland men qualified for a percentage of 73.4. Only two Marylanders had ever fired a .45-calibre service pistol before going to camp.

Outstanding on the rifle and pistol range was Raymond Davis, who won the camp championship in both. With the rifle, Davis and Mueller were tied for top honors which were decided in favor of the former on his 200 yards' standing score, was one point higher than Mueller's record at that range.

In addition to the above honors, the Champion Rifle Squad was composed of all Maryland men—Mueller, Kelly, Dial, Berger, Sinsheimer, Scott, Cooke, and Webb.

The outstanding individual honor was won by Harold L. Kelly of Silver Springs, who was named the camp Honor Student. Kelly, a senior this year, is a member of the boxing squad and colonel of the R. O. T. C. regiment.

Jumping over to the athletic awards, we find Maryland winning the volley ball tournament and horseshoe championship. Two men were placed on the camp baseball team; R. B. Graves won the 115 pound boxing honors; and the Terrapin swimmers captured four first places in the tank tournament.

Basket-ball and Ring Combinations will Start with Experienced Talent

WHILE FOOTBALL is getting the call now, Coach Burton Shipley of the basketers and Maj. Harvey Miller, the new boxing mentor, are thinking about the seasons in their respective sports.

Boxing workouts will start in the near future and some basketball practice will be held before the gridiron season is over.

Both sports have sufficient leftovers around which to build good teams. There are seven letter men left in basket-ball. However, Bernie Buscher and Vic Willis, the two big scorers of the Terps, are lost. Buscher was graduated last June and Willis, now shining on the grid, has played his allotted time on the court.

Guckeyson Will Play

Al Waters, Ben Allen and Charlie Keller, who do not play football, and Waverly Wheeler, Bill Bryant, Fred Thomas and John McCarthy, who do, are the seven 1935-36 letter men. Bill Guckeyson, who won his letter in his soph year and who did not play last season, also plans to throw them through the hoop.

George Knepley, a fine forward, will be the principal addition to come up from the freshman aggregation. Eddie Johnson, son of the Big Train, also is a good prospect.

There is a letter man in nearly every class of the boxing squad with the heavyweight division offering the biggest problem.

Football To Be Broadcast

Four of Maryland's football battles will go on the air this fall over station WBAL in Baltimore.

With Don Riley, prominent sports commentator, at the microphone, the following Terrapin games will go over the airlanes: November 14—Virginia Military Institute; November 21—Georgetown, and December 5—Western Maryland.

The broadcasts will come direct from the playing field as the game progresses, and not merely be relayed telegraph reports.

Grads Seek Regular Army Commissions

A year ago Representative Thomason instituted in Congress a bill, later to be known as the Thomason Act, which was beneficial to the Officers Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army. This Act provides for commissioning 1,000 R. O. T. C. graduates throughout the United States for a period of one year. At the end of the appointment, an undetermined number will be chosen for regular army commissions.

The University of Maryland was notified that a quota of five would be chosen. As time went on the caliber of men graduating from Maryland so impressed the army personnel that sixteen men were finally chosen.

Through the cooperation of Colonel Patch, we are able to give the names of those who have accepted the appointments and their post assignments as follows:

From the class of '36, John M. Firmin, Brady J. Dayton, Ernest R. Eaton, William A. Hart, Francis D. Shoemaker, Joseph H. Morgan are stationed at Fort Howard, Md. Arthur B. House, '33, is also at the same post.

At Fort George G. Meade, we find Ray F. Chapman, '35; William R. Beall and Raymond F. Bartelmes, both of '36. Thaddeus R. Dulin, '35, and Talbert A. Smith, '33, are at Fort Washington. John Simpson, '35, is at Fort Myer, Va.

Women's Dorm Needs Name

Suggestions are now in order for a name for the new women's dormitory. One name recently suggested by Clifton E. Fuller, '96, of Cumberland, Md., was Martha Washington, in honor of the wife of the first President of the United States. The University authorities are anxious to give it a name associated with colonial history, but are partial to a name prominent in colonial affairs in Maryland.

Coeds Take Scholastic Honors

To the coeds go the spoils for scholastic honors "on the hill' for 1935-36. A survey of last year's student grades by the registrar's office showed that sorority women stand well above their fraternity brethren. Not only was the sorority average above the level of male society members, but the lowest rating women's club was substantially higher than the smartest fraternal group.

Although below the women's average, including non-sorority students, fraternity men received considerably better grades than non-fraternity men.

The standings follow:

All Sororities 2.717	All Fraternities 2.236
All Women 2.459	All Men 2.188
Non-Sorority Women 2.402	Non-Fraternity Men 2.226

Sorority and Fraternity Standing:

Beta Pi Sigma	2.985
Alpha Xi Delta	2.866
Delta Delta Delta	2.801
Kappa Delta	2.658
Kappa Kappa Gamma	2.630
Alpha Omicron Pi	2.555
Sigma Alpha Mu	2.526
Phi Sigma Kappa	2.522

Frosh Grid Team Appears Better Than Last Season

MARYLAND'S frosh footballers, showing signs of displaying a much better combination than the victory-less eleven of last year, were tuning up to play Virginia Freshman on October 16 when this was written.

Numbered among the leading prospects is John Carliss, a halfback, who is a brother of Ernie who started as a Maryland tackle several years ago.

Another fine prospect is Pershing Mondorff, a youth from Emmitsburg, Md. High who never played football before but who has all the earmarks of a comer.

Mondorff was born during the World War and was named for Gen. Pershing.

Games listed to follow the opener with the Cavaliers are:

October 30—Richmond U. Frosh, College Park.

November 6—Georgetown Frosh, College Park.

November 13—Washington and Lee Frosh, Lexington, Va.

November 21—V. M. I. Frosh, College Park (11 A. M.).

University Coached Dairy Team Finishes Seventh

Maryland's 4-H Club dairy judging team won seventh place in the twenty-eighth annual National Dairy Exposition which was held in Dallas, Texas, Monday.

Howard C. Barker and Mylo S. Downey of the Extension Service coached the team, while H. Morrison Carroll, county agent of Harford County, and an alumnus of the college, accompanied the team on its trip.

Composing the team were James W. Davis of Rock, Maryland, Frank Steles of Rockville, Maryland, and William Hansel, alternate, of Vales Summit, Maryland.

Knapp A Prominent Alumnus

The late Charles H. Knapp, prominent Baltimore attorney, business man and president of the Baltimore Orioles and International Baseball League, was a graduate of the University Law School in the class of 1895. Mr. Knapp, a lifelong resident of Maryland, was born and raised in Allegany County.

¶ Quite successful as a journalist is Thomas "Pat" Rooney, '33, who has a position with The Sophistocrat, a Washington magazine.

It's a Maryland Tradition!

After the game, in the evening, at lunch, at any and all times Marylanders get together you'll find them at the Varsity Grill—newly renovated. Your school spirit cannot be par until you are a regular patron.

University Library Given 200 Volume Collection

Two hundred volumes from the library of the late Dr. Samuel Sutherland Buckley, '93, have been presented to the University Library by his daughters, Mrs. Helen Buckley Rose and Mrs. Dorothy Buckley Smith. The gift also includes several bulletins and pamphlets.

Dr. Buckley was formerly a professor of veterinary science at the University, and the books donated by his daughters deal with this subject. They are now housed in the offices of the Department of Dairy and Animal Husandry.

Frosh Tie Virginia, 6-6

Although staked to a one touchdown lead when Joe Carliss flicked a pass to Franny Beamer for a second period score, Maryland's freshman footballers fell before a last quarter Virginia yearling attack to have their initial season effort end in a 6-6 tie, Friday.

Evans Studies And Works

Warren Evans, Maryland's greatest quarter-miler of recent years, is doing advanced work and is helping Burt Shipley in the football "clinic". He has had his alloted time in track for the Terps.

¶ William S. Hill, Jr., '27, has taken a position with the Federal Trade Commission in Washington, D. C. He was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas O'Neill announce the arrival of Richard Thomas O'Neill on August 7, 1936. Mrs. O'Neill was formerly Jane Hammack, '30, a member of A. O. Pi. Johnnie was president of the S. G. A. during his stay on the campus, and a member of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity. He is now employed in the U. S. War Department in Washington, D. C.

Non-Scouting Agreements

Maryland has non-scouting agreements with two of its football foes this year. Florida, slated in Gainesville as "homecoming" on October 31, and Washington and Lee, which will be met in the Baltimore Stadium on Thanksgiving Day, November 26.

Two-And-Half Threat Man

Frank Dobson, head football coach, calls Jim Meade, big soph, a two-and-a-half threat man. Jim can "carry the mail" and kick in approved style, but has yet to perfect his forward passing. Dobson expects Jim to add the other half by next season.

Deceased Alumnus

Frederick Conrad Herzog, '27, a member of the "M" Club and Sigma Nu Fraternity, died from acute heart attack during the latter part of the summer. Not known until after his death that a blood clot in his heart was the actual cause, an unavoidable circumstance.

At the time of his death he was national advertising manager for the Washington Herald, a position he held for five years. He was an active Mason and a member of the Kenwood Country Club.

Freddy took a keen interest in student affairs while an undergraduate. He was president of the Interfraternity Council, manager of the track team and won his varsity letter on the gridiron.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Ruth Barnard, '29, of Perryville, Md., a member of the A. O. Pi Sorority.

With a sense of great loss to the Alumni Association, is mingled sincere condolences to his bereaved wife, relatives and friends.

Errors « « «

Constructive reminders of errors which appear in the ALUMNI NEWS are always helpful and appreciated. Whether these errors be intentional or typographical they should not go unnoticed.

In the October issue the editor's attention was called to a grammatical error "to who" which should have read "to whom." This was typographical. However, only one alumnus wrote the editor about it and he failed to sign his name; therefore, it is not possible to publicly give proper credit to the observing person.

Five thousand copies of the NEWS were circulated and only one, as far as I know, observed the error. Now what does this indicate? The class of 1927 gets the credit for having an alumnus who reads the NEWS from cover to cover and is further a good observer.

Gertrude Chesnut Resigns

Miss Gertrude Chesnut, who has for nine years capably fulfilled her position at the University of Maryland in the Bureau of Information, has resigned her position here to become Women's Editor of the New York Office of Transradio Press Service.

After a year, possibly, in which Gertrude will learn the ropes as a staff writer in the comparatively new field of radio news, a branch of the service may be established in Washington.

Miss Chesnut is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, and of the clubs in the College of Home Economics. She also was a member of the Women's Athletic Association and the Y. W. C. A. Her assistance has been inestimably valuable to the Alumni Association.

Her departure, which happens to be the day after Homecoming, brought a great loss to this University. On behalf of the Alumni Association, the NEWS extends to her the best wishes for all possible success.

H. M. Davis, '74, Oldest Graduate, Dies

Horace Mosell Davis, 85-year-old retired Montgomery County school teacher and oldest living graduate of the University of Maryland, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Marshall Hersperger, October 9, 1936.

A native of Frederick County, Davis attended the university when it was known as Maryland Agricultural College and graduated in 1874. He taught in Montgomery County schools for a time and then returned to college to receive his M. A. degree in 1877.

He went to California shortly after obtaining his degree and taught for six years, returning to Montgomery County in 1884 to take up farming and to teach at Poolesville School, a position he held for 26 years. He also served as a vestryman at St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Hersperger, he is survived by one son, Frank I. Davis, former clerk of the Montgomery County Police Court and now an employee in the county treasurer's office, and two great-grandchildren.

Extension Service Has Active Season

THE EXTENSION SERVICE of the University, under the leadership and direction of Dr. Thomas B. Symons, '02, has been especially active during the summer months. During the month of June more than 700 women from every county in the State attended the fourteenth annual Rural Women's Short Course. One of the highlights of this event was an address by U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings, '10.

In August the Extension Service assisted in entertaining a large delegation of grange leaders from the States of Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York upon the occasion of the tenth annual meeting of the Middle Atlantic Grange Lecturers' Association. More than 400 grangers attended the meeting, 50 of whom were from Maryland. Albert A. Ady, '26, assistant county agent for Montgomery County and lecturer for the Maryland State Grange, took a most active part in making the visiting grangers feel at home in Maryland.

Immediately preceding the Grange conference the campus was the scene of much activity when nearly 500 4-H Club boys and girls from all sections of the State held their eighteenth annual Club Week at the University under the auspices of the Extension Service. Here again Mr. Ady took an active part as well as the following other Maryland alumni: Warren Myers, '30; Mylo Downey, '27; Wheeler Ensor, '33; Harry Myers, '28; Charles Remsburg, '26, Isabel Bewick, '30, and Elizabeth Johnson, '35.

Stanford, '99, Dies

At the age of 54, death took the life of Harry R. Stanford, '99, during the past summer. His death was due to complications from pneumonia. He was born in Boston, but has been a resident of Washington, D. C., since childhood.

He graduated from the University in 1899, and was a sponsor of the class medal to the student winning the annual individual competitive drill. At the time of his death, he was president and owner of the Stanford Paper Co. He was buried at Leesburg, Va.

Student Parachute Artist Amazes Homecoming Crowd

One undergraduate probably drew more attention than did any of the 9,000 returning alumni at the Homecoming game.

All eyes were turned upward at half time as Kim Scribner, freshman engineer, prepared to make his entrance to the game. At an altitude of 8,000 feet the Old Line birdman bailed out of the Mt. Vernon Airways new Stinson Relant while the throng below watched.

Intending to land upon or near the playing field Kim did not reckon with the stiff wind which swept from the southwest.

The wind carried him beyond the Stadium and behind the Rossbourg Inn where the silk caught the telephone wires and roughly dumped him about 20 feet to the ground.

Doctor Cole Dies

Dr. G. R. Lee Cole, '87, M. D., died at his home in Washington, D. C. He was 72 years old. For 50 years he has been a practicing physician in Washington, and leaves a most enviable record.

During his entire life as a doctor, he was active in many medical societies. He kept his medical interest alive by teaching in the National College of Medicine, now a part of George Washington University.

He served as a surgeon in the District National Guard during the Spanish American War. At the time of his death, he was actively practicing medicine.

Dick Hunt was elected president of the student Democratic Club.

Other officers were chosen as follows: vice-president, Ed Collins; secretary, Eleanor Quirk; treasurer, Kenneth Belt; chairman of the board of governors, Carlisle Humelsine.

« « HOMECOMING---A GREAT SUCCESS » »

MARYLAND'S fourteenth annual Homecoming on November 14 was the most colorful ever held in Byrd Stadium since its dedication in 1923 to H. C. "Curley" Byrd, '08, now president of his Alma Mater. The "Old Line" holiday spirit was entered into wholeheartedly by alumni and students. The cooperation of the many student organizations extended old grads a most enthusiastic welcome. Every function during the day was well attended, and every sorority and fraternity had a packed house.

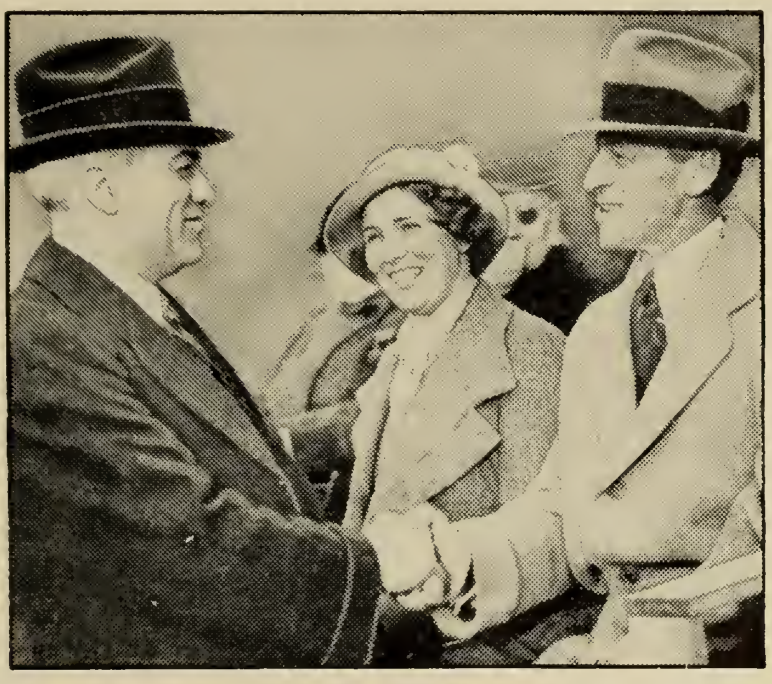
Alumni began to arrive as early as Friday afternoon to make it a real week-end. Early Saturday morning the old grads assembled at the Ritchie Coliseum to swap greetings and yarns. As fast as registrations were recorded, the names were posted on a blackboard to make it easier for the alumni to see who was on hand. This feature proved quite helpful in getting old acquaintances together. The returning throng was led by J. B. Gray, '75, oldest living alumnus, and the father of two sons who are graduates. Other prominent and notable alumni among the returning old grads were Senator Millard E. Tydings, '10; Hon. W. P. Cole, '10, U. S. Congressman; Dr. W. W. Skinner, '95, Hon. Henry Holzapfel, Jr., '93, member of the Board of Regents; F. H. Dryden, '09, State Administrator of the Social Security Administration.

The loss of the football game to the Flying Squadron of V. M. I. only partially marred the spirit of the day. The game contained many thrilling plays and the crowd was held breathless until the final whistle. Maryland's 7 point lead was not matched until the final period when the Kaydets went on the fly to score. A penalty on Maryland was the break which the Kaydets promptly took advantage to put across the winning score. With but a few minutes to go the Terps started a drive which only time stopped.

During half-time, one of the day's outstanding colorful events was presented. A float parade of various designs was participated in by fraternities, sororities and other student organizations. The array of artistic, historic and comic floats was led by Maryland's famous band. Prizes were awarded to Alpha Tau Omega for the most comic, A. O. Pi won the artistic award, and the Day Dodgers, the historic.

Immediately after the game the annual "M" Club meeting was held in the environs of the Trophy Room of the Ritchie Coliseum. Lewis W. Thomas, '28, president, was re-elected unanimously for his second term.

The enjoyable gathering of the day for old grads was the Alumni Mixer and Get-together held in the Girls' Field House at 5 P. M., followed by a buffet supper. Here everybody had a chance to meet schoolmates, faculty members and casually discuss the University happenings. More than 300 alumni, faculty, and friends of the University attended this popular affair.



H. C. "Curley" Byrd, '08, greets M. E. Tydings, '10, as Mrs. Tydings looks on Crowning the colorful events of the day was the Homecoming Dance, held for the first time in the Ritchie Coliseum. Dan Gregory's popular orchestra from Harrisburg provided rhythm and entertainment for the dance. Three prizes, spot dances, and a Paul Jones added a great deal to the spirit of the occasion. Miss Edith Remson, lady friend of Henry G. Knoche, was awarded the prize for the Alumni Dance. The prize for the football dance was awarded to Miss Edith Gram, a coed and dancing partner of "Bill" Bryant, an end on the team. Jack Norris came forward with the lucky number for the prize open to all attending the dance. At 12 o'clock the lights went out and everybody said good night in a fond embrace for the greatest Homecoming ever held.

Those to register their presence for the day are as follows: Class of 1875, John B. Gray; Class of 1888, H. B. McDonnell; Class of 1892, F. W. Besley; Class of 1894, Arthur S. Brown, Chas. W. Cairnes; Class of 1895, Roland L. Harrison, P. C. Prough; Class of 1896, Thaddeus G. Crapster, Clifton E. Fuller, W. T. S. Rollins; Class of 1897, Grenville Lewis, Benj. "M" Club Re-elects Thomas, '28, President

IN the environs of the trophys of the past, Lewis W. "Knocky" Thomas, '28, former star of the gridiron and cinder path was re-elected president of the "M" Club. A very good representation of the Club's membership was present for the fourteenth annual business session. Dr. E. N. Cory, '09, was re-elected secretary.

President Thomas gave the club a resumé of activities during the past year, and outlined some interesting proposals for the ensuing year. Outstanding, was the plan for soliciting life membership in the club.

Professor Geary Eppley, '18, director of athletics, was called on to give the Club a talk on the athletic achievement and proposed policies of the University, which he did in a very comprehensive way.

The meeting adjourned at 6 P. M. to attend the Alumni Mixer and Buffet Supper which was being held in the Girls' Field House. This was followed by the annual Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the "M" Club. The dance brought to a close the greatest Homecoming the University has had in many years.

Ruth Kreiter To Head Debate Club

At elections staged Wednesday, Ruth Kreiter of Washington was named to head the Calvert Debate Club for 1936-37.

Fay Snyder was chosen secretary to fill the vacancy left by Ruth Kreiter, who resigned that position to accept the executive post. Alan Brown will continue to serve as vice-president of the organization.

Washington Alumni Hold Get-together

Frank Dobson, head coach of football was the principal speaker at a rally held by the Washington Alumni Club, early in November at the Hamilton Hotel in Washington. Many of the old boys were on hand for a general get-together, and gabfest on the current subject, football.

President Douglas Wallop, Jr., '19, presided. The get-together started off with a buffet supper with a good supply of beer as the beverage. Dinty Koons, '29, secretary, and Charley Bishop, '30, were the able assistants.

The old round robbin discussion was aided by Jack Faber, '30, all active with the football squad. Geary Epply, '18, director of athletics, gave some inside information as to how Alumni can help in having good athletics at Maryland.

Plans were discussed when another such affair would be held during the basket-ball and boxing season, which is the next attractive program. Do not miss these functions. Keep in contact with fellow Alumni by attending these informal gatherings.

Where Were You?

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Everything about Homecoming last Saturday was so enjoyable with the possible exception of the football score, that I can not miss this opportunity to tell those who were not there what they missed. From the time you arrived on the campus until you left, there was a real holiday spirit among students and Alumni.

More old Grads were on hand than I have ever seen at College Park, and I for one certainly did enjoy seeing many old faces, and getting acquainted with new ones.

The program for the day was well arranged and Lewis W. (Knocky) Thomas, '28, president of the "M" Club and myself had the best cooperation possible from our alumni on the campus.

I was personally impressed by the splendid spirit exhibited by the student body. It is something that makes the old back-bone tingle with thoughts of our own undergrad day. I was actually 10 years younger that day.

Those of you who were not there were missed by many and missed yourself a most enjoyable time. I warn you, do not let it happen again. See you next month.

Sincerely yours,
FRANK HINES, '00,
President, Alumni Association.

Freshman Class Elects

Robert Lodge, from Baltimore, was elected president of the freshman class at the first major election of the year. The largest vote in the history of class elections was recorded. Carl Goller won the vice-presidency while Sarah Ann Vaiden lead in the race for secretary.

Baltimore "M" Men Hold Rally

The Baltimore Chapter of the "M" Club held a pre-Homecoming rally at Collins Restaurant in Baltimore. No speeches, but a round table discussion about past and present football highlights.

Arthur Shanklin, '90, and Dr. Arthur Hebb, '91, two old timers marveled at the great changes in football since their days. There was a great deal of interest in the moving picture of the Maryland-Florida game which was shown.

Lewis W. "Knocky" Thomas, '28, attended the meeting and gave a short talk on the proposed Homecoming program. He urged the group to have more gatherings which will endeavor to kindle more spirit in the University affairs.

Flying A. T. O's.

Bill "Country" Moore, '26, started a tradition in the Maryland chapter of Alpha Tau Omega which was maintained for five years, when he entered the Air Corps Training School at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas.

Bill was the first of the A. T. O's. to survive the "toughest training" in the world; government statistics show that only forty-six per cent of these entering the flying school ever graduate.

Ed "Budnitz" Wheeler, '22, and Chalmers "Han'some" Hughes, '22, were the next two to go to Texas and upheld the tradition by graduating with honors. Joe Caldara, '31, followed by Bob Allen, '32, and George Hargis, '31, entered the Air Corps Training Center, a combination of Randolph and Kelly Fields which made the school the most outstanding military flying instruction institution in the world.

Since Hargis finished no more of the A. T. O. men have gone into flying and most of those who followed the profession have abandoned it. Bill Moore is the only one flying for a profession; Hughes is in the Department of Commerce; Ed Wheeler is a lumber man in Bel Air; Bob Allen is a safety engineer in New York. George Hargis is project engineer for the City of Frederick and Joe Caldara is a sales supervisor for the B. F. Goodrich Company in Washington, D. C.

This is the pride of A. T. O.: that none of its members who entered the flying school ever "washed out."

Forces Leading To The Establishment of Maryland Agricultural College

By GEORGE FOGG, '26.

LELAND G. WORTHINGTON, '25, in a recent master's thesis, has brought together an enormous amount of material relating to the events and people who finally established the Maryland Agricultural College. Now the College Park Schools of the University.

He shows how the foundation of the school traces directly from the reckless agricultural practices of the early colonists, who, with almost limitless areas of land available, saw no reason to husband the productive capacities of the soil. But soon the land was all taken up, and the State suffered a period of severe agricultural depression. For relief, the agricultural leaders of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries turned to means of disseminating the more highly developed principles of European agriculture.

One of the first means to this end, was the establishment of many agricultural societies and periodicals. One of the most important of the latter was the American Farmer, founded by John S. Skinner.

The next proposition was for the establishment of numerous agricultural schools and pattern farms. One of the leaders in this movement was Littleton D. Teackle, who succeeded only partially in his project. For, though he was instrumental in reorganizing the State school program, and was made superintendent of public instruction, he was not authorized to inaugurate any program of agricultural education.

In 1833 the legislature authorized the construction of a geological map and survey of the State for the purpose of correctly estimating its agricultural resources.

Along this line, the State, in 1848, established the office of agricultural chemist, and appointed Mr. James Higgins of Anne Arundel County to the post. For the sum of $1,500 per year this gentleman was expected "to analyze specimens of each variety of soil, marl or other mineral of vegetable deposit; to deliver one public lecture in each election district and a course of public lectures at each county town and some central place in Baltimore County, and permit the clerk of the levy court or tax commissioner to take a copy of his lectures for publication and preservation."

In the meantime numerous agricultural societies and farmers clubs had been educating the public mind to the necessity for training in efficient agriculture if the State was to avoid further loss. Although this general movement began before 1800, the first date of great importance to us is September 5, 1848, when Charles B. Calvert called to order the Maryland State Agricultural Convention in Baltimore. Out of this meeting grew the Maryland State Agricultural Society, which, among other things, petitioned the State and Federal Governments for the establishment of an agricultural college and experimental farm.

Failing in both directions, the society passed several caustically censuring resolutions and set about seeking independent means for the establishment of such a school.

Among the numerous proposals brought forward to this end was the plan to purchase Mount Vernon, then in rather bad condition. Finally, however, the society decided to seek a Maryland charter for the establishment of such a school by private subscription under its own general control, Governor Ligon recommended in his message of January 2, 1856, that "something be done . . . for the promotion of our agricultural education." Backed by the American Farmer and the Maryland State Agricultural Society, Colonel Sothoron, on January 15, 1856, introduced into the Senate the bill which eventually established the Maryland Agricultural College. It became a law on March 6, 1856.

Geoffrey O'Hara Thrills Students

By CHRIS KEMPTON

A vibrant, tall, white-haired musician stepped out on the University stage; said a few words; and held an eager audience in the palm of his hand.

The man was Geoffrey O'Hara, nationally known composer of such songs as "K-K-K-Katy," and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride." Mr. O'Hara spoke on the subject, "Everyone a Composer," illustrating cleverly on the piano.

Geoffrey O'Hara was brought here by Maryland's active music director, Harlan Randall. The program consisted of Mr. O'Hara's songs and arrangements, sung by the Men's Glee Club; Women's Chorus; the mixed chorus; Mr. and Mrs. Randall; and the Washington Mixed Quartet.

More Alumni Become Contributing Members

Membership contributions to the Alumni Association continues to come into the office. The response is the greatest in the history of the association showing conclusively that the old line spirit is rapidly improving among the old graduates. As one alumnus said, "I have been riding free lounge long enough and it about time I should help pay the freight." The big train is going forward and gaining speed every day. Every alumnus is a patented passenger and the following are all ready aboard.

They would like to have you join them.

"Iron Men" Of Grid Team Feel Strain And Drop Games On Foes' Late Scores

Maryland, with shortage of line reserves, has felt the strain of its long schedule and after winning four of the first five has had to take some defeats in close games in which it could not "last" after getting out in front.

Florida was the first case at Gainesville, on October 31, when the 'Gators got a late score to win, 7 to 6, in a game in which the Terps gained more than double the ground of the winners. Injuries also hampered the Terps in this game.

A tired team got by Richmond, 12 to 0, but then ran afoul of V. M. I. on Homecoming Day, November 14, and after getting an easy early touchdown and leading 7 to 0 into the fourth quarter, finally lost out, 13 to 7.

A same kind of a fate befell the Terps on November 21 when they gave way to Georgetown, 7 to 6, when the latter blocked a kick in the last period for its touchdown. Maryland got its score in the second quarter and missed another when a touchdown pass was dropped in the end zone.

Of course, dropping a pass merely is a mechanical error that should not be criticized, probably not even mentioned, as is the fact that ties could have been gained with Florida and Georgetown had the extra point not been missed. Maryland has had 15 "iron men" do nearly all its playing and the burden has been too much.

However, the fact remains that the Terps' attack has not been as consistently effective as it was in past years, despite the presence of the great Bill Guckeyson and other such unusually fine backs as Coleman Headley, Jim Meade, Charlie Ellinger, John Gormley and Edmond Daly.

Results of the past games:

Maryland, 20; St. John's, 0.
Maryland, 7; Virginia Tech, 0.
Maryland, 0; North Carolina, 14.
Maryland, 21; Virginia, 0.
Maryland, 20; Syracuse, 0.
Maryland, 6; Florida, 7.

Basket-ball Season Gets Early Start--- Two Games Slated Before Christmas

While football was still in progress, Maryland was getting ready to open its basket-ball schedule, games being slated before Christmas with Richmond at Richmond on December 17 and University of Baltimore at College Park the next night.

Only three of the seven 1935-36 letter men are working out at present. Fred Thomas and Charlie Keller, guards, and Al Waters, forward, as Bill Bryant, Waverly Wheeler and John McCarthy are with the Varsity grid squad and it is not expected that Ben Allen, from the Pharmacy School in Baltimore, will play this season. It is difficult for him to get away to practice enough to fit into the team, although he is a highly capable performer.

Coach Burton Shipley expects to have Bill Guckeyson and possibly Coleman Headley for his basket-ball combination. Guckeyson, who won his letter in his sophomore year, plans to play, and Headley, a really fine court guard, hopes to unless he is prevented from doing so by indoor track.

In addition to the letter men who started early toil, a number of last year's frosh are getting in their licks. Leaders among the rookies are George Knepley, an exceptional performer; Eddie Johnson, son of the great pitcher, and Bob Neilson and Milton Mullitz.

When "Ship" gets his full array, he should be able to build another one of his able machines but the quintet is facing a handicap in playing Richmond and Baltimore so soon after the football campaign ends.

Here is the complete schedule with last year's scores in parenthesis:

December 17—Richmond U., Richmond, Va. (28-24).
December 18—Baltimore U., College Park (55-33).
January 6—Johns Hopkins, College Park (45-40).
January 8—Washington and Lee, Lexington, Va., (27-30).
January 9—V. M. I., Lexington, Va. (53-32).
January 14—Western Maryland, College Park.
January 16—Duke, College Park (38-34).
January 20—Washington College, College Park (56-30).
January 23—Virginia, College Park (40-34).
January 28—North Carolina State, Raleigh, N. C.
January 29—North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.
January 30—Duke, Durham, N. C.
February 3—Navy, Annapolis (32-20).
February 6—North Carolina, College Park (32-44).
February 9—William and Mary, College Park (41-39).
February 13—V. M. I., College Park (44-29).
February 18—Washington and Lee, College Park (53-54).
February 20—Georgetown, College Park (47-39).
February 23—St. John's, College Park (40-28).

Seven 1937 Grid Games At "Home"

Maryland's 1937 football schedule, which was announced just after the close of the 1935 campaign, will find the Terps doing little traveling as compared to 1936.

In fact, seven of the ten 1937 contests will be played at spots that may be called "home" gridirons. Just three actually will be played at College Park, but three others will be in the Baltimore Stadium and the tilt with Georgetown will be at Griffith Stadium in Washington.

Virginia, which was originally scheduled to visit College Park this year, "swapped" games with Maryland and consequently the 1937 tilt with the Cavaliers, which was first announced for Charlottesville, will be played at College Park.

Maryland's only trips next year will be to play V. M. I., Penn and Penn State, both of the latter being on the Maryland slate for the first time in recent years.

Here is the attractive 1937 card:

September 25—St. John's, College Park.
October 2—Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.
October 9—Western Maryland, Baltimore Stadium.
October 16—Virginia, College Park.
October 23—Syracuse, Baltimore Stadium.
October 30—Florida, College Park.
November 6—V. M. I., Lexington, Va. (11 A. M.).
November 13—Penn State, State College.
November 20—Georgetown, Griffith Stadium, Washington.
November 25—Washington and Lee, Baltimore Stadium (Thanksgiving).

¶ Waverly Wheeler, University of Maryland reserve back, is rated major league baseball material by Clark Griffith of the Washington Club. Wheeler, who is a third sacker, also is a basketball star. He is a junior.

Frosh Team Good---Cleverly Handled

Maryland had the best freshman team in recent years and the young Terps completed their schedule on November 21 with four wins and one tie.

Here is the record of the yearlings, all games being with freshman teams of other universities:

Maryland, 12; Richmond U., 6.
Maryland, 21; Georgetown, 0.
Maryland, 6; Washington and Lee, 6.
Maryland, 13; V. M. I., 7.

About 40 aspirants remained out through the entire season and while the talent was above the average for Maryland, it was fine coaching and clever organization work by Al Woods, former Old Line star, that made the team so effective. It was a scrappy, well-trained, sportsmanlike bunch.

Here is the way that the team started its final game against V. M. I., which it pulled out of the fire by scoring two touchdowns in the last quarter:

Johnny Jones, an outstanding back and regular, was kept out of the last three game by injuries.

Terps Jam In Big Meet

Maryland, along with the Fifth Regiment, will sponsor a big indoor meet in the latter's large and beautiful armory in Baltimore on March 6.

It is expected to give main consideration to the high, prep and college athletes of this section and the Southern Conference and to have representation from the North also.

It has been a long time since a big meet has been staged in these parts and the affair should be well received.

An indoor meet is a need hereabouts, but is something that takes a lot of toil with little chance of breaking even financially.

¶ Jack Hagerty, Georgetown University coach, is the latest to cast his ballot for Bill Guckeyson, University of Maryland ace, as his No. 1 all-America backfield choice.

Hagerty, who starred as a ball toter for Georgetown in 1924, 1925, and 1926, and who played pro football for quite a spell before returning to his Alma Mater as head mentor, had this to say about the Terrapin flash:

"Guckeyson is the best back I ever have seen in college football and I've seen quite a few. You think he's just a runner and kicker, do you? Let me tell you something. He's got a great head on his football shoulders and he'll not only outrun any back I've seen, but he'll also outthink him. That's why he's the best."

Draws Record Crowd

Maryland had a record crowd of 13,000 at College Park on November 21 for its game with Georgetown. In addition to the regular stands, there were boxes along both sides of the field and bleachers were erected at both the north and south ends of Byrd Stadium. Every ticket was sold.

More than 8,000 also were on hand for the Homecoming game with V. M. I., on November 14. A parade of floats, fine cheering and other features marked this contest.

Frank DeArmey and Jim Forrester, reserve centers are the only two University of Maryland gridmen who do not take part in another varsity sport. Many figure in three pastimes and Bill Guckeyson has letters in football, basket-ball, track and baseball.

Boxers Getting Ready

Maj. Heinie Miller, head coach, and Lyman McAboy, his assistant, are busy with the boxers with the outlook for another good Terp team. Right now the weeding-out process is going on and more definite news on the mitt-men will be available for the next issue.

The Terps do not open their season until January 9, when Western Maryland will be met.

Meets, with last year's scores, if they met, are:

January 9—Western Maryland, College Park.
*January 16—Richmond U., College Park.
*January 23—North Carolina, College Park (5½-2½).
January 30—V. M. I., Lexington, Va. (7-1).
February 6—Virginia, Charlottesville (3½-4½).
*February 13—Rutgers, College Park
*February 20—Catholic U., College Park (3½-4½).
February 27—Southern Conference tourney.

*Double-header with Varsity basket-ball.

Another Clever Carliss

Johnny Carliss, ace back of the freshman football team this year, is a brother of Ernie who played for the Terps in 1928, '29 and '30, and who was an all-State tackle. Johnny, of course, is from Windber, Pa., where Ernie came from. "Snitz" Snyder, also another Windber product who was a Maryland star several years back, cheered Johnny on as the Terp yearlings beat V. M. I. on November 21.

Soccermen Triumph Over Johns Hopkins

A whirlwind last four-minute attack in which they scored three goals gave Maryland's soccermen a 3-0 victory over Hopkins booters in the opening athletic feature of Homecoming day.

¶ When the Terp footballers invaded Syracuse University this fall and won 20 to 0 many Old Liners were on hand. Among those known to be present were Dr. John F. Moore, '23, now resident doctor at the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Bath, N. Y., J. Frank Barton, '24, of the Federal Portland Cement Company of Buffalo, George Hockensmith, '33, of the Hockensmith Contracting Company of Buffalo.

¶ Frank Dobson, University of Maryland's head man of the gridiron, has been labeled "the most unruffled coach in football." "Dobbie" takes things as they come, never has any hard luck stories or alibis, has a wonderful sense of humor, and is the most unperturbed person on the field at a game. He's a rarity in the football coaching profession.

¶ John Gormley, regular fullback on the University of Maryland eleven, and Ed Daly, who for three years has pressed him for the job, are pals and roommates. Each weighs 183 pounds, but Gormley, at 6 feet, is three inches taller and a little faster.

Fellow Alumni:

As we begin the New Year, let us live the spirit of our Alma Mater, recognizing our individual reponsibility for the achievements of its aims and its objects. By so doing, the Alumni Association will be taking an integral part in the accomplishments of our University.

In my humble opinion, one of the strongest factors of our association is that it is, almost in its entirety, a voluntary organization. We have our class connections; we have our group affiliations and we have our University, the service station, all to be maintained and carried on for the service of youth. Even though we are a State institution and concentrated within the borders of our own State, we have many alumni scattered over the face of the earth, all giving some thought to the University and how it can benefit the communities of the State.

Your officers and Alumni Board are doing everything possible to advance the Association throughout the coming year; all they need is your support.

With best wishes for the New Year, I am, Sincerely yours,

FRANK HINES,'00, President.

Dental Honors

Dr. Guy O. Lyons, D. D. S., '15, has sent his daughter Elnora to the College of Home Economics and a son, Eugene D., to the Dental School. In this instance, as father goes so does his son, as Eugene was president of the Sophomore class last year and dad was the president of his class. Eugene brings home more honors to the family by attaining the highest mark in the National Board of Examiners for Sophomore Dental students and further passed the Maryland State Board with high honors. Not only is this a good reflection of the integrity of the Lyons' family, but also on the instruction at the University Dental School.

Fred Bull, '25, is now with the Maryland soil erosion project and is located at Annapolis, Md.

Home Economics Alumnae Meet At Homecoming

The College of Home Economics had its first annual alumnae home coming on November 14. An informal meeting was held at 11:30 attended by alumnae, faculty and some home economics students. At this meeting the alumnae spoke, telling what they were doing and the interesting things that had occurred since their graduation.

The following were here:

Nellie Buckey, '24, in charge of home economics, New College, Teachers College, Columbia, University. Miss Buckey was for a time in charge of the foreign travel for this group and now directs the home economics work in New York, North Carolina and Georgia. Students are sent to the latter places for experience in community life.

Charlotte Farnham Hasslinger, '34, 12 Church Lane, Pikesville, Md. Mrs. Hasslinger was a student dietitian at Emergency Hospital and at the Clubhouse for the American Association of University Women in Washington. After that and prior to her marriage she was dietitian at the Homeopathic Hospital in Washington.

Agnes McNutt Kricker, '31, 4636 Keswick Road, Baltimore, has one daughter, Carolyn Kricker.

Geraldine Parry, '31, as a student dietitian at Johns Hopkins Hospital after graduation and is now in charge of the food service at the Hackensack Hospital, Hackensack, N. J.

Miriam Lloyd Beall, '31, Silver Spring, Md., teaches home economics at Montgomery Blair High School, Silver Spring, Md.

Mildred Smith Jones, '22, Edgewater, Md., is teaching sewing under the WPA in Annapolis.

Gertrude Chestnut, '27, Hyattsville, Md., is now with the Trans-Radio Press Service, 342 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Florence Rae, '36, 4026 Roland Avenue, Baltimore, Md., is teaching in a vocational center in Baltimore.

Mary Ruth Cross, '36, has a fellowship in the College of Home Economics.

Rhea Morgan Galloway is with the Resettlement Administration under the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Elizabeth Kent, '32, teaches home economics at Pylesville, Md.

Claudine Morgan, '30, College Park, Md., teaches home economics at Bladensburg, Md.

Gertrude Nichols, '34, Boyds, Md., teaches home economics at Richards, Montgomery High School, Montgomery County.

Esther Hughes, '32, 4214 Thirty-seventh Street, Washington, D. C., is doing demonstration work with the Washington Gas Light Company.

Mrs. Mae Riddlesberger, 110 S. West Street, Carlisle, Pa. Mrs. Riddlesberger has one young son.

Helen McFerran, '34, teaching home economics in Cumberland, Md.

Mary Riley Langford, '26, 102 Franklin Street, College Park, Md., has two children, Maryland and George.

Frances Gunby Getman, '28, was a dietitian in a Veterans Hospital in the Canal Zone, lives at Balboa, Canal Zone, with her husband, Robert A. Getman.

Mary Miller Brown Riley, '26, 60 Franklin Street, Hyattsville, teaches home economics at Hyattsville.

Katherine Baker Bromley, '26, Mrs. Walter Bromley, Edgemont, Md. Mrs. Bromley was home demonstration agent with the University of Maryland Extension Service before marriage.

Carolyn Chesser, '30, 1650 Harvard Street, Director of home economics, Electric Institute, Potomac Electric Power Co.

Adalyn B. Shreve, 1316 New Hampshire Avenue, teaches home economics at the Hyattsville High School.

Betty McCall Roberts, '23, 603 Cathedral Street, Baltimore, Md., does home economics programs over WBAL, Baltimore.

Maryland Represented At Emory

Dr. Everett L. Bishop, '16, represented the University of Maryland at the Centennial Celebration of Emory University held this month in Atlanta, Ga. Dr. Bishop is also, the consulting Pathologist to Emory. This year his son entered Emory in pre-medical work. Dr. Bishop is director of the Steiner Cancer Clinic in Atlanta, Ga. He is a Georgian by birth.

President and Senate Hold Faculty Reception

Faculty members of the Baltimore and College Park branches of the University were guests at a reception given by Dr. H. C. Byrd, President, and the Senate, on the evening of December 8, 1936, at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore City. President Byrd was assisted in the receiving line by members of the Board of Regents and Senate. It was the second annual "get-together" of faculty members for the purpose of renewing friendships and getting new faculty members acquainted. Several hundred men and women attended a very enjoyable affair.

Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of the Dental School, was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Marylander To India

Madison E. Lloyd, '30, recently sailed for Calcutta, India, to undertake an important mission for the Standard-Vacuum Company. Lloyd's task is to convince the Hindu Rajahs that the hinterlands of India should have an adequate system of roads, then to persuade them that the asphalt of his company should be used in building these roads, and finally, to show them how to construct the roads. Quite a job.

Prior to his sailing, Maddie was a member of the engineering staff of the Public Highway and Improvement Company, and active in the affairs of the Maryland Alumni Club of New York.

While at Maryland, Lloyd was business manager of the "Terrapin" and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta.

Dr. Bay President Of Medical Society

Dr. Robert Parke Bay, M. D., '05, chief surgeon of Maryland General Hospital and State Industrial Accident Commission, was elected president of the Baltimore City Medical Society by a unanimous vote, a tribute of esteem. Other Maryland graduates to hold office in the Society are: Dr. Frank J. Geraghty, '26, secretary, and Dr. Julius Friedenwald, '90, honor committee.

Dr. Bay, a native of Harford County, has been practicing medicine in Baltimore since 1911, specializing in surgery. He has, also, served on the faculty of the University's Medical and Dental School. He organized the Medical Department of the Maryland National Guard and for eleven years prior to the War, was its chief surgeon. During the War he was a Major in the United States Army Medical Corp and taught at Camp Oglethorpe, Georgia.

Dr. Bay has served as vice-president of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland.

Entomologist

Dr. J. Frank Yeager, an outstanding insect physiologist, has been added to the staff of the University lecturers for this year. He is a graduate of Columbia, Yale and New York Universities. He holds a doctor's degree from the latter.

Dr. Yeager is regularly employed at the Beltsville Research Center of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He visits the campus every week for two lecture periods.

Quirk Sisters Attend Summer School At Munich

By Anna Marie, Betty and Eleanor Quirk

During the past summer it was our good fortune, accompanied by our mother, to tour France, Belgium and Germany and attend summer-school at the University of Munich. Our itinerary carried us first to Paris, which seems to be perfection in the minds of many travelers, especially ladies. The Parisians are a people of nerve, energy, wit, and keenness which makes Paris an influential city. It was, however, the talk of many travelers that tourists were not accorded the same hospitable treatment as in the other countries, especially Germany.

Buys Wedding Veil

From Paris we jumped to that official and important center—Brussels, a city built by kings. It is a city of great interest, with its collection of precious things of gold and treasures of art. The many shops and cafes line the streets and in some instances extend half-way across the street. "Here," says Eleanor, "Anna Marie (now Mrs. Warren Tydings) bought her wedding veil." From Brussels we journeyed on to Cologne, the perfume town and the most noted city on the banks of the Rhine. Then came Heidelberg, the site of the oldest and most celebrated University of Germany. It is old and not particularly impressive, but in its library is the best collection in the world of ancient documents. Following a couple more stops we arrived at that world-renowned, friendly, and good-natured city of Munich. But who wouldn't be good-natured and happy if located in that glorious Bavarian mountain climate? Here we entered the Summer School of the University of Munich, which is quite different from the Summer School of the University of Maryland.

Begin Classes

At Munich there were only 125 students enrolled, but this group represented dozens of nationalities, and as many mother tongues being spoken. German, however, was the common language, and even the three of us who were the "baby" beginners class, soon found is possible to be understood, and we went native along with the Hungarians, the Lithuanians, and the Finns. And everyone does go native there. All the boys wore the Bavarian costume of leather shorts and Tyrolean hats, while the girls wore the peasant "dirndl" dress. Of course, we all had bicycles, which is the conventional method of travel.

The University plans for almost every minute of your time during the course. Classes finished at noon, after which there were sight-seeing trips, lectures by well-known men, or "sings" where we all gathered to sing native folk songs. But the week-ends were the best. Each Friday night we had a dance, and soon we were adept at everything from the Viennese Waltz to the Polish Schottische. Then the next morning the entire enrollment of 125 would pile into trains or busses for excursions to the Bavarian Alps. You have never been cold in your life until you have been swimming in an alpine lake fed by a glacial stream. And you have never been tired until you have tried to climb an Alpine mountain with a tireless German, who was brought up climbing Alps, as your guide.

Beer Is Good

But the word "student" is a magic word there. From the first day when we were greeted by the mayor and handed the keys of the city, Munich took us in. It is a lovely city with a small-town atmosphere, and even if you don't like beer you will learn to like Munich beer. It is undisputedly the best in the world. And it cannot make you fat because you work too hard pedalling your bicycle around.

Munich left its mark on us, but the Quirks have left theirs' on Munich too, I'm afraid. We corrupted the very, very correct Oxford English of all the little German boys with our worst and most expressive American Slang!

Through Germany

Following summer school, we continued on, stopping at Luzen and Interlaken, Switzerland; Innsbruck and Salzburg, Austria; Brechtisgarden, Dresden, Berlin, and Hamburg, Germany. Of these, Dresden, the location of the famous Dresden Picture Gallery, a collection of which ranks foremost in the world, was probably the most interesting. Hamburg, our point of embarkation, is one of Germany's oldest cities but looks very modern. In fact, much to our surprise, modern architecture was quite noticeable throughout our trip.

Much of the unrest which we have heard so much about was quickly forgotten when we arrived in Munich and neither were we impressed with any war-like exhibitions while in Germany. Everything seemed quite peaceful. However, it was good to see the Statue of Liberty again.

Dean Rowland Honored

On December 18, Dr. J. M. H. Rowland, dean of the Medical School, the oldest department of the University, was honored by associates and Alumni. The day was designated as Rowland Day, and a fitting program presented. In the morning Dr. Arthur M. Shipley, professor of surgery, presided at ceremonies held in the Peabody Institute at which time a portrait in oil of Dr. Rowland was presented to the University. Dr. Charles Bagley, Jr., '04, Professor of Surgery, made the presentation address and the portrait was accepted in behalf of the University by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president.

A dinner was tendered Dr. Rowland that evening at the Belvedere Hotel with Dr. Walter D. Wise, '06, professor of surgery as toastmaster. Laudatory speeches on Dr. Rowland were given, as: "The Dean," by Dr. Alan M. Chesney, "The Physician," by Dr. Maurice C. Pincoffs, '12, "The Citizen," by Hon. Samuel K. Dennis, '03, Chief Judge of the Baltimore Supreme Bench, "The Man," by Dr. Charles Reid Edwards, '13.

Dr. Rowland was graduated from the Baltimore Medical College in 1890, and was appointed as teacher in that College in 1892. He came to the University of Maryland in 1913 as Professor of Obstetrics and was made Dean of Obstetrics in 1916. He has devoted nearly fifty years of his life to the teaching of medicine and has for thirty-six years been a specialist in obstetrics, twenty-three of which have been at the University of Maryland.

He is member of the American Medical Association, the Baltimore City and State Medical Societies, American College of Surgery and American Association of Obstetrics and Gynecology. He is medical director for the Baltimore Life Insurance Company, a member of the Advisory Board of Baltimore City Hospital, and a member of Board of County Health Department. He was a former member of the School Board of Baltimore City.

Dr. Rowland is a native of Maryland being born and raised in Cecil County.

Dame Fortune Shuns Varsity Gridmen But Season Has Some Pleasing Angles

Maryland had a 50-50 football season as far as major wins and losses were concerned, although its record stands with six games on the right side of the ledger and five on the wrong.

A clever St. John's of Annapolis eleven was beaten in the opener and then the team went on to get an even break in its series of 10 major contests in as many weeks. It was a tremendous task for a small squad, but the gridders kept up a good spirit and stuck to their guns to the finish. This took careful handling from the standpoint of condition and morale and the coaches deserve credit for their work in these phases.

It was a season—they occur now and then—in which the Terps just weren't on Dame Fortune's list. Had luck been prone to smile upon Maryland, the team might easily have won three or four more games and all that was needed in two that went the wrong way was the point after touchdown in each to have brought about ties.

In only the V. M. I. game did the Terps really play "sad" football. They started out "like a house afire" in that tilt but after getting a score, went into "seclusion" and permitted the alumni, back in large numbers for Homecoming, to see them at their worst for the season. Six games away from home preceded the contest with the Cadets and that may easily be part of the answer to their bogging down that day.

In looking over the statistics, the fact is brought out that Maryland was outgained in only one contest, that with North Carolina in which the Tarheels scored a clean cut triumph. Victory could have been achieved very easily in the other tilts lost. It is a difficult thing to recount the season without being accused of offering alibis in view of the fact that the assets for a better record were in the squad, so we will go no farther in discussing the pros and cons of victories and defeats.

Maryland's leading triumph of the year was a 20 to 0 victory over Syracuse in the Salt City. The Terps were "hot" on both attack and defense that day and played a game that would have beaten any of its foes.

Maryland had probably the smallest squad in "big league" football in the country but it had the ablest set of backs it ever has boasted and an array it may never again gather on the same outfit.

Led by Bill Guckeyson and including Coleman Headley, Charlie Ellinger, John Gormley, Jim Meade, Ed Daly, Charlie Weidinger, Waverly Wheeler and others of latent ability, the talent for a powerful, versatile and puzzling attack was presented. At times the offense was strong and flashy but it failed to show the smoothness, consistency and scoring prowess expected of it and constantly looked for. However, in every game the Terps were in there fighting to the finish and earned individual commendation even in defeat.

With Guckeyson, Headley, Ellinger, Gormley and Daly of the backfield and Vic Willis, great end, and Charlie Zulick, Ed Fletcher and John Birkland, the only three to hold down the tackle assignments this season, to be lost, the task of the coaches in a difficult 10-game card next fall will be even bigger than it was this year.

This task was accentuated because so few reserves were used during the 1936 campaign and consequently Maryland will have to jump into the 1937 season with a very limited number of gridders who have been under fire in actual combat.

In addition to being highly attractive and entailing very little travel, there is another noteworthy feature of the 1937 schedule. It will end on Thanksgiving Day against Washington and Lee. Maybe the 1938 card may be made ideal by cutting it to nine contests.

These long schedules, that almost overlap boxing and basket-ball, even get too tough for the publicity department.

March 4 to 6—Southern Conference tourney at Raleigh.

* Double-header with Varsity boxing.

Maryland Freshman Squad That Enjoyed A Successful Season

First row: Harold Molineu, Frank Skotnicki, Robert S. Brown, Bill Booze, John Smith, Bob Burns, Louis Ahalt, Bill Firmin.

Second row: Johnny Carliss, Arthur Rudy, Frank Hudak, George Lawrence, Harold Cotterman, Adam Bengoechea, Charles Cronin, William Bond, Tom Finlayson.

These boys won four games and tied their other one and will send a much greater amount of promising material to the varsity than usually is the case. At least half of them should survive the spring practice test. Some, of course, will fall by the wayside for scholastic and other reasons.

Basket-ball Team Gets Early Start

Basket-ball almost stepped on the heels of football before it could get out of the way and while the gridders were winding up their campaign the Terp tossers were tuning for the only pre-Christmas game with Richmond at Richmond on December 17. They lost the contest, 51 to 40, in an extra period.

Burton Shipley needs a center and Bill Guckeyson, who won his letter in 1934-35 and who did not play last year, is taking up the post. However, he is only six feet tall and will meet loftier men in almost every game.

Shipley has six letter men left from last season in Al Waters and Waverly Wheeler, forwards; John McCarthy, forward or center, and Fred Thomas, Charlie Keller and Bill Bryant, guards.

He got some good talent from last year's frosh in George Knepley, a real forward; Eddie Johnson, center or forward; Robert Neilson, forward, and Milton Mullitz, guard. George Remsberg, a center, also will be carried but he is not as far advanced as the rest.

Guckeyson, Bryant, Wheeler and McCarthy all were with the football squad and consequently were late in reporting.

As the first team played before the gridmen joined the squad, Johnson was at center; Waters and Knepley at forwards and Thomas and Keller at guards. All except Johnson doubtless will be regulars, with Guckeyson taking the tap-off job from Eddie with the latter being in reserve.

Johnson, Mullitz and Neilson should be valuable assets to the squad this season and be ready to step to the front in another year.

Good Grid Leftover

Blair Smith, end; Bill Wolfe and Mike Surgent, a fine pair of guards; Bob Walton and Frank DeArmey, centers; Jim Meade, Charlie Weidinger, Waverly Wheeler and Rip Hewitt, backs, are grid leftovers who should help take the burden off the coaches in 1937. It would not be surprising to see DeArmey playing the blocking back job.

Alumni Club Pays Rival Compliment

During half-time of the Maryland-Western Maryland football game on December 5, in the Baltimore Stadium, the Alumni Club of Baltimore presented President Halloway of Western Maryland College with a floral football featuring the colors of Western Maryland on one side and Maryland on the other. The ball was designed by John Silkman, '35, proprietor of the Silkman Florist Shop in Baltimore. Presentation was made by Chester W. Tawney, '31, president of the club, assisted by his wife, Edith Stinnette, '32, Miss Ann Carver, '36, Miss Merza Tuttle, '36, and Miss Mary Stallings, '35, who fittingly represented the University's feminine pulchritude.

Dance Successful

The Football Final Dance held by the Alumni Club that evening at the Maryland Casualty, in honor of the squads from Maryland and Western Maryland, was a great success. More than eight hundred people attended the dance, at which time the formal presentation of the Mayor Jackson Trophy was made to the captain of the winning team—Western Maryland. In the absence of Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, the presentation was made by his representative, Mr. Jack Norris. Following the presentation the team from Western Maryland and their followers paraded to the tune of their Alma Mater amid the vigorous applause of all present. It was a splendid exhibition of what collegiate spirit and sportmanship should be.

Among the distinguished guests was Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University. He was greeted by Chester W. Tawney, '31, president of the Baltimore Aumni Club.

Shep Fields and his nationally famous orchestra of Rippling Rythm made a big hit. George Weber, '33, chairman of the dance committee, deserves a large share of the praise for the success of the dance.

Maryland Draws Fans

The Varsity football team played to approximately 44,000 fans in its five home football games, the largest crowd being at the Georgetown contest at College Park, when more than 12,000 looked on at a great battle.

Band Is Complimented

Maryland's 65-piece band came in for many fine compliments on its appearances at the home football games and the one with Richmond U., in Richmond. It was declared the best in its section and among the best anywhere.

Prospects Bright For Boxing Team

Major Harvey L. (Heinie) Miller, coach of the Varsity boxing squad, in his first year at the helm, believes he has the makings of a successful team if he can fill the middle, light-heavy and heavy classes satisfactorily. He likes his talent in the lower divisions.

Miller found seven letter men at hand when he took charge, Ed Shegogue and Charlie Gebhardt in the 115-pound class, Tom Birmingham, 125-pounder; Morty Schwartz, 145; Ivan Nedomatsky, 155; Mike Lombardo, who is good in either the 155 or 165, and John Gormley, light-heavy and heavy.

Gebhardt has given up boxing for the time being, at least, due to the press of scholastic work, and Gormley has not made up his mind whether he will come out for the sport this season. With Shegogue on the job, Gebhardt can be spared but the success of the team may hinge on Gormley's decision.

Blair Smith, a clever scrapper who could handle either the 165 or 175 pound assignment in good style, also will not report until late, if at all. He was an irregular on the squad last year but when he fought he showed plenty.

Birmingham, a good 125-pounder for two years, is showing to unusual advantage this season and should win most, if not all, his bouts in the ensuing campaign. His work has been highly commended by Coach Miller.

Shegogue, Nedomatsky and Lombardo, and Gormley if he comes out, along with Birmingham, offer a nucleus that should make it tough for and rival team to combat. Lancelot Jacques is showing strongly in the 165 pound class.

Ben Alperstein, 125 or 135; Bill Yates, 155, and Ed Egnell, 212 pound heavyweight, were the aces of the 1936 freshman team. Alperstein and Yates have reported and are doing clever work. Alperstein won all his three bouts last year while Yates and Egnell each won twice and drew once.

Maryland has a tough task in its opening meet with Western Maryland, as the Terrors will bring a highly formidable squad to College Park, January 9.

Marjorie Grinstead, '36, has been traveling extensively in Europe for several months and has recently entered the Sorbonne University in Paris. Marjorie was president of Delta Delta Delta last year.

Baltimore Brevities

The Gorgas Odontological Society held its annual initiation exercises at the Southern Hotel of Baltimore on the evening of December 5, 1936. Admission to this organization is based on scholastic standing of Junior students in the School of Dentistry. New members enrolled on this occasion numbered 38. The main event was preceded by a dinner and followed by a dance.

o

John E. Schueler, Jr., M.S. (U. of M. 1931), has recently been given an assignment in the Chemical Division of Edgewood Arsenal. The position was awarded on a competitive examination.

Schueler has been connected with the Photographic Department of the School of Medicine during the past two years.

o

Arrangements have been completed by Dr. John C. Krantz, professor of Pharmacology, School of Medicine, for the entertainment of a delegation of dentists from the District of Columbia on the afternoon of December 16, 1936.

Special laboratory experiments of an interesting nature will be performed for the benefit of the Capitol City visitors.

o

A delegation of full-time Law School professors, headed by Dean Roger Howell, will attend the annual meeting of the Association of Law Schools, to be held in Chicago, Ill., on December 29th, 30th and 31st.

o

Graduates of Law, class of 1926, assembled in dinner reunion at the Southern Hotel, Baltimore, on November 12, 1936. Former Dean Robert Hill Freeman was the guest of honor on this occasion.

Mr. Freeman is now a resident of his native State, Georgia. His many friends enjoyed getting a fleeting glimpse of him while he was on the grounds.

o

Miss Annie Crighton, superintendent of the School of Nursing, has been hospitalized during the past few weeks. She is now up and about and it is hoped an early return to duty will not long be delayed.

Sam L. Crosthwaite, '27, and '33 versatile lacrosse star, is helping the U. S. Department of Agriculture to perfect the mosquito control in Maryland. Sam's title is assistant entomologist, stationed at the Berlin, Maryland, CCC Camp.

President Byrd Attends Meeting In Texas

As a part of the Texas Centennial year program the 50th annual meeting of the Association of Land Grant Colleges was held at Houston, Texas, this month. It is the first time in the history of the association that a meeting has been held other than in Washington, D. C., or Chicago.

President H. C. Byrd and several members of the Colleges of Agriculture, Engineering, and Extension Service represented the University.

Honor Terp Grid Stars

Bill Guckeyson, Maryland's great back, already has come in for signal honors, with many star teams still being picked.

Guckeyson was on the all-Southern Conference, second on the all-Eastern, gained all-America mention and has been singled out in special articles saying he doubtless was as good as any all-America selected.

Vic Willis, clever end, was on the all-Southern Conference second team and received all-America mention.

These two and Mike Surgent, guard, also were on the all-District area eleven chosen by the Washington Star.

Mackert Was Great

In a fan fest the other day, President H. C. Byrd, who is credited with knowing something about football, declared Roy Mackert was the best defensive gridder he ever had seen. Mack played in both the backfield and at tackle during his regime at Maryland, 1919-21. He is doing an "all-America" job with physical education at his alma mater now.

On The Hill

Dr. Fritz Ermarth, nationally famous author and authority on European problems, spoke before the International Relations Club. His subject was "Present day Germany," information about which he had gathered during his visit to Germany during the past summer.

Badminton Club to further interest in the game has been organized by the students. Regularly scheduled matches and tournaments will be conducted.

It seems to be a growing tradition for Maryland to have champions among their co-ed riflists. Lucille Bennett of Hyattsville, Maryland, has been a consistent high scorer on the team. This year she has been chosen manager of the team. Lucille, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, is a student in the College of Arts and Sciences, majoring in Zoology. She plans to return next year for a Master of Science degree.

Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military society, initiated the following new members Wednesday: Brooks Bradley, Robert Jones, Karlton Pierce, Harvey Cooke, Charles Morgan, Bernard Graves, Elmer Hennig and Eugene Mueller.

Plans for the annual Military Ball to be held March 5 in the Gym-Armory, were completed at this meeting.

Over the Columbia Broadcasting System last week, Maryland opened its 1936-1937 season in a debate with Dartmouth College. The subject was —"Resolved that the Congress shall be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry." Maryland was on the affirmative.

Gormley Is Honored

John Gormley, Maryland's ace blocking and defensive fullback for three years, has been signally honored. He was voted the best blocking back in the Southern Conference and received the trophy that goes with it. Gormley has his letter in boxing as light-heavy and heavyweight and is a baseball catcher of ability. A sore arm kept him from sticking to the diamond sport but he may go out again next spring. He is a senior and will graduate in June.

This branch of the University provides education for Negroes of the State. It offers four-year courses in Agriculture, Home Economics and Industrial Arts, and two-year courses in vocational subjects.

BRIEF HISTORY

THE BEGINNING of the University of Maryland was in 1807 when a charter was granted to the College of Medicine of Maryland. A permanent home, established in 1814-15, at Lombard and Greene Streets in Baltimore, now is the oldest structure in America devoted to medical teaching.

In 1812 the General Assembly of Maryland authorized the College of Medicine to "Annex or Constitute Faculties of Divinity, Law and Arts and Sciences," these to be constituted an university, under the title of "University of Maryland." In 1813 a move was made to establish a "faculty of law," and in 1823 a School of Law was opened. Subsequently, a College of Dentistry, School of Pharmacy and School of Nursing were added.

In 1856 an act "to establish and endow an Agricultural College in the State of Maryland" was passed by the Legislature. At the time no institution of similar character existed in the United States. Under the charter thus granted to a party of public-spirited private individuals the original college building was erected at College Park, and the doors opened to students in the fall of 1859.

For several years it was conducted as a private institution, but with acceptance of the terms of a grant under the "Land Grant Act" of 1862, and aid by the State Legislature in 1866, the college was brought under partial control of the State.

Maryland Agricultural College was a military school, and continued as such until 23 years ago. Two of the principal buildings were completely destroyed by fire in 1912, and in 1914 control was taken over entirely by the State. In 1916 the General Assembly granted a new charter to the College, making it the Maryland State College, and placing the institution on a par with the State colleges of other states.

An Act of the State Legislature in 1920 brought the old University of Maryland and the Maryland State College together as the University of Maryland. Since that date the development in facilities and services has been rapid.

Efficiency and Economy

IT is particularly worth noting that the Maryland Agricultural Agencies are coordinated under one administration. In 1916 all of Maryland's agricultural agencies were combined under the Board of Regents of the then Maryland State College and the State Board of Agriculture. Again in 1920 legislation perfected the union of the University of Maryland and the Maryland State College under the Board of Regents and State Board of Agriculture. All laws granting powers and duties to various departments and divisions were amended and placed under the administration of one board. Maryland's organization is unique in the country by virtue of this coordination and the saving incident thereto.

As illustration, a near-by state of about the same size as Maryland, with two less counties, appropriates nearly $400,000 for the support of the State Board of Agriculture alone. It then has to provide appropriations for its University which conducts its agricultural work as a distinct entity. In another adjoining state the appropriation to the State Board of Agriculture alone is over $2,000,000. The coordination in Maryland prevents jealousies among workers and agencies and duplication of work. Functioning of these agencies in Maryland seems to be ideal for efficiency as well as economy, and apparently the plan is being copied by other states as rapidly as found practicable.

HOW THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND SERVES THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE

THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND is anxious for the people of the State to know what it is doing and how it is spending the money appropriated for it. The University is nothing more nor less than a service institution for the people of the State. As such, it should represent the highest type of government service, and a spirit of active interest on the part of the whole people will enable it to serve most efficiently the greatest number.

The buildings and facilities of the University at College Park and in Baltimore are used to educate your sons and daughters; to equip men and women to serve you in such vital fields as agriculture, engineering, teaching, home economics, dentistry, science, pharmacy, law and medicine. Students come from all parts of the State and graduates go into every community of the State, converting their knowledge and training into service.

Many people are prone to think of a university as a great institution which is above, beyond and apart from them and their daily lives. The University of Maryland, with its manifold services and lines of activity, is affecting in one way or another the lives and welfare of the vast majority of people within the State. In addition to supplying some 700 graduates each year trained in the sciences, arts and professions, the University, through its research and extension facilities and personnel, is rendering services of inestimable value to those on the farms, in the homes, and engaged in the industries and professions throughout the entire State. Its contribution to health, through control and eradication of diseases of animals and human beings, and the savings resulting from its efforts to control insect pests and diseases of crops are merely some of the ways that the University is affecting the lives of thousands of people who are unaware of the benefits they are receiving from it.

School of Medicine

Is the principal source of supply for physicians in Maryland, especially in the counties.

Has provided 929 of the 1,829 practicing physicians in Baltimore, and 453 of 909 physicians in the counties.

Makes a special effort through scholarships to furnish a continuous addition to the number of practitioners in rural Maryland, which in many places is quite too small.

Provides surgical and medical care for a great many indigent poor who are unable to provide that attention for themselves.

no cost for people who make approximately 100,000 visits annually.

Conducts extension courses in different parts of the State for physicians, so that practitioners in rural communities may be kept abreast of the most modern developments in medicine.

Conducts research from which practices are developed that improve health conditions generally and provide new technique for handling cases.

University Hospital

Provides students of the School of Medicine facilities for study and observation of diseases and treatments.

Cared for 8,363 patients in 1936. Of this number, 3,933 were cared for free.

Served 125,973 patient-days in 1936, of which 57 per cent, 71,152 patient-days, were free to the people of the city and State.

Provided 26,788 patient-days of service to people of Baltimore City, and 44,364 to people of the counties in 1936.

Made 12,000 visits to homes of patients by members of the hospital staff.

School of Dentistry

Was the first institution for dental education in the world, and provided a pattern for development of autonomous dental education.

Has provided 96 per cent of the 800 dentists practicing in Maryland at present.

Has some 3,000 alumni in the states of the Atlantic seaboard, who have created a substantial sentiment in favor of Baltimore and exerted a strong influence on the business life of Maryland.

Treats in its Dental Clinic thousands of Baltimore City school children free of charge.

Provides dental service in its Clinic at nominal cost to thousands of citizens of Baltimore and the counties.

Cooperates with social and health agencies and municipal and State authorities in taking care of the needs of those who cannot afford needed dental service.

Conducts a pre-school dental clinic in the Western Health District.

Provides through its clinic the necessary material for study and observation of students.

Conducts research and helps to keep the standards of dental practice and dental surgery on a high level.

School of Law

Has been the principal means of training the legal profession in the State, since its reorganization in 1869.

Its graduates include the majority of the practicing lawyers in Maryland and leaders of the bench and bar, both in the State and elsewhere.

Its alumni include at present 17 members of the State judiciary, two of the three Federal judges in Maryland, both United States Senators from Maryland, three of the State's representatives in Congress, the Governor, the Attorney General, the State Treasurer, and many other public officials of the State government.

Graduates have been active in bar associations. Fifteen former presidents of the Maryland State Bar Association and one former president of the American Bar Association were University of Maryland graduates.

The Law School is on the list of Approved Schools of the American Bar Association, and a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

School of Pharmacy

Has graduated more than 2,400 pharmacists, approximately 1,500 of whom are living.

More than three-fourths, over 900, of all the pharmacists practicing in Maryland today are graduates of this School.

Manufactures in its laboratories many preparations for use in the University Hospital and members of its staff serve as pharmacists in that institution.

Senior students are detailed to various hospitals in Baltimore to assist the pharmacist in charge.

Assists manufacturers of pharmaceutical preparations in solutions for production problems.

Helps manufacturers in controlling standards, which is a service of special value for products that are required to be standardized biologically.

School of Nursing

Has graduated about 800 nurses, starting in 1892, and has 36 in the class to graduate in 1937.

Provides nursing service for patients in the University Hospital.

Provides nurses for private duty, public health nursing, instructive visiting nurses' association positions, superintendents of nurses, and supervisors and general duty nurses in various hospitals.

A graduate of the University of Maryland has been appointed a member of the Maryland State Board of Examiners of Nurses since 1930.

Graduates have served for several years as officers of the Maryland State Nurses' Association, and many members contribute actively to the State League of Nursing Education.

Offers a course in public health nursing.

Has broadened courses in accordance with the modern concept of nursing, which includes provision for teaching better health habits and giving an insight into some of the contributory factors to disease and the close relationship between the physical and mental conditions.

College of Agriculture

Prepares men and women to practice general farming, or any type of specialized agriculture they desire. Courses offered permit students to major in at least 22 different kinds of agriculture.

Develops research workers and investigators in subjects pertaining to agriculture.

Gives the basic education for teachers and demonstrators in agricultural fields.

Provides trained workers for commercial and manufacturing enterprises in agricultural or related fields.

Equips men to serve as inspectors in various phases of regulatory work pertaining to agricultural products.

Trains men to serve as farm managers.

College of Arts and Sciences

Provides service departments, such as Chemistry, English, History, Sociology, etc., which handle the teaching for other colleges on the campus at College Park.

Affords opportunities for students to major in various fields, such as Business Administration, Sociology, Chemistry, etc.

Provides the fundamental education required by the Professional Schools.

Gives opportunities for study in those cultural fields that develop the finer side of life.

Seeks to give opportunities to raise the general level of intelligence of the entire citizenship.

Carries on, through and in conjunction with its Department of Chemistry, all feed and fertilizer analyses and enforcement for the State. This provides for prevention of the manufacture and sale of adulterated and misbranded products of feed, fertilizer and lime. Collected and examined 7,933 official samples in the last year, and made 1,092 gratuitous examinations upon requests of residents of the State.

College of Education

Has graduated more than 400 students in the last decade who were eligible to teach in the high schools of the State.

Prepared 37 of the 41 present teachers of vocational agriculture in Maryland high schools.

Conducts afternoon and evening courses in Baltimore for all classes of vocational teachers. This year 183 are taking advantage of this opportunity.

Helps teachers through graduate work to improve themselves as high school instructors and for leadership as principals, superintendents, county agents, 4-H club leaders, and in allied fields. Fifteen of the 29 county agents and assistant county agents came from the ranks of agricultural teachers.

Summer Session

Gives teachers an opportunity to meet requirements for certification and work toward degrees. Last summer there were 450 Maryland teachers in attendance.

College of Engineering

Trains engineers to fill the many demands the State makes for them in its industries, and lays special stress on training for public service.

Conducts experimental work in engineering, in cooperation with State Roads Commission, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, and other agencies.

Provides a two-weeks short course for highway engineers and inspectors for State Roads Commission.

Conducts Mining Extension courses at three places in the western part of the State.

Offers a short course for volunteer firemen, in cooperation with the Maryland Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Provides a short course for operators of water works and sewage disposal plants.

Has established a Maryland Mapping Agency, which serves to concentrate at the University all information concerning maps of Maryland made by Federal, State, municipal and private engineering organizations. Its purposes are to coordinate the mapping activities so as to avoid duplication, and to develop throughout the State a network of lines and elevations of value to engineers and surveyors.

College of Home Economics

Offers home economics education to prepare women to make better homes and rear good families.

Prepares women to earn a living in various phases of home economics as a profession, or in allied pursuits.

Gives the necessary training for service as teachers of home economics in high schools, colleges, and through extension work.

Provides a source of trained dietitians for hospitals and other institutions, and for restaurants and cafeterias.

Fits women to demonstrate equipment for utility companies, or to serve as buyers for commercial concerns.

Trains women for research in foods, household equipment, and other subjects pertaining to home economics, either for public agencies, or for manufacturing and commercial companies.

Helps social agencies by supplying specialists in budget-making, low-cost menus, properly-balanced diets, etc.

Graduate School

Offers men and women of the State an opportunity to pursue intensive study in restricted fields and trains them in methods of research and creative scholarship.

Helps students to prepare themselves for positions requiring highly technical training, such as scientific specialists in agriculture and other industries, in public health laboratories, and in the service of the State and Federal governments.

Assembles a large amount of valuable information of special interest to the people of Maryland through research studies of graduate students.

Agricultural Experiment Station

Has about 150 research projects in progress, most of which were taken up in order to solve some problem that was bothering farmers of the State.

Provides results of research as the basis for teaching up-to-date methods in the College of Agriculture, and for practical demonstrations by the Extension Service.

Successful and profitable practices on good farms everywhere can be traced directly or indirectly to the services rendered by the Experiment Station.

Conducts research in Agricultural Economics and Farm Management.

Studies Agricultural Engineering problems, including farm drainage, farm machinery and appliances.

Investigates crops, fertilizers and soils, and develops varieties and strains of crops particularly adapted to Maryland conditions.

Conducts research in all phases of Animal and Dairy Husbandry, including breeds and breeding, care and feeding for production and work, dairy manufacturing, inspection and marketing.

Carries out experiments in Animal Pathology and Bacteriology along lines of inspection and control of animal diseases, farm and home sanitation, bacteriology in relation to foods, and legume inoculums.

Identifies plants and studies their habits and uses; develops methods for weed control; determines causes and remedies for plant diseases; and studies the relation of chemical and physical factors to growth of plants.

Identifies harmful and beneficial insects and develops methods for control of insects harmful to crops, fruits, animals and man.

Conducts research and renders service in all phases of Horticulture, including landscape design and gardening.

Investigates problems affecting all phases of Poultry Husbandry and all kinds of poultry. This includes chickens, eggs, turkeys, ducks, geese, pigeons, and their management, housing, feeding, marketing, and disease control.

Conducts Seed Inspection Service—makes identifications, place of origin determinations, purity analyses, noxious weed seed examinations, germination tests, and determinations of size of seeds and plant-producing capacity of samples of all kinds of seeds; furnishes information on tagging requirements and administers the State agricultural seed law; cleans and treats enough tobacco seed for the production of the entire Maryland crop.

Extension Service

Is part of a national and State service that was established specifically for the benefit of rural people in their home communities. It is supported jointly by Federal, State and county funds.

Maintains County Agents and Home Demonstration Agents in all counties to serve the people directly, and a corps of specialists in various subjects who work throughout the entire State.

Carries to the people of the State the services of both the University of Maryland and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Influenced more than 30,000 rural families by some phase of Extension work last year; made 24,000 farm and home visits by agents in carrying out the services; and received 71,000 office calls and 50,000 telephone calls by farm families.

Conducts demonstrations and carries on practical educational work by other means in all phases of agriculture and home economics.

Assists in the promotion of cooperative marketing of farm products, improving standards and grades of such products, and aids, as far as possible, in reducing the costs of distribution. Conducts practical demonstrations in better marketing practices. Cooperates in regulatory work and inspection.

Supervises the regular testing of 5,000 dairy cows to help farmers get rid of the poor producers and improve their herds.

Introduces and demonstrates new and improved varieties and strains of crops.

Helps farmers reduce losses from plant and animal diseases and insect pests.

Secures tests of soils and makes recommendations as to fertilizers and crop rotations.

Supervises the testing of dairy cows for Advanced Registry records.

Gives instruction in various phases of farming and homemaking to approximately 10,000 boys and girls each year through 4-H Club work. Boys are growing calves, pigs, poultry, colts, garden and field crops and carrying out other projects by latest approved methods. Girls are making clothing, canning fruits, vegetables and meats, learning principles of home furnishing and management, and other phases of homemaking.

Gives women in their homes a better knowledge of nutrition, home gardening, clothing, home furnishing, home management, health, and the possibilities of adding to their incomes through marketing home and farm products of high quality.

Conducts the Rural Women's Short Course at the University each summer, which is attended by more than 700 women from all counties. Gives them a full week of work which mingles in proper proportion the practical, inspirational, cultural, social, and recreational.

Cooperates with a State-wide committee in working out a comprehensive program for Maryland agriculture and rural homes.

Supervises the activities in Maryland carried on in connection with the national programs for crop adjustment and soil conservation. Through the adjustment program more than $3,500,000 were distributed in benefit payments to farmers in Maryland, and the soil conservation program will distribute about $1,500,000 to the 15,000 farmers who have cooperated in carrying it out this year.

Provides a means whereby the University cooperates with a great many agencies in carrying out programs which are for the welfare of large groups, or the general good. These include Federal agencies, farm and other organizations, commodity groups, breed organizations, and the like.

State Department of Markets

Prepares and disseminates reports on market conditions during marketing seasons for products.

Inspects and certifies the grade of fruits, vegetables, live and dressd poultry, eggs, butter, cheese, and canning crops. Products valued at more than $2,000,000 were inspected in 1936.

Contributes to improved marketing methods by developing efficient and economic distribution, assisting cooperative associations, promoting personal contacts between producers and receivers of farm products, and assembling information on all phases of marketing in cooperation with Extension specialists.

State Horticultural Department

Controls outbreaks of plant diseases and insect pests by legal procedure, when necessary for the general welfare.

Has retarded the spread of Japanese beetle and saved many thousands of dollars to shippers of nursery and greenhouse products.

Certifies all plant material moved out of the State. In 1936 certificates were issued to 269 nurseries, requiring over 300 inspections. In addition, 3,000,000 narcissus bulbs were inspected, and 1,164,211 packages of plant material and 1,955 tons of sand, soil, manure and compost were certified as free from Japanese beetle.

Seed potatoes and other seed stock are inspected and certified as free from disease.

Plants affected with dangerous diseases, such as Dutch elm disease and peach yellows, are destroyed, with a view to eradicating the disease.

Efforts are made to control white pine blister rust by eradicating wild currant and gooseberry bushes in white pine areas of the State.

Live Stock Sanitary Service

Controls and eradicates many diseases that are deadly to animals, costly to owners, and a menace to human health.

Supervises State and Federal testing of cattle for tuberculosis. More than 40,000 separate herds of cattle are under test and the majority of these are tested annually. Tuberculosis infection in cattle was 30 per cent or more in Maryland a few years ago. This rate has been reduced to one-half of one per cent, with a corollary reduction in danger to human life and property. All Maryland counties are "Accredited" for tuberculosis, or are now acceptable with the exception of two, which will be added in the near future.

Has approximately 53,000 head of cattle under supervision for Bang's disease, and the disease has been eradicated from many herds.

Controls outbreaks of rabies in dogs, sometimes by drastic action; human beings are given the Pasteur treatment, and live stock that is bitten is usually destroyed and the owner indemnified.

Conducts Maryland plan for control of hog cholera by improved sanitary practices and without expensive biologics. Losses from hog cholera have been reduced from approximately 70 hogs per thousand, when the work started, to 12 per thousand.

Prevents heavy losses of live stock through acute infections, such as the horse disease, known as encephalomyelitis, by prompt investigation, accurate diagnosis, and advice as to proper treatment.

Continuously checks and studies chronic diseases and conditions of live stock.

Determines causes of deaths of animals in difficult cases involving intestinal parasites, poisonous plants and forages, and improper feeding.

Maintains diagnostic laboratories at Salisbury, Baltimore and College Park to more adequately serve the live stock industry. More than 250,000 diagnoses were made in these laboratories in 1936.

Certifies several thousand head of live stock each year as being free from symptoms of infectious or communicable diseases and acceptable for entrance into other states.

Tested approximately 125,000 chickens for pullorum disease under State supervision last year.

State Department of Forestry

Maintains State-wide system of forest fire protection. There are 36 steel lookout towers, manned during the fire season by guards equipped with cars and fire fighting tools. There are 700 forest wardens and in an average year about 4,000 men are employed by the hour to fight fires.

Saves hundreds of thousands of dollars in forest property and potential growth. This service costs $50,000 annually.

Makes examinations, prepares plans of forest management and planting, and gives expert advice to hundreds of landowners.

Offers service at nominal cost for selecting, marking, measuring and estimating the value of timber and other forest products, under conservative plans of cutting.

Protects shade trees growing along the streets and highways throughout the State. Approximately 2,000,000 trees are involved and any trimming that may be required is done under a permit system, whereby the trimming is supervised by competent tree wardens.

Operates nine State forests, comprising 60,000 acres, and five State parks, comprising 3,000 acres.

Maintains two State forest nurseries to produce stock for reforesting waste land, of which there are 180,000 acres in need of planting, and to provide larger trees for roadside planting.

Geological Survey

Provides a bureau of information concerning the mineral resources, underground waters, and many other aspects of the physical features of the State.

Has surveyed the entire State topographically during the last 40 years.

Studies and maps the geological formations in the State.

State Weather Service

Operates in cooperation with the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Makes observations and forecasts of weather conditions.

Maintains a corps of local, volunteer observers.

MARYLAND GRADUATES TAKE PART IN MEDICAL CONVENTION

By Dr. Frank S. Lynn, '07

FROM NOVEMBER 17 to 20 the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland and the Baltimore City Medical Society were hosts to the Southern Medical Association at its 30th annual meeting. Before the meeting the medical profession was keyed up to a high state of anticipation.

Committees of a general and special nature were appointed, giving widespread recognition to the members of the profession in the city and State. It is needless to say that in this organization, the scientific program, the presenting of exhibits and in the social functions incident to a meeting of this kind, the University of Maryland, as represented by its alumni, played an important part.

The following alumni acted as chairmen of their respective committees:

Sydney R. Miller, General Chairman
E. A. Looper, '12, Vice-Chairman, General Committee
A. M. Shipley, '02, Program-Clinics
C. A. Waters, '11, Entertainment
Charles W. Maxon, '12, Publicity
Charles Bagley, Jr., '04, Membership
W. H. Toulson, '13, Alumni and Fraternity Reunions
Grant E. Ward, Scientific Exhibits
Frank S. Lynn, '07, Information
W. D. Wise, '06, Transportation
A. E. Goldstein, '12, Lanterns and Loud Speakers

At this point it might be well to say that all meetings and exhibits were held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, and we do not believe a more ideal place could have been secured. All exhibits, both scientific and commercial, were displayed on the upper floor, while on the lower level there were four large rooms, two for medical and two for surgical meetings. Besides there were adequate meeting rooms for the specialties with smaller memberships.

The first day of the meeting was known as Baltimore Day, in that the profession of the city furnished the entire program. There were two general meetings of Medicine in the morning and afternoon and this was duplicated by Surgery.

Here it might be of interest to give a list of Alumni participating in these Baltimore Day meetings: On Tuesday, November 17, the Section A on Surgery, Dr. Randolph Winslow, '73, Emeritus Professor of Surgery, was honorary chairman. Those taking part in the program were W. F. Zinn, '12; J. M. Hundley, Professor of Gynecology; W. D. Wise, '06; Robert P. Bay, '05; G. E. Bennett, '09. In the afternoon of the same day in Section A of Surgery, there were participating Charles Bagley, Jr., '04; C. R. Edwards, '13; Page Edmunds, '98; W. H. Toulson, '13; C. W. Maxon, '12.

On this same day, in Section B of Surgery, in the morning were T. B. Aycock, '24; A. M. Shipley, '02; Monte Edwards, '17; Allen F. Voshell, Professor of Orthopedic Surgery; and at the afternoon meeting Dr. Alexis McGlannan, '96, was honorary chairman, with the following taking part in the transactions: Grant E. Ward; Louis H. Douglass, '11; Thomas K. Galvin, '15; Frank S. Lynn, '07; Nathan Winslow, '01; Daniel J. Pessagno, '20.

In the meetings of General Medicine our school was also represented by the following alumni: Dr. H. M. Stein, '14; W. S. Love, Jr., '23; Magnus I. Gregerson, Professor of Physiology; Maurice C. Pincoffs, Professor of Medicine; Hugh Spencer, '10; Thomas P. Sprunt, S. R. Miller, and W. A. Baetjer, Associate Professors of Medicine; Edward Uhlenhuth, Professor of Anatomy; Ross Mc. Chapman, Professor of Psychiatry; Huntington Williams, Professor of Public Health; Julius Friedenwald, '90; Harvey G. Beck, '96, and James G. Arnold, Jr. On Wednesday, November 18, the general meeting was addressed by out-of-town guests, among whom was our alumnus, Dr. Fred W. Rankin, '09, of Lexington, Ky.

We have thus far dealt with the departments of General Medicine and Surgery, but in the specialties one will see that our alumni also took very active parts as represented by the following: Clyde A. Clapp, '07; Lee Cohen, '95; Jesse W. Downey, Jr., Joseph I. Kemler, '07; Edward A. Looper, '12; W. Raymond McKenzie, '15.

We were represented in the section of Gastro-Intestinal Diseases by Dr. Julius Friedenwald, '90; Ernest H. Gaither, '05; Theo. Morrison, '15, and Moses Paulson, 21.

Old Medical Building

Bacteriology and Pathology by Dr. F. W. Hactel and Hugh Spencer, '10; Neurology by Dr. I. J. Spear, '00; Allergy by Dr. H. M. Bubert, 20, and T. Nelson Carey, '27; Dermatology by Dr. H. M. Robinson, '09, and James E. Gately, '02; Gynecology and Obstetrics by Emil Novak, '04; John C. Dumler, '32; J. M. H. Rowland, '92; Railway Surgery by R. W. Locher, '10; F. J. Kirby, '91; Medical Education by J. M. H. Rowland, M. C. Pincoffs, C. A. Davies; Urology by John F Hogan, '11; Walter Denny, '14; Albert E. Goldstein, '12; Radiology by H. J. Walton, '05 (chairman of the section); Max Kahn, '05; C. A. Waters, '11; J. W. Pierson, '05; Albertus Cotton, '96; Pediatrics by Dr. C. L. Joslin, '12; J. Edmund Bradley, A. H. Finkelstein, '27; Edgar Friedenwald, '03; B. Mansdorfer, '30, and Fred B. Smith, '20.

In the large Exhibition Hall on the upper level of the armory we were represented by the following: Dr. T. B. Aycock, '24; Dr. Walter C. Merkel, '26; Dr. Robert Wright, Dr. John C. Krantz, '19; Dr. E. B. Freeman, '00; Dr. J. W. Pierson, '05; Dr. C. G. Warner, '28; Dr. J. M. Hundley, Dr. Grant E. Ward, Dr. Albertus Cotton, '96; Dr. Harvey G. Beck, '96; Dr. C. A. Waters, '11; Dr. Eduard Uhlenhuth, Dr. Charles Bagley, Jr., '04; Dr. J. G. Arnold; Dr. H. M. Robinson, '09; Dr John Evans, '03; Edward A Looper, '12; Dr. W. F. Zinn, '12; Dr. J. W. Downey, Jr., Carl D. Clarke, Dr. J. H. Wilkinson, '21, and Allen Voshell. These exhibits reflected great credit on those presenting them and much favorable comment was heard. There was one, however, worthy of mention here because of its his-

Ritchie Coliseum Is Source Of Joy

Except that Byrd Stadium may have grown too small and the old part of it out-of-date and that a swimming pool would be welcomed with open arms, Maryland is happy over its athletic situation, both from a standpoint of facilities and the men behind the guns.

The two improvements mentioned doubtless will come in due time, but the sooner they materialize the better some folk would be pleased.

One great athletic blessing on the campus is Ritchie Coliseum which has proved worth its weight in gold for many purposes since it was dedicated five years ago, January 20, 1932, to be exact.

It not only has been a joy in staging Maryland's basket-ball games and boxing matches and for dressing rooms for the various teams, but it has been used for many of the bigger affairs on the campus, the most pretentious, of course, being the annual commencement exercises.

It will house the Southern Conference boxing championships this year, to which the University will be host on February 26 and 27, and in so many ways has added to the comfort and prestige of the institution.

Only the other night the famous Ellsworth Vines-Fred Perry professional tennis troupe used the Coliseum, as no place as desirable could be found in Nation's Capital.

County and State clubs and organizations also use the Coliseum at various times for their fetes and its utilitarian value constantly comes in for praise. It has been the means of introducing many persons to the Maryland campus and in every way has been a friend-maker for the University.

Basketers, Boxers Are Going Strong

Maryland's varsity boxing and basket-ball teams were speeding along at a good pace when this was written. The Terp boxers had won all three of their meets, beating Western Maryland, 6 to 2; Richmond U., 8 to 0, and North Carolina, 5 to 3, despite it had three of its best men out in the match with the strong Tarheels.

The basketers, handicapped by the lack of an experienced center of the proper altitude and the loss through injury of Charlie Keller, one of their aces, had captured five of the first eight games, showing plenty of speed and spirit.

Eddie Johnson, son of the famous Walter, is developing rapidly at center and when Keller gets back, the Terps should rate among the best in the Conference. In fact, they are tough to lick even with him out.

Included in Maryland's basket-ball triumphs were decisive wins over Johns Hopkins, Western Maryland and Washington College.

Coach Is Officer

LYMAN RANDOLPH MCABOY

Former Maryland ring star and now tutor of the Terp yearlings recently was appointed a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve in Washington. He has been assigned as athletic officer of the 5th Battalion, Fleet Marine Corps Reserve. He also will be assistant to the plans and training officer. The 5th Battalion is commanded by Maj. Harvey L. (Heinie), Maryland's varsity ring coach.

Frosh Quint Shining

Al Heagy has his Terp freshman basket-ball team traveling at a fast clip, easily walking off with the first four tilts, among them a 39-29 triumph over the strong George Washington yearlings.

His leading players are Charlie Norton, Ogden, Utah; John Snow and Bill Kolius, Washington; Pershing Mondorff, Emmitsburg; Joe Kelly, Cumberland, Tillman Scott, Mount Ranier, and Leo Muller, Baltimore.

"All-U" Night Again Will Be Colorful

February 13—Saturday—which will be All-University night this year, promises to provide another one of those gala occasions that have met with so much favor in the past few years and which have packed Ritchie Coliseum.

V. M. I. in basket-ball and Rutgers in boxing will provide the big sport events of the evening, with the court tilt opening the program at 7.30 and the ring match being the finale.

In between the various extra-curricula activities of the University again will be represented, but this year it is planned to make this part of the colorful program somewhat shorter and snappier.

Keller Student First

That students play Maryland's athletics had an illustration when Charlie Keller, ace basket-ball guard, was injured in the Duke game on January 16. He severely sprained his right wrist and will lose close to a month with the squad. While waiting for an X-ray picture of his arm to be developed and to determine whether his wrist was broken, which it appeared to be, Keller, who has a big-league baseball career in prospect that might have been ruined in event of a bad fracture, turned to Jack Faber, assistant Maryland coach, and said:

"Jack, do you think my professors will let me take oral examinations in case I am unable to write? I've got a good chance to get some A's and I'd hate to miss 'em." He was thinking of the mid-year exams which were just about to start.

Young Terps Box Well

Although they lost their first meet to Staunton M. A., the Terp yearling boxers are being developed from the "raw" in good fashion by Lyman McAboy, and by the end of the year he will turn some good talent over to the 1938 Varsity.

torical value. This exhibit was presented by our Gynecological Department and consisted of 40 specimens of papier mache which were used 100 years ago in teaching this subject in our medical school.

And the variety of the program of this meeting continues in the form of motion pictures depicting the technique in various specialties. Those contributing to this part of the program were Edward A. Looper, '12; Cyrus F. Horne, '19; J. M. Hundley, Jr., Grant E. Ward. One can see from the foregoing that those four days of November, 17 to 20, were indeed busy ones for guests and hosts. But in spite of that, time was taken out for diversion. Fraternity luncheons, alumni banquets, golf and trap-shooting.

On Thursday night of the meeting there was a great outpouring of alumni at the University of Maryland banquet. There were no formal speeches, but we could not let the opportunity pass without calling on our President, Dr. H. C. Byrd, who extended a cordial welcome to all alumni. The week was a great homecoming for our graduates from the south, both old and young. Many had not been back for years and very few of them had seen the many changes which have taken place on old Greene Street, not the least of which is the new hospital. There were smiles on the faces and pride in the hearts of all these graduates when they beheld this beautiful building.

Miles Bank Executive

Hooper S. Miles, LL. B., '16, former president of the County Trust Company of Salisbury, has resigned to accept an appointment as executive vice-president of the Baltimore National Bank of Baltimore.

Mr. Miles, a native of Dorchester County, spent much of his life in Baltimore City. Then he removed to Wicomico County, where he gained a position of note among the people of that county.

He served as State Treasurer in 1935 and has capably filled many other positions as public servant.

Birthday Greetings

To Dr. Harry Clifton Byrd, '08, our eminent president and illustrious alumnus, the "News" takes this occasion to convey birthday greetings on behalf of the Alumni Association. On February 12 another brilliant year in his life came to a close, but he modestly and unselfishly goes ahead with more determination to keep the University going forward in the development of higher education. To Dr. Byrd we (alumni) also extend congratulations for the progress he has accomplished in behalf of the University of Maryland.

Front Page

The picture on the front page is that of Margaret Brent Hall, the first Women's Dormitory built on the campus. It was named in honor of Margaret Brent, first woman of Maryland prominent in State affairs. The dormitory was filled the year it was completed, and now another Women's Dorm has been erected. Both are situated on the northwest field of the campus above the old reservior.

Pharmacy Alumni Hold Seventh Annual Dance

President John F. Wannenwetsch, of the Alumni Association of the School of Pharmacy of the University and his committee are to be congratulated on the success of the seventh annual party and dance held at the Pythian Hall, Charles and Preston Streets, Baltimore, on Thursday evening, February 4, 1937.

More than 400 persons were on hand to enjoy the occasion. The group included young and old graduates, members of the faculty, boys of the T. A.M. P. A., friends, their wives and sweethearts. Out-of-town groups came from Washington, Belair, York and New Freedom. Mr. Conrad L. Wich, a honorary president of the Alumni Association, was one of the younger-old men who attended.

Dr. John A. Strevig was chairman of the committee on entertainment. Dr. Harry S. Harrison was master of ceromonies.

Hon, H. H. Nuttle, '05, Re-elected President Maryland Farm Bureau

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Farm Bureau, held in Baltimore during January, Hon. Harry H. Nuttle, '05, was reelected president for the second term. Mr. Nuttle, a member of the Board of Regents of the University, is an ardent student in the development of scientific agriculture. He is recognized as a leader in this field.

A prominent citizen of Caroline County, he has frequently served the people of his county as a public official. In 1914 he was a delegate in the Maryland General Assembly. Later he served as a member of the Juvenile Court Committee for Caroline County.

Some years ago he was awarded a certificate of merit by the University in recognition of his meritorious contribution to the development of scientific agriculture and the canning industry.

New York Group Hold Annual Winter Dinner

DR. H. C. BYRD will be the speaker when the Maryland Alumni Club of New York gather for the annual winter dinner on March 5 at The Shelton Hotel, Lexington Avenue at 49th Street, New York City. G. F. Pollock, Secretary of the Alumni Association, will also travel to New York to display moving pictures of Maryland's recent football games.

Toastmaster for the occasion will be Fred Rakeman, '18. While at Maryland, Fred was a trackman of note and a leader in campus social activities. Members of the Dinner Committee include Lyman Oberlin, '17, Malcolm Rich, '18, Grace Laleger, '29, Robert Hoar, '29, W. J. Kinnamon, '30, and Charles Berry, '34.

At this meeting officers for the ensuing year will be elected. During the past two years J. Donald Kieffer, '30, was president, Sarah E. Morris, '24, secretary-treasurer, and William R. Maslin, '09, Fred Rakeman, '18, Stewart Whaley, '25 and Lionel Newcomer, '25, served on the executive committee.

In addition to the regular Wednesday luncheons at Planters Restaurant, 124 Greenwich Street, several dinner dances have been held by the New York group since its reorganization in 1935.

Credit To Mr. Snyder

To Mr. A. H. Snyder, "Extension Service" editor, goes the credit for compiling the comprehensive information about "The University of Maryland and How it Serves the People of the State" in the January issue of the "News." Many laudatory comments have been received about the enlightening information contained in the article.

More than 11,000 copies were sent out to Alumni and friends of the University throughout the State.

Romance Ends

Albert Jackson Roberts, '33, former vice-president of his class, died of pneumonia January 1. Jack was engaged to Miss Rose Elmo of Hyattsville.

The day he died was to have been the date of their wedding, which had been twice before delayed because of deaths in the family. It was the tragic end of a romance which began in high school days.

Able Jurist Succumbs

Judge John Boyd Sears, '90, judge of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit of Virginia, lawyer, jurist and beloved citizen, died suddenly at "Kalamazoo," home of his sister, Mrs. M. B. Garnett, near Mathews, Va., where he had resided for a good many years.

Judge Sears was educated at private schools in Mathews and the University of Maryland, at Baltimore, Maryland, and studied law at the University of Virginia, of which he was a graduate. After his graduation he took up the practice of law in Mathews and adjoining counties, and soon became one of the outstanding lawyers of the circuit because of his ability as an advocate and well-grounded knowledge of the law.

State Senator

In the State Senate of Virginia where he served two terms, Judge Sears soon came to be a distinguished figure, his ability as a debator and his quick grasp of the problems which confronted that body bringing to him the admiration and respect of its members.

Confederate Veteran Dies

Dr. J. E. Copeland, M. D., '76, age ninety-one, the last surviving Confederate veteran of the Civil War in Loudon County, Virginia, died in January at his home in Round Hill.

Following the war he began the study of medicine and returned to Virginia to practice. He practiced medicine for more than sixty years. He held the Masonic Veteran's Badge, awarded for being more than fifty years a member. He was buried in Hillsboro, Virginia.

Anniversary Banquet Was A Brilliant Success

On February 11, more than 1,100 alumni, faculty and friends of the University gathered for the 130th anniversary banquet at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore, to commemorate the founding of our University. It was an unusually pretentious and impressive affair which emphasized the harmonious and coordinating spirit existing between all branches of the University.

His Excellency Harry W. Nice, '98, Governor of Maryland was the guest of honor. The Governor spoke favorably for the University and about the important place it occupies in the State. Hon. Millard E. Tydings, '10, United States Senator, was toastmaster. In his introductory remarks Senator Tydings gave a brief resume of the early development of the institution and the splendid service it has rendered the State.

Welcoming remarks were extended by Dr. H. C. Bryd, '08, president of the University after which he introduced the guests of the occasion. Lt. Colonel L. McD. Silvester, '11, general chairman of the banquet committee opened the program and the Rev. R. W. Schmitt, S. J., of Baltimore gave the invocation.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, one who is recognized as an authority on the educational development of the land grant institution of the states. His subject was "The place of the State University in the National and State scheme of Education." His talk was instructive and enlightening, as well as a timely one, as the University's program for the advancement of education was before the Legislature.

Glee Club Entertained

Following the address entertainment was presented by the University Glee Club, under the direction of Harlan Randall, professor of music.

Many people prominent in the affairs of the State and leaders of the various affiliated organizations interested in the progress and services of our state University were present. Among them we had, Hon. George L. Radcliffe, U. S. Senator and a Maryland Alumnus, Hon. Lansdale G. Sasscer, President of the State Senate also an alumnus, Hon. Emanuel Gorfine, Speaker of the House, Hon. William Curran, of Baltimore, Hon. Howard W. Jackson, Mayor of Baltimore, Hon. W. S. Gordy, State Comptroller.

Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Maryland National Guard, Hon. William H. Blakeman, Budget Director, Hon. Thomas L. Popp, State Senator, Hon. Kent Mullikin, State Delegate, Mr. T. Roy Brookes, Master, State Grange, Dr. Gilbert W. State Beekeepers' Assn., Mr. Henry Betz, Pres., Baltimore Florists Club, Mr. Henry Hohman, President, Maryland Nurserymen's Assn., Mrs. Ross Coppage, President, Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Page Edmonds, President, Woman's Auxiliary, University Hospital, Mr. J. Millard Tawes, Pres., Maryland State Firemen's Assn., Mr. C. F. Hockley, President, Maryland Horse Breeders' Assn., and Mr. William Hotton, President, Maryland Vegetable Growers' Assn.

The banquet was sponsored by the Alumni Associations, affiliated organizations, faculties and staffs. Splendid cooperation was accorded the general committee, by the various county organizations throughout the State. The spread of enthusiasm was largely responsible for the success which was the largest celebration held since the centennial in 1907.

Lt. Colonel L. McD. Silvester, was general chairman of the committee on arrangements and was ably assisted by Dr. J. Ben Robinson, vice-chairman and the co-chairmen, who were the presidents of the various Alumni Associntions, Dr. Frank J. Kirby, '92, Medical, Dr. Arthur I. Bell, '19, Dental, Dr. J. F. Thomas Humphreys Spence Succumbs

DEAN THOMAS HUMPHREYS SPENCE, who died at his home at College Park, Md., on Friday, February 12, was a native of Snow Hill, county seat of Worcester County, Md., a fact which largely influenced his character and personality. He was an exemplification of the old Roman maxim "Coelum non animum mutant, qui trans mare current," which with slight local adaptation, might be rendered, "They change their clime, but not their hearts who cross the Chesapeake Bay."

He was the only son of Irving Spence of Snow Hill and Virginia Humphreys of Salisbury. This connection with two of the most widely known and highly esteemed families on "The Shore," coupled with his residence at the county seat, brought him into contact with many people in every walk of life and stimulated an innate faculty, possessed by him to an eminent degree, that of making intimacies and lasting friendships, "Bound to him with hooks of steel," which endured through life and embraced many of the most prominent men in the state.

THOMAS HUMPHREYS SPENCE

Having graduated from the local schools, Professor Spence completed his education at Maupin's University School at Ellicott City, and later at the Johns Hopkins University.

Returning to his home county he was appointed principal of the Junior High School at Stockton and later principal of the Snow Hill High School, which position he resigned to become Professor of Languages at the Maryland Agricultural College.

Professor Spence came to the college in 1892, when it was reorganized with Dr. Richard W. Silvester as its head. He was then in the prime of his physical and mental powers, with an assured character and personality that soon made him influential in all college activities.

A disciplinarian in his class room he mingled easily and freely with the students on the outside and took an active part with them in their field sports. He was greatly interested in athletics and did much to further their development on the campus.

In the faculty councils the opinions of Professor Spence carried influence and weight. He brought to the college experience as an educator and in the management of youth and in his long years of service he devoted all of his abilities to the upbuilding of the Institution with which he had associated himself and to the mental, physical and moral development of those who had been entrusted to its care. He was an educator, he was a disciplinarian, he was an administrator, but he was sympathetic, he was human, and every student on the campus knew and felt that from Professor Spence he could always have a fair and open minded hearing and an impartial judgment and in him, if the facts warranted, an earnest advocate.

The executive ability of Professor Spence was recognized by the Board of Trustees in 1912 when, on the retirement of President Silvester, he was made acting president of the College, which position he held until 1913, when Dr. H. J. Patterson was made president. Professor Spence was made Dean Emeritus of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1924, continuing, however, to give active service as professor of ancient languages.

In his domestic life Professor Spence was singularly happy. In 1899 he was married to Miss Charlotte Calvert, daughter of Hon. Chas. B. Calvert of "MacAlpine," Prince George's County. Their union was blessed with three charming daughters, Virginia, Charlotte and Mary who are now Mrs. Virginia Irving Spence Lescure of Harrisburg, Pa., Mrs. Charlotte Calvert Spence Wilton of Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. Mary Spence Montgomery of College Park, Md. Each attended the Origin of Nickname, "Old Liners" Dates 'Way Back To Revolution

By HERB ALLISON, '35.

SO you thought Maryland was called the Old Line school just because her students were more or less adept at disseminating that sort of conversation, did you?

You may be partially right, that is concerning the finesse of the Maryland undergrad at shooting the "same old line," but that has practically nothing to do with the nickname of the institution, which has a history many years older than the University itself.

University of Maryland, of course, borrowed the name from the State, and, as for how the State of Maryland became known as The Old Line State—thereby hangs the following tale.

Of the many theories which have been advanced, the two most plausible are widely divergent in origin. The explanation which is generally accepted today, however, is the one emanating from the New York campaigns in the War of the Revolution.

According to the story, the Continental troops were drawn up across Long Island facing south, with a similar array of the British directly opposite. The Maryland troops held the center position of the American lines. During the course of the battle, the Continental troops flanking the Marylanders began to give way under the heavy pressure of the British attack, but Maryland held her ground. The line of battle thus became bow-shaped, with the Oystermen at the most advanced portion of the arc. The American commanding officers thus began to refer to the lines of battle as "the old line," and "the new line."

But the British advantage was brief and after a few hours the tide of the battle turned in favor of the Yankees, inspired no doubt by the tenacity of the boys from Baltimore. Upon seeing the lines of battle begin to straighten out to their original position again, Colonel Smallwood, commanding a Maryland regiment cried out "See! The old line holds!" It was one of the most heroic deeds of the Revolutionary War.

From thenceforward, the Maryland soldiers were known as "The Old Line" regiments, and upheld their glorious record throughout the rest of the war.

The other story which is told of the origin of the name "Old Line" is about the fierce skirmishes between the Marylanders and the Pennsylvanians over the then indefinite boundary between the States. It seems that two lines were held to be the proper boundary, the original one, known as "The Old Line," being the one most favorable to Maryland. The Maryland citizens, of course, defended this border, while the Pennsylvanians fought for the newer line, which would give them more land. It is said that the Marylanders held so strenuously to the "Old Line" that they earned Maryland its name as "The Old Line State."

Finally, when Mason and Dixon surveyed the boundary, completing it in 1767, the long bitter quarreling came to an end, and the Mason and Dixon line became even more famous than the "Old Line."

The first of the two theories is held to be the most authentic, however, by the best authorities, so when next you receive your copy of The Old Line, or see Terp athletes in action on the field of conflict, remember it's the Battle of Long Island—not Great Neck.

Turkey Case

Robert McCandlish, Jr., '30, son of Robert McCandlish, '99, is an ardent student of the law. After graduating, he began the study of law at George Washington University and lived with his uncle, a practicing lawyer in Fairfax County, Virginia.

Bob now is practicing in the same town. One of his first cases was of considerable interest. It seems he was defending a man accused of stealing turkeys and, although Bob felt his client was guilty of making off with the fowl, he was successful in his defense and the man was allowed to go Scott free. Ever since then the young barrister's uncle has teasingly asked Bob whether he got a turkey as a fee. To all of this, Mr. McCandlish merely shrugs his shoulders and laughs, because the man has moved away and should he repeat his performance, at least he will be in some one else's district.

« OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES »

By W. H. ("BILL") HOTTEL

Ring Team Shines Under New Coach

Major Harvey K. Miller, Heinie to his friends, has a mighty good right (and left too if you want to throw in another punch) to be proud of his first season as mentor of the Maryland boxing team that he piloted to an unbeaten record in seven dual meets.

Gaining six victories and one tie, that included triumphs over Virginia, North Carolina and Western Maryland, the Terp boxers registered 41½ wins against 14½ defeats in the 56 individual matches.

The Terps beat Western Maryland, 6 to 2; Richmond, 8 to 0; North Carolina, 5 to 3; V. M. I., 7 to 1; Virginia, 5 to 3; Rutgers, 6½ to 1½, and "suffered" a tie with Catholic U. But for a decision (and many of the old grads were on hand) that was booed for 10 minutes that cost Mike Lombardo a win, it would have been seven straight.

Ed Shegogue, 115 pounder; Tom Birmingham, 125; Benny Alperstein, 135; Ivan Nedomatsky, 145; Mike Lombardo, 155; Lancelot Jacques and Bob Walton, 165; John Gormley, 175, and Alex Males, who fought 165 and 175, were the big guns of the team. Ed Egnell, soph heavy, was doing well until placed on scholastic probation and then forfeits followed in that class.

Three Set Fast Pace

Birmingham, with six wins and a draw; Alperstein with seven straight triumphs, and Nedomatsky, who scored six times and got a forfeit, were the only boys to weather the campaign without defeat, but all the other regulars did remarkably well as did some of the pinch hitters, notably George Dorr, red-headed 115-pounder mittman.

Miller will have a task on his hands next year, though, as he is going to be hard hit by graduation. Those in the senior class are: Shegogue, Birmingham, Nedomatsky, Lombardo, Jacques and Gormley.

Dorr, Alperstein, Walton, Males and Egnell will provide the nucleus of the 1938 combination and this is not such a bad start. Both Shegogue and Jacques have another year of boxing should they decide to return and do some advanced work. However, there is no indication that they will.

When this was written, the boys were putting on their final tuning up for the Southern Conference tourney, that was staged in Ritchie Coliseum for the first time in the 11 years of the affair.

Basketers Thrill Although "In Red"

Maryland's basket-ball team wound up its regular campaign in whirlwind fashion on February 24, when it staged a sensational rally to conquer the North Carolina State quint, 41 to 35, after trailing 6 to 18 at intermission.

It was the finest comeback by any team he ever had coached, Burton Shipley said after the contest. Thirty-five points in 20 minutes is some basket-ball.

Despite the fact, however, that the Terps finished so flashily, the quint for only the fourth time in the 14 years of Shipley's coaching wound up on the wrong side of the ledger, winning 8 games and losing 11. Shipley, though, still has an average of 65 per cent wins at Maryland against strong opposition each season, and few mentors can boast such success.

Maryland figured in some great battles it didn't win. Duke won both of the tilts with the Terps, once by 4 points and again by 3; North Carolina State took the first game in overtime, and Washington and Lee's great outfit scored by 41-35 in the best game of the year at College Park, except the closer with the Wolfpack.

Problem At Center

Lack of a center who could get the tap-off to any great extent and grab the rebounds off the backboard was the telling factor in holding the Terps back. Otherwise the assets were on hand for a fine team. Fundamentally no team to appear at College Park displayed better basket-ball.

Al Waters, Charlie Keller, Ben Allen and Bill Guckeyson are the only seniors on the team, and the last named may return to school next year, and he is eligible for basket-ball if he does.

Waverly Wheeler, Bill Bryant and John McCarthy are the juniors on the squad, while George Knepley, Eddie Johnson and George Millitz were the sophs. All of the rookies played well this season and promise to be aces next year.

Shipley will also get a needed center in Charlie Norton, a tall rugged boy, and some other talent worth while from the 1937 fresh.

Riflemen Score Impressive Wins

Maryland riflist continue to score impressive wins in postal matches. Among those to bow recently to the Marylander's were Hopkins, Gettysburg and Mississippi State. The Maryland team has maintained its splendid record under the coaching of Major Frank Ward and captained by Will Jensen.

The schedule will be concluded by the Navy shoulder-to-shoulder-match and the Intercollegiate Tournament.

At the present time the Terps are firing a tournament of their own. The Aaron Mehring Trophy elimination, in honor of the sterling marksman who last year became the first Marylander to be named an All-American on the National Rifle Squad.

Terp Ring Squad Wins Loop Title

With Tom Birmingham and Ivan Nedomatsky winning titles in the 125 and 145 pound divisions, Maryland won the Southern Conference boxing championship in the tourney held in Ritchie Coliseum February 26 and 27. The Terps got 19 points to Duke's 16 for second place.

Ben Alperstein, 135, John Gormley, 175, and Alex Males, heavy, added the other points by being runner-ups.

None of the other teams were close to the leaders. Nedomatsky turned the tide to Maryland when he gave Duke's favored Danny Farrar, national college champion, a good beating. This bout was the highlight of the tournament.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Al Heagy tutored a freshman basket-ball team to an undefeated season, winning 12 games, most of them by impressive margins. A two-point victory over the Georgetown Freshmen was the high light of the campaign, the winning basket being shot in the last 30 seconds of play.

Heagy's regulars were: Charlie Norton, Chevy Chase, center; Joe Kelly, Cumberland, and John Snow, Washington, forwards; and Persing Mondorff, Emmitsburg; Leo Muller, Baltimore, and Bill Rea, Washington, guards. Bill Kolius, a good forward, went on the scholastic ineligibility list at mid-term.

o

Lyman McAvoy, who coached the freshmen boxers and aided Heinie Miller with the varsity, had only a small squad of yearlings, but did well in two losing meets with Staunton Military Academy and Virginia freshmen. Al Dieffenbach, 125; Nathan Askin, 135; Tom Coleman, 145; Bill Morris, 175, and Donald Adams, heavyweight, were the best of the rookies. These and several others should be a help to the varsity next year. Askins and Coleman probably are the leading prospects.

Spring sports and grid practice now are populating the fields at College Park. Frank Dobson is putting the soph gridders through daily sessions that will last until early in April; Jack Faber and Al Heagy have the lacrosse aspirants doing their stuff, Burton Shipley is baseball minded, and Geary Eppley, turning from the indoor to the outdoor season, is continuing in a larger way activities that began on the board before Christmas.

Dobson is getting a line on his recruits for next fall, but the others are preparing for real business that is near at hand. Ship, Faber and Ep all should have pretty good teams, with the defense being the main problem in lacrosse, pitching the usual task in baseball and some worries in both the field and running events in track. However, all should be capable of providing tasty performances for the old grads and students.

It should also be mentioned—and in a big way—that Les Bopst is busy as a bee with tennis. Early workouts, of course, were on the floor in Ritchie Coliseum. The outlook is for a pretty good varsity team and a freshman aggregation that will make the prospects rosy for the future.

Historical Sketch Of Law School

The General Assembly of Maryland in 1812, authorized the College of Medicine of Maryland, founded in 1807, "to constitute, appoint and annex to itself three other colleges or faculties, viz., the Faculty of Divinity, the Faculty of Law, and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences," and declared that "the four colleges or faculties thus united should be constituted an university by the name and under the title of the University of Maryland." In pursuance of this authority the University was organized in 1813, being one of the oldest chartered universities in America, coming eighth, according to official figures.

While the first faculty of law was chosen in 1813, and David Hoffman was elected professor of law, and published in 1817 "A Course of Legal Study Addressed to Students and the Profession Generally," which Justice Story in an article in the North American Review pronounced to be "by far the most perfect system for the study of law which has ever been offered to the public," and which recommended a course of study so comprehensive as to require for its completion six or seven years, no regular school of instruction in law was opened until 1823. This was suspended in 1836 for lack of proper pecuniary support and on account of the small number of students who were able or willing to spend the time necessary, when admission to the bar was of little difficulty, to take advantage of the course of Professor Hoffman, whose ideals of legal education were far in advance of his times. In 1869 the Law School was reorganized, and in 1870 regular instruction therein was begun. From time to time the course has been made more comprehensive and the Board of Instructors increased in number. Its graduates now number more than three thousand, and included among them are a large proportion of the leaders of the bench and bar in the State, and many who have attained prominence in the profession elsewhere.

Two other Law Schools, the Baltimore Law School and the Baltimore University of Law, were organized under charters granted by the State of Maryland. These two schools, both doing good work and steadily advancing their standards, were consolidated under the name of the Baltimore Law School in 1911. In 1913 the Baltimore Law School was in turn merged into the Law School of the University of Maryland. On July 1, 1920, the University of Maryland and the Maryland State College were consolidated under the name of the University of Maryland.

Terps To Help Stage Big Meet

Maryland will be the joint sponsor with the Fifth Regiment of Baltimore of an indoor meet in the latter's spacious armory in Baltimore on the night of March 6. It will be the first big indoor affair held in this section in years.

Two events will be featured, the "Governor's Mile and the Oriole 660." Governor Harry Nice has donated the mile trophy and Mayor Howard Jackson of Baltimore has given the 660 prize.

Besides these two classics, there will be twenty-five additional attractions in which will be entered trackmen from the ranks of nearby high and prep schools, Yale, Navy, Georgetown, Catholic U., members of the Southern Conference, and nationally known stars.

The track, is one of the largest in the East, being eight laps to the mile. Already the armory's boards have felt the choppy stride of sprinters, the fast swing of quarter milers, and the slower rhymthical striding of the distance men. Coach Eppley has had his thinclads in the Monumental City several times to get them acquainted with the 220 yard unbanked oval.

Maryland will have its own quota of track stars in the meet. Coleman Headley, Southern Conference Mile Champion, Frank Cronin, the 440 ruler, and the Terp relay quartet are some of the Old Liners who will participate.

ROSSBURG INN

o

Landmark Of Early Maryland History

(Picture on Cover.)

Thinking of the Rossburg Inn as a famous breakfasting place where many gay stage coach parties from Baltimore and Washington spent their evenings, we visualize quaint old "Uncle Ned," the white-haired darkey, with his famous "dancin' fiddle" and the dancers bowing and curtesying daintily to the low, sweet strains of a minuet.

Quainter still was the founding of this famous old Inn. Even the bricks have a history of their own, as it is thought they were brought from England as a ballast for ships docking in Bladensburg, which at that time was a great shipping center.

The keystone over the door of the Rossburg Inn has on it the name "T. Coe London," the date 1798, and also a figure which represents Silenus, teacher and trainer of Bacchus the God of wine. This is most appropriate, perhaps, for an inn because Silenus quite frequently over-indulged in wine.

The building originally had a colonial gabled roof, which was changed in 1888 to a mansard roof. At the same time the front porch was built. The upstairs floor, the stairway, the railing and the archway on the first floor are all the originals.

In the days when it was used as an inn the front room on the left, which is now a laboratory, was the main reception room. The back room on the left was the barroom, which had a private stair going down to the wine cellar. There were also frame additions on the north and south sides of the building which were used for guests. These were torn down some years ago.

Stage Coach Change

According to tradition the first change of horses was made at the Rossburg Inn on the road to Balti-

ANNUAL DINNER---NEW YORK GROUP

Pres. Byrd Speaks At New York Dinner

With Dr. H. C. Byrd as the guest speaker the New York Group of the Alumni Association held their annual Midwinter dinner party March 5. Mr. Fred B. Rakeman, '18, was toastmaster for the occasion.

More than fifty people were present for the dinner. A short business session was held at which time J. Donald Kieffer, '29, president since the group's reorganization in 1935 was reelected. Fred Rakeman is to be his able assistant as vice-president, and Sarah Morris, '25, the guiding hand as secretary-treasurer. Munroe Leaf and Johnny Burke are the co-recorders and publicity directors.

Dr. Byrd gave the group the inside facts on the program and happenings at the University. The talk was followed by moving pictures of the boxing teams, the float parade at Homecoming, and the Florida football game.

In addition to several similar dinner parties held by the Club during the year, luncheons are held each Wednesday at Planters Restaurant, 124 Greenwick Street. Stop by and see the boys.

Fifty Years Club

Dr. John S. Diehl, '86, D. D. S., last year became a member of the fifty year club. For that length of time he has been an alumnus and for nearly the same length of time he was a practicing dentist in Washington County. For this achievement he was awarded a certificate for his faithful services by the Dental Alumni Association. Dr. Diehl now resides in Hancock, Maryland. His son, Dr. Crown O. Diehl, '18, a prominent dentist of Washington County and an active member of the alumni group.

Special Reunions

Five, ten, fifteen, twenty, tnd twenty-five year reunions are being planned by the various classes on Alumni Day, May 27, at College Park. All Alumni are invited to attend but these classes will put on the show.

Classes of '32, '27, '22, 17 and '12 are the ones who will take the lead. The fifty year class will be given a 50-year club certificate.

More Students Gain Scholastic Honors

Forty-three more students received 3.5 or better averages during the first semester of the current school year than during the corresponding period of the 1935-'36 term, according to figures released by the University registrar.

Of the total of 108, thirty-nine were students in the College of Arts and Sciences, 26 in the College of Education, 18 in the Engineering College, 15 in the College of Agriculture and 13 from Home Economics.

Although the Senior Class has the smallest enrollment, 48, the highest number of honor students, were members of that group. Of the remainder, 28 were juniors, 10 sophomores and 19 were freshmen.

According to academic regulations, these students are allowed unlimited cuts from classes but are responsible for all written work and announced examinations.

Admiral Rossiter Remains Surgeon General of Navy

Rear-Admiral Percival S. Rossiter, Surgeon General of the Navy and Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, was reappointed by President Roosevelt. Admiral Rossiter will serve until November 30, 1938, when he reaches the retirement age of 64 years. He has already had four years as surgeon general. In addition to his fine record, his reappointment was to continue his personal supervision in building the Navy Medical Center in Washington.

Old Tires Being Used

Mike Levin, '15, has been granted a number of patents since 1927, but he now is working on one of great possibilities. It is a new product made from old automobile tires. His process has been patented, the manufacturing is next and then the sales promotion work. The product has leather properties and has already been adopted by several companies. Mr. F. A. Sieberling, former president of the Goodyear Tire Company has been giving Mike some help.

Next fall Mike expects to enter his son in the University of Maryland. The Levins are now living in Akron, Ohio.

Washington County Alumni To Organize

Plans are rapidly taking form for the organization of an Alumni Group in Washington County. At a committee meeting held recently Mr. Henry Holzapfel, Jr., '93, member of the Board of Regents, was elected temporary chairman; L. G. Mathias, '23, secretary. Those to assist in the organization movement are D. A. Woelfinger and Robert H. McCauley, Law; Dr. Crown O. Diehl, Dr. T. A. Chappalear, and Dr. W. W. Noel, Dental; Dr. Royal A. Bell and Charles Mowrer, Medical; Drs. Arthur C. Harbaugh and Earle H. Lightner, Pharmacy; College Park Schools, Andrew Cohill, Irving Wolfe, Kenneth Spence, Edwin Semler. Messrs. Wolfinger and Holzapfel were appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws to be presented before an organization meeting on March 30, 1937, at the Alexandria Hotel. The committee also decided to sponsor the appearance of the University glee club in Hagerstown on April 10 at the High School

Dr. Charles F. Mowrer, '13, M. D., a prominent physician in Hagerstown, is president of the Washington County Medical Society.

Dr. T. A. Chappelear, '28, D. D. S., is president of the Washington County Dental Society.

Glee Club Tour

A spring tour will be taken by the University Glee Club early in April. Their first appearance will be at the Center Street Methodist Church in Cumberland on Thursday, April 8. The performance is being sponsored by the Boys and Girls 4-H Club with the Alumni Group of Allegany County assisting.

On the following evening the Club will appear at the Hancock High School. Mr. Andrew Cohill, a prominent horticulturist and Alumni of Hancock, is taking a very active interest in sponsoring this performance. This is the second annual appearance of the Club in Hancock.

A third appearance will be made at Hagerstown under the auspices of the newly organized Alumni Group, of which Mr. Henry Holzapfel, Jr., '93, is chairman and Mr. L. G. Mathias, '23, is secretary. The program will be held at the Hagerstown High School.

Coed Fencers

Blades flashing, hair flying, and feminine pulchritude lunging all over the Field House. That was the scene at a coed fencing session.

Every Wednesday and Friday some thirty coeds gather at the Woman's Field House, where they are instructed in the various phases of foiling. The other weapons, saber and epee, are a bit too rough for the lassies according to their coaches, who, by the way, are the same two boys who also direct the men's fencing team.

But to get back to the girls. Some of the coeds have progressed far enough in the sport to begin actual dueling (its really called fencing, but the feminine mind, always romantic, prefers to think of the stab and jab sport in that light). They put on quite an exhibition. One girl in particular, hollered every time she was touched. Once her opponent faked a lunge, and the first fencer automatically let go an expressive "OUCH!"

The other coeds, not yet good enough to engage in actual competition, put on a different show. It consisted of lunging, retreating, advancing, and lunging again, and then repeating the whole exercise about fifteen times. That was about too much for the gals, though, and they had to take a long rest after that.

The coeds are prepping hard for their expected meet, next month, with the Goucher "Musketeerettes," and are rounding into fine form. Yes, their collective forms were very good. But their faces weren't bad either.

Speaks On Spain

In the first of a new series of lectures on world problems, the International Relations Club presented Dr. Wesley Gewehr, professor of history at American University, who spoke on "Behind the Spanish Front."

Dr. Gewehr, who is rated in the field of education as an able historian as well as instructor, based his discussion upon personal observations made in Spain last summer during the height of the current revolution. This upheaval in Spain and its influence in European politics as a whole made up the subject matter of the address.

Rossburg Inn

more, Philadelphia and points north from Alexandria and Georgetown.

Tradition also states that George Washington once stopped there, but this is very improbable as no record has ever been found to prove it. It is a known fact, however, that General Lafayette, on his last visit to America, stopped overnight at the Rossburg Inn.

Old Negroes used to tell of being afraid to pass the Inn at night for they thought is was haunted. They said that many a time they had passed late at night and seen the place all lit up and had seen beautiful bewigged ladies and handsome bewigged gentlemen—dancing.

Experiment Station

The Inn was used as such until several years before the property was appropriated for the Maryland Agricultural College in 1856. For a while after that it was allowed to deteriorate. At this time a man named Graboskii, who was at the head of the military and agricultural departments had it for his home. It was he who repaired the Inn and planted the row of maples along the edge of the drive at the back of the house. History states that a detachment of the famous Confederate Army of Jubal Early camped around the Rossburg Inn for the purpose of cutting off re-enforcements of the Union Army arriving from Baltimore and North, when an attack was being made on Washington.

Oldest Building

The Inn was the mecca for the sport lovers of the early days. Many tales are told about the start and the ending of the traditional fox hunts which took place in this section.

It is the oldest of all buildings of the University and in fact is among the oldest in this section of the State which is standing today. As a shrine to the history of the colonial days this old building should be preserved and maintained as a faculty club and the headquarters for Alumni. More tradition can be found around this old building than any other spot on the campus.

ALUMNI DAY, SATURDAY, MAY 29

Dr. Randolph Winslow Leaves Enviable Record

Dr. Randolph Winslow, Professor Emeritus of Surgery of the University of Maryland, School of Medicine and one of its oldest alumni, died February 27, 1937.

A descendant of the distinguished FitzRandolph family, and of Edward Winslow, Governor of Plymouth Colony and a Mayflower pioneer, Dr. Winslow was born in Hertford, North Carolina on October 23, 1852. Here he spent his boyhood and took a lively interest in the cause of the Confederacy. At the end of the Civil War, he came to Baltimore and entered Rugby Academy in 1865, and attended two years. He then went to Haverford College where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1871. After this he studied medicine at the University of Maryland and received his degree as Doctor of Medicine in 1873. Then followed postgraduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and in Philadelphia hospitals and a course in clinical microscopy under the late Dr. Joseph Richardson. In 1874 he was given his degree of Master of Arts by Haverford, following examination after special study in advanced Greek.

DOCTOR WINSLOW DEAN ROWLAND

Returns to Alma Mater

Returning to Baltimore, he became associated with his Alma Mater as prosector to the professor of anatomy, Dr. Francis T. Miles, and in the next year was associated with Dr. J. Edwin Michael as assistant demonstator of anatomy. This position he held for six years and there was thus inaugurated a devoted service to the University which was maintained without interval for the remainder of his life.

From 1880 to 1886 he was demonstator of anatomy and until 1891, lecturer on clinical surgery. He succeeded Dr. Michael as professor of anatomy in 1891, and thereby became a member of the Faculty. In 1902, on the resignation of Dr. Tiffany, Dr. Winslow became professor of surgery and occupied this chair until he was appointed Professor Emeritus of Surgery in 1921.

Studied in Europe

Dr. Winslow traveled widely. In 1883 he spent a half-year in Europe, for the most part in the University and clinics of Vienna. Here he took courses of instruction from men afterwards famous, Lorenz, Woelfler and von Hacker. From the Billroth Clinic he brought back latest methods of surgical technique and samples of appliances in use there and made early attempts in Baltimore toward the introduction of surgical antisepsis. Because of his enthusiastic interest in the advancement of medical education, he attended many of the national and international medical congresses.

The call for a conference of the medical schools of this country was issued by the schools that now form the medical department of the University of Maryland, and resulted in the formation of the Association of American Medical College. Dr. Winslow was a valued member of the Executive Council of this Association, and his service in this connection deserves the highest praise. He steadfastly stood for every reasonable progress. He believed in real scholarship and was steadfast foe to sham and pretense of every sort. No half-way measures contented him and he was no disciple of expediency.

President Medical Society

He was vice-president of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland in 1897 and its president in 1914. He was a Fellow of the American Surgical Association, of the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association and of the American College of Surgeons. He was for many years a member of the Judicial Council of the American Medical Association and arranged to take part in the annual meeting of this organization wherever it was held.

At the age of twenty-five, he married Miss Rebecca Fayssoux Leiper of Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and of this very fortunate union there were 13 children, of whom 12 survive. Several are graduates of the University.

As a teacher, his chief concern was to give faithful, competent instruction and he required of the student genuine application and diligent work. His interest in the University continued unabated and he visited the school regularly until about ten days before his death.

Rushing Rules Change

In a complete revision of the existing Greek rush system, the Interfraternity Council last week announced through President Dale Patterson the adoption of a plan which will govern 1937 rushing.

Briefly, the newly revised system consists of a three week rushing period to begin the first day of classes next semester. Official pledge day will follow immediately after the three week interval.

OUR LIBRARY HISTORY

By Mrs. Grace Barnes, '35, M. A.

In the early years of the 1870's, a reading room in the old college building seemed to have been the first harbinger of a library on the campus. In this room general agricultural periodicals and newspapers of the State were available. Several years later the College Library, as history states, contained several hundred books, the Mercer Literary Society approximately 1,500 and the private libraries of professors as many more, all of which were accessible to the students "under proper conditions."

What we now call the "Old Library Building," which was built in 1894, housed the library on the second floor and the gymnasium on the first floor. Credit for the organization of the library in the new building was given to a student, Richard R. Pue, '94, and said to be "slowly assuming its proper place as one of the most important departments of the institution."

First Library Committee

An outstanding date is October 22, 1901, when the first Library Committee met and organized. Dr. H. B. McDonnell, chairman, called the meeting to order, Prof. F. B. Bomberger, '94, was elected secretary. Professor Bomberger, who occupied the Chair of English and Civics, was especially active, and in March 1905, he was given the title of Librarian. About that time the library was put in much better condition for reading purposes, and soon after the books were classified according to the Dewey Decimal System.

In 1915 the Experiment Station and the College libraries were merged and the combined libraries contained about 15,000 books and pamphlets.

Important Changes

The building was renovated and refurnished in November, 1918, and the recataloguing of the books was begun, Library Extension Loans were inaugurated, a course in Library Methods, to teach the use of the catalogue and reference books, was made a part of the curriculum of the school of Liberal Arts, the Librarian, Miss Miltana Rowe, teaching the course.

Miss Rowe resigned her position in 1923 and was succeeded by Miss Grace Barnes, '35, M. A., the present Librarian.

In 1925 the interior of the library was altered to permit of closing the book stacks and installing a regular charging system to prevent loss. The library was made a depository for government documents in 1925. The greatest development in the library history was the new building, first occupied in April 1931, and an increase in the regular staff from two to six, more student assistants, and additional funds for books. Volumes on the campus now number over 60,000. As many as 1,500 visits are made to the reading room during a 12-hour day. Last year 65,557 volumes were loaned, 5,023 volumes were catalogued and 308 students took Library Methods as a part of their courses.

Received Many Gifts

The library has been favored with many gifts including pictures, statuary, books and furniture given by classes, estates and individuals. Some of the principal gifts in the order of their receipt are: 1890—Set of English and American Short-Horn Herd books, from the Hon. Charles E. Coffin; 1900—Literature on all matters pertaining to Arctic explorations, from Mr. William S. Keech; 1919—Statue of Winged Victory, from the Summer School of 1919; 1920—A chair, Summer School of 1920; 1923—$290.70 with which books and pictures were bought, from class of 1923; Spanish books valued at $100 from the Latin-American Club; set of Maryland Archives, from Maryland Historical Associations; 1923 - 26—German literature in 242 volumes from a gentleman of Washington through Dr. A. E. Zucker; money from the class of 1925 with which a set of Century Dictionary was purchased; 1928 - 37—More than 100 books from the library of Mrs. Henrietta Goodridge, through Dean T. H. Taliaferro; a nearly complete set of experiment station bulletins and 420 bound volumes from Dean H. J. Patterson; 62 volumes on political science and history, obtained from Yale University Press by Dr. Hayes Baker-Crothers; large pictures from the classes of 1929 and 1932; 100 volumes from the late Hon. Samuel M. Shoemaker; 900 miscellaneous volumes transferred from the library of the School of Medicine; 60 volumes of German classics from the daughters of Carl Ernst Vetter, as a memorial to their father; seven books on journalism from the Washington Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma; 270 books and pamphlets from the library of Dr. J. C. Hemmeter of Baltimore; 294 books, besides many bulletins and papers pertaining to the Maryland Farmers' Institute, from the library of William Lee Amoss of Benson, Md.; a text book collection of 213 and 76 books, respectively, from Miss Kathleen M. Smith and Professor Henry Brechbill; $100 for purchase of books from class of 1935; 52 books from Mr. Temple Thomason; 466 books from Mrs. Rosalie Small; about 700 volumes of veterinary books from the library of the late Dr. Samuel Suterland Buckley; 100 volumes of Herd Register of American Jersey Cattle Club, from Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs.

Such gifts have helped very much to enrich the library and are sincerely appreciated.

Difficult Schedules Test Spring Teams

Maryland's spring sports teams are about to plunge into a campaign that will severely test their mettle, with the outlook that they will not be able to match the great record made last year.

The lacrosse ten, defending the national collegiate title; the baseball nine, defending the Southern Conference crown, and the highly successful track and tennis outfits of 1936, have their work cut out for them. Last spring these four combinations captured 36 of 47 dual affairs. They have 51 such events this year, in addition to the track team's participation in the Penn Relays and the Conference games.

The lacrosse squad has 10 tilts; the nine is booked for 23 games; the track team has 8 dual meets and the netmen again have 10 matches.

Nine's Outlook Best

The nine appears to have the best chance to match its 1936 mark, its losses being less severe than the others. Fred Thomas, catcher; George Wood, southpaw, and Dale Patterson, pitchers; Gordon Treas, first; Mike Surgent, second; Waverly Wheeler, third, and Bill Bryant and Jack Egan, outfielders, offer a strong veteran nucleus.

Jack Hurley, Shorty Chumbris and Tom Scharf, infielders; George Knepley, first; Lefty Chumbris, outfielder, and Chad Beebe, Kyle Ruble, Charlie Weidinger and Lynn James, southpaw, pitchers, are the other leading talent. All except Hurley, Beebe and Ruble are sophs.

Loss of Charlie Keller and his big bat was a blow that is sure to cost some games.

Jack Kelly, goalie; Charlie Yeager and Oden Bowie, defense; Parker Lindsay, Charlie Ellinger and George Watson, attack, are the letter men who form the backbone of the lacrosse team, which was hard hit by graduation, especially on defense.

John Muncks, goal; Jack Downin, defense, and Bill Groff, attack, nonletter stickers of 1936; Bob Neilson and Fred Hewitt, two clever attackers; Jim Meade, John Page and Bob Diggs, defense, and Haskin Deeley, goal keeper, from the last year's frosh, present the main hopes to fill the gaps.

Bill Wolfe, defense, and Bud Hammerlund, attack, two men banked upon to play regularly, were lost by unusual mishaps. Wolfe stepped in a hole and tore a knee ligament while doing some personal conditioning work, and Hammerlund broke his ankle in a tough football game with Hopkins.

Return of Bill Guckeyson, star three-event field man, after a year on the shelf with a minor injury, bolsters the track team greatly, but the loss of Coleman Headley, ace middle-distancer, until May 1, because of illness, is a blow. Joe Ryan, sprinter; Paul Cronin, pole-vaulter and 440-yard ace; Hermie Evans, 440 and hurdles; Bill Theis and Logan Schutz, quartermilers; Kenneth Belt and George Orcutt, distance runners, and Charlie Zulick, shot and discus, are the other leading left-overs.

Ed Miller, clever high jumper; Gordon Kluge, all-around field man; Joe Peaslee, half-miler; Alex Males, javelin, and Nick Budkoff, shot and discus, are the main contributions from the 1936 frosh.

Net Team's Road Rough

It is the tennis team, though, with only four letter men left, that has the hardest row to hoe. Edmund Beacham, Keaciel Krulevitz, Robert Land and Ted Lehmann are the veterans who will carry on, with Harvey Kreuzburg and Harry McGinnis, sophs, giving the main support.

All the schedules are difficult. Dartmouth, Michigan, Cornell, Navy, Duke, Rutgers, Yale, Georgetown and Temple are among the baseball foes, and practically every power in lacrosse in the country, except Army, is on the stick list, the toughest faced by any team.

Dartmouth and Navy, along with a half-dozen Southern Conference rivals, will be met in track, and the netmen have booked the best in the section.

Quint Gets Tough Break In Tourney

Maryland's basket-ball team was eliminated by North Carolina State, 42 to 35, in the first round of the Southern Conference basket-ball tourney at Raleigh an March 4, but there were extenuating circumstances.

Fred Thomas and Charlie Keller, Maryland's ace guards, both were lost in the first 10 minutes of the game. Keller, in turning quickly to play the ball, accidently hit a State player on the face with his wrist, and was ruled out by Referee Proctor on an unjust charge of "slugging." Thomas went out a few minutes later with a cut received over his eye that required two stitches to mend. It came from an elbow jab by a State player on whom not even a foul was called, quite a contrast to the action in the Keller case.

Under the conditions, Maryland, which was playing great ball with Thomas and Keller in action, did exceedingly well to make the game as close as it did. Had they not been lost the Terps believe they could have won.

Get A Flying Start

Maryland's varsity and freshman teams in football, basket-ball and boxing did well enough in the fall and winter sports, with the scrappers to the forefront, of course.

In all, the six teams won two-thirds of their events, registering 35 triumphs, losing on 18 occasions and figuring in two ties.

They sent the spring teams off with a fine opportunity to have a typical Maryland record for the 1936-37 term.

The fall and winter records:

	W.	L.	Tied
Varsity Football	6	5	0
Varsity Basket-ball	8	11	0
Varsity Boxing	6	0	1

Boxing Team Rules Southern Conference

Maryland's boxing team climaxed an interesting and successful indoor campaign by walking off with the Southern Conference team crown and two individual titles in the championship meet held in Ritchie Coliseum February 26 and 27.

Ivan Nedomatsky clinched the title by decisively defeating the great Danny Farrar of Duke in the 145-pound final. This bout was the feature of the tourney and Farrar had been made the favorite by the public.

Tom Birmingham, 125-pounder, won the other crown, defeating Johnny Murray, a fine scrapper from Clemson, in the deciding bout.

Benny Alperstein, who was just shaded by a thin margin by Jack Knepp, Duke ace, in the final, and Johnny Gormley, 175, and Alec Males, heavy, earned the other points for Maryland.

Only champs and runners-up scored, the former getting five point and the latter three. Thus Maryland got 19 points, Duke was second with 16, Clemson, South Carolina and Citadel followed with 8 each, and North Carolina got 5.

Wake Forest, N. C. State, Richmond U. and Virginia Tech failed to count, but each showed some good boxers in the preliminaries.

With Maryland having the best record in the regular season and capping it by taking the tourney, there was no doubt as to the Terps being best in the Conference. They also defeated Virginia, 1936 champion, which withdrew from the Conference at the December meeting.

Gormley and Males deserve great credit for helping to bring the title to Maryland. Gormley fought despite a painfully injured thumb that forced him to forfeit in the final, and Males entered the heavy class after having fought his other two bouts of the season in the 165 and 175 pound divisions, respectively.

Indoor Track Meet Proves Big Success

Swede Eppley, track coach and athletic director, and others of the Old Liners were pleased with the success of the Maryland-Fifth Regiment meet held in the soldiers' big armory in Baltimore on March 6.

All agreed that the affair was gratifying from the standpoint of keen competition and the support it received. It is intended to make it an annual affair and should improve with age.

The Terps, too, gathered their share of laurels, capturing the A. A. U. trophy mainly through the efforts of freshmen, and figuring prominently in the collegiate events.

Joe McCluskey and Bill Ray of New York won the features, the Governor's Mile and the Oriole 660. Maryland was not represented in either of these races. Coleman Headley being kept out of the mile by illness.

Athletes from Canada to as far south as Durham, N. C. took part in the games. Yale, Navy, Temple, Georgetown, Duke, North Carolina were among those to send delegations.

Field Day Plans Are Being Made

Swede Eppley, track impressario and athletic director, and his aide-de-camps are giving serious thought right now to the annual field day at College Park, which this year falls upon May 1.

As usual, there will be the featured interscholastic meet in which there will be 13 open events and eight closed to the county high schools of the State. Backing up the schoolboy competition will be four varsity contests, baseball with Georgetown, lacrosse with Syracuse, track with William and Mary and tennis with Catholic University.

There will be no freshmen meet on the program this year, as all the time is needed to run off the other events.

While the times have not been definitely set, here is how the program doubtless will be run:

12.30—Start of scholastic meet.
1.00—Start of varsity meet with William and Mary to be run concurrently with schoolboy events.
1.00—Tennis match with Catholic U.
2.00—Baseball game with Georgetown.
4.00—Lacrosse game with Syracuse.

Terps Upset Navy

Maryland's rifle team, coached by Maj. Frank Ward, and doubtless the best ever to fire for the Old Liners, sprang a major upset on March 13 at Annapolis by defeating Navy. It is a rare feat to outshoot the Middies. The score actually was tied at 1,393 each, but Maryland won because of doing a point better work at standing, the most difficult shooting position.

Scores made by the Terp shooters follow:

Forty Gridmen Toiling

Frank Dobson, head football coach, has more than 40 boys toiling in spring practice, and all of them, with the exception of four, are members of last year's freshman squad. He is pleased with the outlook for adding needed talent to the riddled 1936 aggregation.

Goes Into Professional Baseball

Maryland has lost its ace ball player, Charlie Keller, who has been signed by the New York Yankees and placed with Newark of the International League, a "farm" of the American Leaguers. Keller left school to join the Newark team in training.

Doubtless the best ball player ever turned out at Maryland and rated the best hitter the college has produced in many years, Keller seems certain of a brilliant major league career. His loss was a great blow to Coach Burton Shipley's team.

CHARLIE KELLER

Keller, whose home is in Middletown, Md., will return to school next October to complete his work for a degree. He also was a basket-ball star and an outstanding and highly popular student.

Wrestlers Win Titles

Maryland won two titles in the D. C. A. A. U. Intercollegiate wrestling matches held at Kendall Green.

Unusual in that the Terps and Gallaudet were the only teams entered, Gallaudet won the meet 41-26.

Ed Wood, who defeated Berg and Council of the D. C. school, won the 145 pound title, and I. Leites, who downed Sellner of Gallaudet and teammate Franny Dipple, copped the 165 pound crown, were the Maryland victors.

For Captain Sylvester

In the history of our University, especially the College Park School, there was a man who led and inspired the rebuilding of a near-dormant institution. Capt. R. W. Sylvester, president of the Maryland Agricultural College from 1892 to 1912, was a man of sterling character, leadership and ability. Every word spoken by those alumni who were fortunate to be students under him have been laudatory to the highest degree.

In recognition of his great accomplishments in behalf of our University it is suggested that those alumni who were his students take the initiative to have a portrait painted in oil of Captain Sylvester, and presented to the University.

His ideals and wisdom seem to have been imbedded so deeply in those students of his who have today gained positions of prominence that his spirit should be kept alive and perpetuated upon succeeding generations.

Volunteers are asked for and will be given every cooperation by the alumni office in their endeavor to accomplish the undertaking.

"M" Club Trophy

The statement in the March number of the ALUMNI NEWS with regard to the "M" Club Trophy is in error and should be corrected to say that the "M" Club Trophy is for county schools relay winners.

It was announced on the program that this trophy was awarded on the basis of successive wins but it was originally designed to be given once a year and will be continued on this basis. The winner of the trophy this year was Hyattsville High School of Prince George's County and not Baltimore City College as previously stated.

ANNUAL ALUMNI DAY SATURDAY, MAY 29

THE CALL TO COLORS has sounded for the great army of University of Maryland alumni to assemble at College Park, Saturday, May 29, 1937. It will be the forty-fifth assembly of the association and the reunion of many old friends and classmates. Reminiscing will be the topic of the day, calling to mind the happy days On The Hill.

Many changes have taken place about the old campus for those old grads of years ago. It is a revelation to view the modern developments in education and to realize that you were an integral part in its pioneer life.

Despite the many changes there are many familiar faces who have molded the lines of this generation. They rejoice in seeing you and I need not say you will in seeing them. To the more recent graduate, your reminiscing is a great deal more truthful as the intervening years have not clouded your faculty of memory. But each year you can add to the exaggeration and get just as much enjoyment. Come back to the campus and refresh your memory as it is like the spring of youth.

The baby graduates will see many faces they said goodbye to last year and the year before. The fraternity house will not be strange to them, the meals just as enticing and probably more so.

It takes all classes to make the day. Those who do not return take away from the pleasures of others.

The first call will be for registration at 10 A. M. at the University Gym. Here you will find out who is about from the bulletin board. Also get your luncheon ticket, your guest ticket to the lacrosse game, and proper identification for an alumnus. Then you visit the campus, look up your beloved profs, see the new building, and reminisce with Tom, Jerry, Bill, and Zal.

At noon a buffet luncheon will be served in the gym for alumni, wives, sweethearts and friends. The cost will not exceed 50 cents per person.

The forty-fifth annual meeting of the association will be called to order by President Frank B. Hines, '01, at 1 P. M. An interesting program quite different from any previous ones will be presented. A feature event will be the presentation of tokens of esteem to all past presidents of our association. The highlight of the program will be a talk by Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, our illustrious alumnus and president of our Alma Mater. The closing event will be the election of officers for the ensuing year, president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and four members of the Alumni Board.

At 3 P. M. all those who have completely registered will be guests of the Athletic Board at the varsity lacrosse game with Penn State College in Byrd Stadium. This invitation came through the courtesy of the Athletic Board, members of which are: Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, chairman; Geary Eppley, '18, director of athletics; Prof. C. S. Richardson, '92; Dr. E. N. Cory, '09, and Dr. W. B. Kemp, '12.

Following the lacrosse game tentative arrangements are being made for a social get-together to be held in the University Gym, where a buffet supper would be served. A floor show presented by talented actors would be musical and colorful. Dancing to old familiar tunes would carry on until the curtain falls. Alumni, faculty, wives, husbands, sweethearts, and friends will miss an enjoyable occasion if they do not come back. A definite announcement will be made in the general letter.

When the letter arrives return your card to assist in making adequate preparations.

Mothers' Day For Home Economics

In conjunction with May Day on Monday, May 17, the College of Home Economics will hold its annual Mother's Day celebration. On this day mothers of all Home Economics girls are invited to the campus to view exhibits of the work accomplished by their daughters. The day has grown very popular and each year the attendance has increased.

The arrangements are under the direction of Miss Marie Mount, dean of the College of Home Economics, who originated the day.

The program consists of exhibits during the morning, followed by a luncheon in the Home Economics practice house. In the afternoon the May Day activities will conclude the program.

Bill White Retires

For many years the congenial, humorous, likable, and generous William "Bill" White was proprietor of the campus outpost. During these many past years "Bill" was losing so much money—at least he said so—that he had to retire and live a more leisurely life. Worrying with irksome students and faculty was "Bill's" delight as he was an English psychologist. But it got too much for "Bill" and he decided to retire.

Today he is a gentleman of leisure reminiscing how his wisdom directed many a lad along life's highway.

We are all for "Bill."

The Melting Pot

By P. D. SANDERS, '24

Local boy makes good. President H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland —Eastern Shoresman, Maryland graduate, able, industrious, courageous, likable—has in the short span of two years completely revamped the Old Line institution and set it well on the road to become one of our greatest State universities. Much of his success is attributed to three major steps. First, the various departments were reorganized on an economy and efficiency basis with instructions to the personnel that "future promotions will be based on work accomplished." Second, leading farmers in Maryland were called in to suggest lines of agricultural research and education that should be stressed in the experiment station and the extension service. Third, as money became available for additions to the staff, only the very best talent was employed. Examples: Dr. M. A. Jull, to head the poultry work; K. C. Ikeler, to head the animal and dairy husbandry department, and a dozen other distinguished leaders in their fields.

Employment Opportunities

For those who have not found permanent employment, it might be a splendid idea for them to consider the possibilities of entering the life insurance salesmanship profession. A recent survey of average earnings of members of a class 10 years after graduation showed insurance men at the top.

Those who might be interested in any type of employment are requested to contact the alumni office.

MAY DAY » »

Who shall be Queene of the Maye!
Not the prettiest one, not the wittiest one,
Nor she with the gowne most gaye,
But she who is pleasantest all the daye thru,
With the pleasantest things to say and to do,
She shall be Queene of the Maye.

CROWNING OF THE QUEEN will be the climaxing event of the annual May Day festivities presented by the Junior Class Coeds at 3.30 P. M., on Monday, May 17, at College Park. May Day is an ancient custom, but like coed education at Maryland, it is comparatively young but has grown rapidly. It was in 1923 when the first May Day was held at College Park. The cast was composed of 16 girls before an audience of less tnan 50. This year 125 girls will participate and with the attendance in recent years as an indication, an audience of more than 2,000 will be on hand.

Those girls of 1924 were the pioneers in the crowning event of the coeducational department. In the early days the participants assumed full responsibility for arrangements and finances. They went to the forest for flowers and evergreen trimming. One young lady, who unfortunately was from the big city, New York, was unfamiliar with all types of vegetation, but she volunteered to do her bit and gather the necessary green foliage. Upon her return she exclaimed with enthusiasm her discovery of some beautiful, shiny green leaves. When asked to show them she was calmly informed they were poison ivy. For the next two weeks, needless to say, she was uncomfortable.

Such are the experiences of the May Day celebrations.

It is the custom to keep secret the theme of the narrative and who shall be the queen. There will be, however, some interesting highlights of the forthcoming May Day. Special honors will be conferred upon Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first and only woman member of the Board of Regents. She is a former president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and prominent in State affairs. Mrs. Whitehurst was appointed to the board in 1933 by the late Hon. Albert C. Ritchie, former Governor of Maryland.

JUNE BARNSLEY, QUEEN IN 1936

ZITA ENSOR, QUEEN IN 1923

A tribute will be paid to Mrs. Frank Day (neé Elizabeth Hook, '21), the first woman graduate of the College Park Schools of the University. Mrs. Day is a native of Prince George's County and a former resident of College Park.

For the brave heart that served as chairman of the first May Day's festivities, Mrs. S. R. Newell (Esther Williams, '24), will be appropriately honored.

Another crowning event will be an honorary tribute to Mrs. C. H. Hufford (Zita Ensor, '23), the first Queen of the May. Mrs. Hufford, a Maryland girl, came from Harford County, and continues to make her home there.

Miss Ruth Adams, daughter of Mrs. Donald H. Adams (Eleanor Freeney, 24), will be the crown girl and Misses Betty Ann and Hildreth Newell, daughters of Mrs. S. R. Newell, will be flower girls.

On this day the State Federation of Women's Clubs will be the guests of Dr. H. C. Byrd and in their honor May Day will be presented.

In case of rain the exercises will be held the next day.

"No More Ladies" By Footlight Club

"No More Ladies," a highly sophisticated comedy by A. E. Thomas, has been picked by the local Footlight Club as its final performance of the year on May 21, 22, and 23, according to an announcement made last week by Dr. Charles B. Hale, director.

Fresh from its 264 consecutive performance run on Broadway, "No More Ladies" will make its appearance in amateur dramatics on the University campus. Its author, A. E. Thomas, has not allowed the play to go on the road since it left Broadway, and the local performance will be the first out of New York.

Military Day

Among the great events of the spring schedule is the annual Military Day on Friday, May 14, when competitive drills will be held and the R. O. T. C. stages its final grand parade. Sixteen companies will compete for the Governor's Cup and top honors for the best drilled company. Platoons and squads will also be judged for awards.

That which will probably attract the most attention is the individual competitive drill in the manual of arms. For the first time in the history of the institution, Welsh Smith, a former Washington high school student, won the honor for two consecutive years. The award for this honor is presented by the Class of 1899, headed by J. J. Betton.

All other awards for military efficiency are presented at this time, followed by a grand parade before Dr. H. C. Byrd, Col. J. D. Patch, and distinguished guests.

Glee Club Praised

DEAR MR. POLLOCK—At the entertainment and dance given by The Maryland Society of Washington on March 30th, at the Kennedy-Warren, in celebration of "Maryland Day," March 25th, some of the members of the University of Maryland Mixed Glee Club were asked to be the guests of the Society, and to give us a musical entertainment. Thirty-two members of the Glee Club accepted the invitation—16 young ladies and 16 young men—and they, very ably directed by Mr. Harlan Randall, gave us a splendid musical program, which was greatly enjoyed by the more than 450 members of the Society, and other guests present. I heard a great many complimentary things said about the Glee Club, and the members thereof, during the evening, and, needless to say, I, an alumnus of the University, was very much pleased at the very favorable impression made by these young students. They made a "hit."

The University should be proud of its Glee Club, for it is a credit to the Institution.

Fraternally yours,

GEO. H. CALVERT, JR.,

President, The Maryland Society of Washington.

[Thank you, Col. Calvert, for your laudatory comments. I assure you they are gratefully appreciated—Editor.]

Washington Co. Alumni Elect Holzapfel Pres.

Hon. Henry Holzapfel, Jr., '93, was elected president of the University of Maryland Alumni Group of Washington County at its reorganization meeting, held March 30, at Hagerstown. Other officers elected were: first vice-president, Angle Wolfinger; second vice-president, Cleveland Grice; secretary, L. G. Mathias, '23; treasurer, Irving Wolfe, '33.

Preceding the election the club adopted a constitution calling for regular business meetings and an annual banquet. The officers who compose the executive committee were authorized by motion to proceed with arrangements for the first annual banquet to be held in the early part of May.

All branches of the University were represented at the meeting and a very encouraging spirit of interest prevailed. More than 50 alumni were present.

Old Water Tower Disappears

As the alumni secretary looks around the oldest part of the campus, he sees one of the long-to-be-remembered landmarks being destroyed, the old water tower, the mecca of many a soph-frosh struggle for the display of class numerals. It is said that in the early days the class would fly its flag from the tower. On one occasion, during military days, an expert rifleman, known as Robert McCutchon, brought down the flag by cutting the halyard with a bullet. Many things happened in the days of yore which the student of today listens to with eager ears.

The old tower has been but an ornament since 1926 when its use was abandoned. It was not taken down because a wrecking company wanted $400 for the job. Today it is being sold for a profit of approximately $1,000 which is due to the clouds of war rising across the big pond.

But down comes an old familiar landmark for the past 33 years. As the news spread about the dismantling the alert sophs wanted their numerals of '39 to be the last to appear on the tower. But the observing frosh said that will never do and upon the dawn of another day '40 blazed from the tower. A compromise was reached, assisted by the workmen's blow torch, and the class presidents, Tommy Scharf, the soph leader, from Glenburnie, and Bob Lodges, of Baltimore, head man of the frosh, agreed to climb the tower, declare a truce, and say goodbye to the cherished tradition.

England In Florida

A. G. England, '27, topographical engineer for the U. S. Geological Survey, has been transferred from Winchester, Va., to St. Augustine, Fla. England, who has missed but few alumni reunions, is looking forward to a good account of the tenth anniversary of the graduation of his class and would like to be with them on that occasion but feels that probably he is a little too far away to make the trip. England was married in May, 1936, to Miss Mattyee Lou Cromwell of McGehee, Ark., a graduate of Delta State College, Cleveland, Ohio. Best wishes to a great reunion for the class of '27, says he.

Student Government Election

John Muncks of Baltimore, recently elected president of the Student Government Association at the University, is reserve goalie on the lacrosse team. Waverly Wheeler and Mike Surgent, football and baseball players, were chosen vice-president of the Student Government Association, and head of the Men's League, respectively.

PROTECTING OUR ELM TREES

DUTCH ELM DISEASE—This disease, which was not known to science until it began to kill the elms in Holland in 1919, has spread to all parts of Europe and to America. More than 21,000 infected trees have been discovered in America during the last six years. Nearly all of these trees were within 25 miles of New York City, but there were a few in Ohio, in Indiana, in Virginia, and six in Maryland. Their location, with one exception, coincides with the ports of entry of elm logs from Europe, the railroads over which they were shipped, and the veneer factories where they were worked up.

The first diseased logs intercepted in this country were in Baltimore harbor, August 7, 1933. They had been unloaded from a ship and placed on a car to be shipped to an interior veneer factory. Not only were they infected with Graphium ulmi, the parasitic fungus which causes the Dutch elm disease, but they were also infested with the Scolytis bark beetles which are known to be the principal distributing agencies of that disease. These logs, therefore, introduced into our State a disease capable of killing all our elm trees and an insect pest capable of rapid and extensive distribution of that disease.

The infected logs were sent immediately to a Baltimore veneer plant, where they were boiled for 56 hours in order to kill all insect and fungus life in them. Late in September of the same year, an American elm tree growing about 400 yards from the harbor developed the Dutch elm disease. This tree stood near the rampart in Fort McHenry. Following definite confirmation of the disease, this tree, which was a foot in diameter and 25 feet tall, was taken down six inches below the surface of the soil and burned.

All of the elms within a mile of Baltimore harbor were examined twice in 1933, and twice in 1934, and practically all other elms in Baltimore and environs have been scouted once each year without finding any trace of the Dutch elm disease, except the one tree reported above and one found on Fort Avenue in 1936. In 1935, three elms with the Dutch disease were found in Brunswick and in 1936 one was found near Cumberland. It is planned to continue scouting for the disease in 1937.

The Dutch elm disease produces a rapid yellowing and wilting of the leaves and a brownish discoloration of the sap wood. All trees in the State suspected of having this disease should be reported to the State Plant Pathologist, College Park, Md.

Alumni Board Meeting

The spring meeting of the Alumni Board was held April 2, at College Park. Among the important subjects discussed was the association's progress during the past year. The ALUMNI NEWS has been greatly improved and membership dues have had an encouraging increase.

The program for Alumni Day, which appears elsewhere in this issue, was approved. It was also the board's opinion that Alumni Day for 1938 be Saturday, May 28, and that the Director of Athletics be requested to have a suitable athletic contest scheduled.

A committee was appointed to approach President Byrd to ask about the possibilities of having the Old Rossburg Inn renovated for a faculty-alumni club.

The board favored the organizing of an employment bureau in the University for the centralizing of applications and apportunity contacts. A committee was appointed to study the possibilities.

An amendment to the constitution, presented at the last annual meeting by Don Adams, was approved by the board for passage at the forthcoming meeting of the Association. The amendment: Officers of the association are to be elected at the annual meeting of the Association, except the secretary-treasurer, who shall be elected by the Alumni Board at its first meeting following the annual election, and their terms of office shall be for one year from date of election or until their successors qualify.

The nominating committee for the ensuing year is as follows: Chester W. Tawney, chairman; Douglas Wallop, Donald Kieffer, L. G. Mathias, H. M. Carroll, Mary Stewart York, and George Clendaniel.

Alperstein Gains U. S. Ring Title

BENNY Alperstein, 135-pound boxer, has added to the lustre of the Maryland season by bringing home the lightweight crown from the National Collegiate title tourney which was held at Los Angeles.

Alperstein whipped three great college scrappers on his way to the championship. First he gained a decision over Joe Brocato of Tulane, Southeastern Conference ruler, then he disposed of Karl Drexel of San Jose College, and wound up by outpointing Bob Bates of Washington State in the final engagement. Bates had disposed of Jack Kneipp of Duke, Southern Conference champ, who beat Alperstein in the loop tourney held in Ritchie Coliseum late in February. So Alperstein gained a title and got revenge for one he didn't win.

Tom Birmingham, 125-pound Southern Conference champ, the only other Terp boxer to make the trip to the Pacific Coast, lost in the semi-finals after drawing a bye in the first round. Birmingham fought a great fight in losing a close decision to Carl Eckstrom of North Dakota. Eckstrom later was voted to be the best scrapper in the tournament.

Coach Heinie Miller accompanied the Terps to the Coast on a trip that was made both ways by airplane.

Grid Drills Pleasing

SPRING football has ended at Maryland and Coach Frank Dobson is pleased with the results obtained and the outlook for getting some needed assets for the varsity next fall. In fact, the oncoming Sophs appear to be about the best rookie material, quantity and quality considered, sent up for a good many years.

In fact, except for the inability to fill the shoes of such a brilliant all-around back as Bill Guckeyson and the footwear of such a scintillating blocking back as John Gormley, the team for next fall could look to a better season than in 1936. The line, as a whole, promises to be abler and Johnny Carliss, Pershing Mondorff and Charlie Norton should plug holes left by heavy losses in the 1936 backfield.

Bob Brown, 214-pound tackle; John Boyda, center, and Ralph Albarino, tackle or guard, are among the best of a highly promising lot of linemen, most of whom, though, are just in the process of development.

The drills foretold that Maryland's attack next fall will be run from the single-wing and short-kick formations, and that the double-wing, conspicuous and effective for many years in Byrd-coached elevens, will not be in evidence.

Dobson never used the double-wing in his 27 years of successful coaching before coming to Maryland, but kept it as a part of the Terp attack during the last two seasons, first, when he was field coach with Jack Faber at the helm, and last year when he was head mentor.

The coaching staff next fall will be the same as last season, with Faber as Dobson's assistant; Al Heagy as line mentor and Al Woods as freshman tutor. Woods now is a member of the faculty, having recently been appointed as assistant professor of agronomy by Prof. J. V. Metzger, head of that department.

Zalesak Coaching Frosh

EMILE Zalesak, '24, who used to tend goal for the varsity lacrosse team, is giving a helping hand to his alma mater by coaching the yearlings. Zal hasn't a world of talent, but is doing a good job and broke even in his first two games, beating Baltimore Poly after losing to Baltimore City College. His charges showed a keen knowledge of the fundamentals in the second tilt.

Spring Sports Thriving

Bel Air Is Helpful

BEL AIR, Md., certainly has been good to the Terp track team. Right now, Frank Cronin, from that place, is one of the mainstays of the varsity team. Running the 100, 220 and 440 at various times and pole-vaulting to victory in most meets.

Cronin recently set the school mark for the 440 at 49.2 in beating Johnny Hofstetter, noted Dartmouth runner, and with Joe Ryan, regular sprinter out with a bad leg, he went to the rescue is other meets in the shorter distances and came home in front most of the time.

Now Maryland has Roland Hulshart, sprinter; Jack Archer, quarter-miler, half-miler and broad jumper, and Jim Kehoe, half-miler and miler, as Bel Air contributions on the freshman team and all are sparkling. Hulshart in a recent meet ran the 100 in 10 seconds flat and stepped the 220 in 22.4.

o

Keller Highly Praised

CHARLIE Keller, Maryland's great ball player from Middletown, Md., who went to the Newark Bears as the property of the New York Yankees, is making a hit with the International League Club. Here is what Oscar Vitt, manager of Newark, had to say about Charlie:

"Only once before in my life have I seen a young player hit the ball as far as young Keller. It was back in 1919 when I was coach of the Red Sox and we were training at Tampa.

"Our manager, Ed Barrow, decided to make an outfielder out of a young pitcher named Ruth, and he lost the ball over the distant race track.

"I am not predicting Keller will be another Ruth, and if God gives him good health there is no reason why he shouldn't be. The boy simply can't miss. He's only 19 and can hit a ball every bit as good as Ruth could at that age.

"He has those big shoulders, can throw and field, and, more important, he loves baseball."

Joe McCarthy, pilot of the New York Club, also was quoted as saying that Keller would be in the Yankee outfield next season.

O

Spring Team Busy

SPRING sports were sailing along at a merry pace when this was written, with the outlook that the Terps would hold their end up in good style as usual.

The baseball team had won four of its five game, scoring 67 runs and making 61 hits; the track squad had broken even in four meets, taking two of three within the Southern Conference; the lacrosse aggregation, although bowing to Baltimore A. C., and Mount Washington after beating Harvard easily, is a capable college ten, while the tennis players were sailing along on a 50-50 basis.

Inexperience on defense is the thorn in the side of the lacrosse team, while the tracksters are short on hurdlers and without a sprinter much of the time with Ryan suffering from a bad leg.

Bill Guckeyson, who returned to track after a year on the baseball team, has been scoring heavily in the shot and discus, winning most of the time, but had to remain out of the javelin throw in the three meets after winning the event against Dartmouth.

O

Fred Thomas, flashy guard, is the first Maryland basketer to pass the 100 point mark this season. He rang up 103 in his first 13 games to lead the Terps by a big margin.

Public Servant Succumbs

J. Frank Harper, '88, LL.B., former State Senator from Queen Anne's County and for the last 17 years a member of the Public Service Commission, died yesterday at the Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore. He was 67 years of age.

Doctor Harper was the oldest member of the Public Service Commission in the point of service. He first was appointed to that body August 6, 1919, by former Governor Harrington. He was a native of Centreville, Md., and had ably served his county in many public offices.

Whitehurst Hall

While looking about for an appropriate name for the new girls' dormitory it is suggested that it be named Whitehurst Hall in honor of the first and only woman member of the Board of Regents.

It seems to be a custom to honor those who are first in some great movement, and Mrs. Whitehurst is certainly a pioneer in the coeducational development in the State University.

Fencers Win

In the greatest upset scored in their short existence, Maryland's Intramural fencers slashed their way to the Middle Atlantic fencing championship in the annual tourney held at Johns Hopkins University.

Maryland, rated as the underdogs in an eight-team group, took the bronze statue, emblematic of victory mainly through the efforts of Bob Neiman of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Bill Branch of Washington, D. C., who swept the sabre competition.

A Summer Tour

During the spring vacation Frank Stevenson, and his ten-piece "Maryland Dance Band," sailed on the Holland American Liner, "Volendam," for a week's cruise to Bermuda.

The unit is signed to play on the Cunard White Star Line to tour England and France this summer.

Engagements

Flora Waldman announced her engagement to Bob Reed, a Theta Chi alumnus of '36, and Edith Gram announced her engagement to Charles Poole of Washington, at a tea dance at Miss Gram's home in Washington. Flo and Edith are members of A. O. Pi.

Coed Debaters Tie

As a climax to their most successful season in Maryland forensic history, the two coed teams entered in the Grand Eastern tournament tied for first place with North Carolina State Teachers College.

The Old Line debaters competed against twenty-nine colleges, representing the East's leading coed arguers in the three-day tourney held on the Winthrop College campus at Rockhill, S. C.

The affirmative team, composed of Ruth Kreiter and Ruth Lowry, debated on the question: "Resolved: That Congress should be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours," won four out of five of the opening rounds to enter the finals. Maryland's negative team of Carolyn Clugston and Mildred Hearn debating on the same question, captured three out of five to likewise enter the final round.

Male Debaters Win

Upholding the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That Congress should be empowered to fix minimum hours," the Old Line debate team returned home from its Northern invasion with a clean sweep over New York University and Villanova.

Playwriting

Prof. Charles S. Richardson, head of the Department of Speech, has been appointed regional director for the creative play-writing contest under the "Constitutional Sesqui-centennial Commission" recently created by an act of Congress.

Under the management of Professor Richardson are the states of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, District of Columbia, Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

Keller Day, June 7 Oriole Park, Baltimore

Charlie Keller, former Maryland diamond star, will be honored by the Baltimore alumni group on the night of June 7, at Oriole Park, in Baltimore.

Keller is now playing with the Newark club of the International League and is the property of the New York Yankees. During the short time he has been in the professional circuit he has slugged close to the .500 average, despite a short layoff with an injured leg. His hitting has put the Bears in first place.

Keller, a chunky outfielder, comes from Middletown, Md., and will be long remembered as a former diamond and basket-ball star. All alumni are urged to be present, and any desiring to contribute toward a trophy are requested to send it to the Alumni office.

Glee Club

Last month the Glee Club made a trip to Cumberland and Hancock, Md. While on the trip they were royally entertained by Andrew Cohill, prominent orchard owner and operator, at his home near Hancock. Scott James, of Hancock, ably assisted in making arrangements for the club's appearance.

The performances were well received and many laudatory comments have been received.

In addition, the club gave radio broadcasts in Frederick, Hagerstown, and Cumberland. In Hagerstown, Edwin Semler made the arrangements for the broadcast there.

At Hancock it was the second annual appearance.

A Baltimore Landmark

By DR. T. M. HEATWOLE

The stalwart Scotch elm tree which stands as sentinel on the bit of campus in front of the old Medical Building of the University of Maryland in Baltimore, according to expert reckoning, was a century old when this now ancient edifice was erected in 1812.

The girth of this old elm measures 14 feet; its limb-spread is enormous and its loftiest branches tower more than 100 feet skyward. In size and grandeur it is surpassed only by two trees of this variety known in this section of the country. These are twin trees located at Rodgers Forge, Baltimore County, on the property of Mrs. K. B. Houston.

"Save That Tree"

Tree Surgeons Called

Age, wind and pests have been taking their toll during the past 20 years on this denizen of a probable former forest. Several of its largest and most outspreading branches have given way under the stress of their own weight, aided by the ravages of decay. These incidents have been followed up by calling in the tree surgeon in an effort to preserve this old landmark for years to come.

Elm Beetle

Within recent years, the elm beetle has appeared and annually feeds on the foliage of this tree. Efforts have been made to eradicate this pest, but with little lasting success. For some years the tree has put out two sets of leaves—one in the early springtime and the other in August. The earlier foliage drops after being sapped by the beetles and the new growth has followed after the destructive pests have abandoned operations for the season.

Annual feeding and spraying of this tree are regarded as essential in preserving its life for future decades.

Biennial Chem Sho Attracts Hundreds

By Dr. L. B. BROUGHTON, '08

ALPHA RHO CHAPTER of Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity, with the assistance of the chemistry department, presented the seventh edition of the Biennial Chem Sho, Thursday evening, April 8.

As usual, invitations were extended to the chemistry classes of high schools within a radius of 50 miles and, through the medium of Washington and Baltimore newspapers, to the general public. The record attendance on a rainy evening testified to the reputation and popularity of the event.

Interesting Exhibits

Some of the exhibits in each division of the department found particularly interesting to the visitors were:

The semi-plant scale equipment of the new Industrial Chemistry Laboratory in the Arts and Science Building, including filter presses, a vacuum drier, hydraulics apparatus and a huge gas-fired furnace; the spectroscopic apparatus, the fluorescence and radioactivity demonstrations and student models of sulphuric acid processes in the Inorganic Laboratory; cathode ray tubes and other spectacular apparatus on display through the courtesy of the Physics Department, a visual demonstration of the effects of growth regulators (hormones) in plant growth in the Plant Physiology Laboratory.

Nitrogen

Items of unusual interest in the Physical Chemistry Laboratories included a device for regulating pressure employing a vacuum tube rectifier and a photo-electric relay, demonstrations of polaroids, a complete demonstration of every available method for measuring hydrogen ion concentrations (colormetric, and electrometric, including the glass electrode) and a working model of the arc process for nitrogen fixation.

The State Feed and Fertilizer Control Laboratories were open for inspection, displaying the typical operations involved in their analyses.

The Organic Department opened their research laboratory to the public. Apparatus on display included a large extractor and various devices for analysis. Typical student set-ups were on view in the elementary laboratories, as well as exhibits indicating the natural origin of many organic materials.

Glass Blowing

Exhibitions of glass blowing by two students, one an undergraduate, were major sources of attraction during the evening.

Considerable credit was due to the many prominent industrial concerns which furnished most attractive displays of their products.

An innovation of this show was the double performance of a stage show in the auditorium featuring a liquid air demonstration by Dr. M. M. Haring and chemiluminescence by Justin Paddleford, president of the fraternity and in charge of the entire program. A capacity crowd was in attendance at both presentations.

Possibly the most concise summary of the show may be expressed by the one common criticism of the visitors: "There is too much to see."

Glee Club Entertains

Members of the University Glee Club entertained 2,000 guests at the annual meeting of the Washington branch of the Keystone Automobile Club held at Central High School.

Special entertainers from New York were also featured on the program.

Garden Director

Director of the Plant Introduction Garden of the U. S. D. A., at Chico, Cal., is Joseph Conrad Long, '29, of Ridgely, Md., a graduate in the College of Agriculture with honors. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Zeta, and Alpha Gamma Rho. In college he took part in many of agriculture's extracurricular activities and student affairs.

At the Introduction Garden many of the new fruits, nuts, and ornamental plants are experimented with before given approval by the department.

Joe was married in 1932 and now has a four-month-old baby girl.

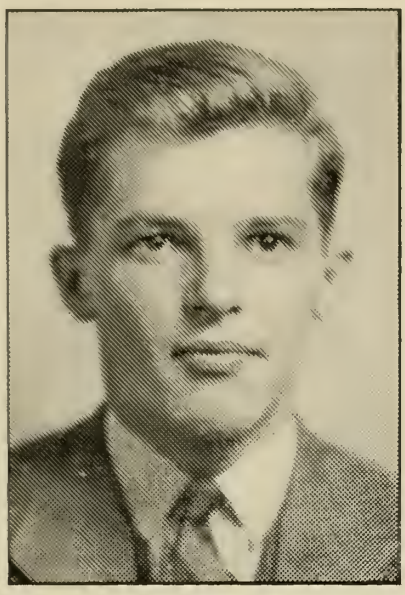
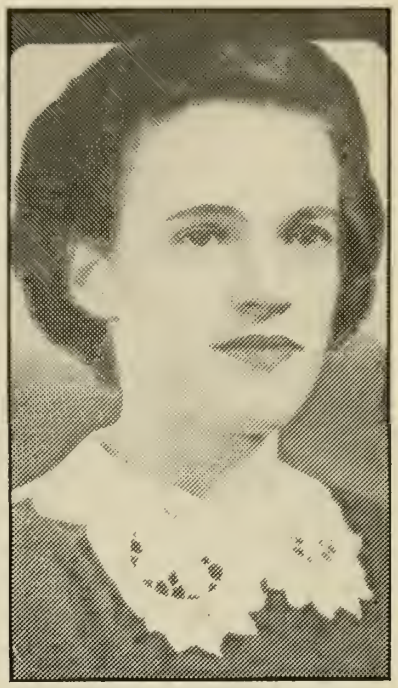
WAVERLY WHEELER



JOHN MUNCKS

Officers For '37-'38



DOT HOBBS

President of the Student Government Association is the office of popularity, leadership, and fellowship. To this office John Muncks, an engineering student from Baltimore, was elected by a vote of 662—584. Muncks is a member of Phi Delta Theta and has attained membership in several honorary groups.

It was a close race between two athletes for the vice-presidency. Waverly Wheeler, of Washington, D. C., a football, basket-ball, and baseball player of noted ability, defeated his fellow team mate in the same sports, William Bryant, of Takoma Park. As both have winning ways, its is a mystery as to whether the coed voters turned the trick.

The modest but cheerful and friendly Dorothy Hobbs of Linden, Md., decisively captured the secretary honors.

Mike Surgent, of Eckley, Pa., and a student of Physical Education, is the president of the Men's League, a part of the Student Government Association. Mike is remembered for his gridiron and diamond performances.

From the ranks of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Ruth Lowry, of Baltimore, captured the presidency of the Women's League, while Jean Patterson, a sorority sister and daugher of Dr. Alex Patterson, '07, D. D. S., is second in command. Jane Kephart, a Kappa Delta of Takoma Park, won the secretaryship.

In the Y. W. C. A., Elinor Broughton, daughter of Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, head of the Chemistry Department, was elected president.

The closest race in the elections, as recorder of points in the Women's Student Government Association, was between Bess Patterson (the winner), and Margaret Crisp, both daughters of alumni. Bess Patterson is the second daughter of Dr. Alex Patterson, '07, D. D. S., and Margaret Crisp is the second daughter of A. Byron Crisp, '07, of the College Park Schools, to enter the University.

With the elections on the shelf, seniors forget their cares and new officers prepare for exams and look forward to next year.

Brigham, '08, Promoted

Reuben Brigham, '08, a veteran official of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, has been promoted to assistant director of the Extension Service, one of the most powerful units of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Five years after graduation he became affiliated with the Government service and his meritorious work has gained for him steady advancements. When the AAA was organized, Brigham's aid was enlisted to head the regional contact section and supervision of the farm publications.

Director Warburton speaks about Brigham in a very complimentary way. "His intimate association with the development of the Agricultural Adjustment measures and understanding of the underlying principles, together with his earlier extension experience, will be invaluable to us in dealing with the new educational problems which now face us," says Doctor Warburton.

Brigham has been a very ardent alumnus and active in association affairs. He served as secretary in 1912-1913 and now is representing the College of Arts and Sciences on the Alumni Board. He is secretary of his class.

He is a resident of Montgomery County with his home at Ashton.

Maryland Mapping Agency

IN VIEW of the recent impetus given national and regional planning, the utilization of natural resources and development of community industrial and commercial projects, a Maryland Mapping Agency has been sponsored by the Maryland State Planning Commission and the University. The agency was organized and is directed by Professor S. S. Steinberg, acting dean of the College of Engineering, as a project of the Works Progress Administration and in cooperation with the National Resources Committee. Headquarters for the agency is located in the Engineering Building at College Park.

Already the agency has proved itself of great value to the engineers and citizens of Maryland, and has attracted nation-wide attention among engineers and surveyors.

A survey made by Professor Steinberg sometime ago showed that more than 20 state organizations were mapping Maryland for various purposes. In addition, almost an equal number of Federal orgaizations were making maps of the State. To these must be added the large number of city, county and private units, each of which is engaged in similar surveying and mapping work.

It became evident that with three score or more uncoordinated agencies producing maps of Maryland, an engineer or citizen seeking map information might of necessity have to visit a large number of these organizations in order to secure certain desired information. There was then conceived the idea of having a central agency at which would be collected and correlated the various maps of Maryland and its sub-divisions for the convenience of those who needed such information.

This led to the organization of the Maryland Mapping Agency, one of whose functions is the establishment of a library of maps and charts of the State. In the short time this central agency has been operating, it has justified fully the expectations of those who sponsored it. Many organizations throughout the State, as well as engineers, surveyors, and private citizens have availed themselves of the services rendered by the agency. It has also attracted the attention of other states which, realizing the existence of similar conditions, have studied Maryland's program.

In addition to studying, classifying, preserving, and filing maps, the agency has several other important functions: it coordinates the efforts of the many agencies, Federal, State, city, county, and private, making surveys and maps in Maryland in order to avoid duplication and overlapping; it serves annually as a central meeting point for representatives of other Maryland map-making organizations to discuss, coordinate and plan for mapping of the State; and plans to develop uniform specifications for surveying and mapping.

As a result of the Civil Works Administration surveying project, that was conducted in Maryland in 1934 under the direction of Professor Steinberg as the representative of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, there has been developed in the State what is known as a plane coordinate system. This network of lines and elevations ties in with that established by the national government. Until recently the Maryland Mapping Agency has had a field party extending these lines. The eventual completion of this survey network will make it possible to tie in all boundaries of private and public property in such a way as to make them indestructible. This will eliminate much of the confusion and and litigation that has resulted from conflicting property boundaries.

Woods Now On Staff

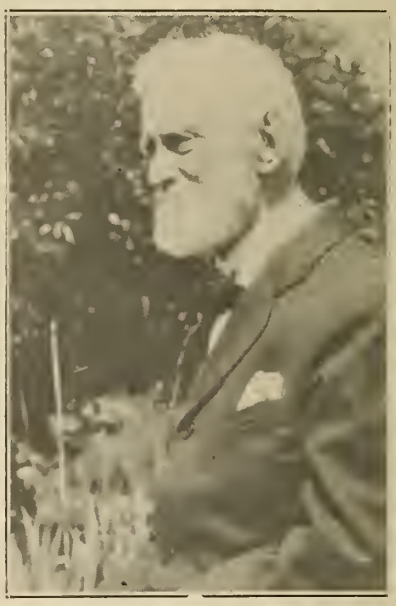
AL WOODS, Maryland backfield star in 1930, '31, and 32, now is a member of the teaching staff at the University, having recently been named assistant professor of Agronomy. He was graduated in the class of '33 and took advanced work the following term.

Al, who is an all-time Maryland pick of President H. C. Byrd, under whom he played, will continue to coach the freshman grid squad. Last year he turned out a snappy, finely-coached combination that won four games and tied one. His charges showed a varied offense and unusual teamwork for a yearling eleven.

Woods was all-State selection in 1931 and '32, and the latter season was named as the best gridder in the District of Columbia area.

Oldest Dental Graduate Dies

A member of the Class of 1863, Dr. Samuel Wagner, D.D.S., died at his home in Galion, Ohio, February 7, 1937, at the age of 99. He was born and raised at Woodsboro, Md., but went to Ohio soon after the close of the Civil War in 1865, two years after his graduation from the old Baltimore Dental College, now the Dental School of the University. He began the practice of dentistry and served the community for a half century.



DR. SAMUEL WAGNER

As a young man he took a keen interest in outdoor sports and was a member of Galion's first real baseball team. His civic activities included the theatrical club, teacher in Sunday School and Knight Templar of the Masonic Order.

His delight was to give a recount of his night buggyride with three boy companions from Frederick to Gettysburg to hear Lincoln's address.

Dr. Wagner was also the oldest resident of Galion, Ohio. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Biehl and Mrs. Ransdall, both of Galion.

. . . first coed ever to edit a campus publication was inducted as editor-in-chief of the 1937-38 Old Line.

GUS WARFIELD
. . . editor of the 1937-38 Terrapin.

WHEN Miss Chris Kempton was inducted as editor of the 1937-1938 Old Line, a new page was written in the history of student affairs. It is the first time a coed has held the position of a campus publication. Miss Kempton's home is at Lanham, Md., and she is a student in the College of Arts and Sciences, carries the normal scholastic load and has attained a better than average grade. The Old Line is the humorous publication and requires the art of humor that strikes the funny spot.

In the other two publications, the male students control. Bob Baker, a blonde-haired young man from Washington, D. C., will edit the student weekly, Diamondback, in 1937-1938. His interest in journalism goes back to his high school days at Central in Washington. Bob specializes in English in the College of Arts and Sciences. He makes his college home in Calvert Hall on the campus.

The yearbook, Terrapin, has for its editor in 1937-1938, Gus Warfield, a resident of College Park and an engineer by profession. Running a yearbook is his principal function as engineering studies consume much of his time.

Retiring officers who will be among the Alumni rolls next month are: Carl Hummelsine, '37, a product of Hagerstown, Md., who was editor of the Diamondback. Pyke Johnson of Washington and Phi Delta Theta was editor of the Old Line. The Terrapin editor was a junior, Paul Wise, of Delaware, and he will enjoy watching his successor wrestle the problem next year.

Guilford's Centennial

At the Centennial celebration, Guilford College, the University of Maryland, will be represented by Mrs. Charles F. Milner, neé Eloyse Sargent, '32. Eloyse was a member of A. O. Horse Show May 22

The second Annual Horse Show was held May 22, at Byrd Stadium, College Park, under the auspices of the University of Maryland Riding Club. Fred Hughes, president of the club, and Jean Barnsley, his first assistant say that this was a larger show than the one last year. Both Hughes and Miss Barnsley were participants last year and were again part of the show. Some of the outstanding clubs participating were the well known Arlington Hall School for Girls, McDonogh School for Boys, National Park Seminary for Girls, as well as many outstanding individuals in the vicinity of Washington.

Record In Spring Sports Is Exceptional » »

MARYLAND'S spring sports are about to complete one of the most successful seasons in the history of baseball, lacrosse, track and tennis by both varsity and freshman combinations.

When Rosy Pollock insisted that the deadline for the May issue of the "Bingville Bugle," otherwise the ALUMNI NEWS, had been reached and that I must turn in my copy, the varsity squads in the four sports mentioned had won 28 of 42 contests, and the freshmen in the same pastimes had taken 16 of 19.

In fact, it appears that every varsity team is certain to hang up a better record than could reasonably have been expected at the outset of spring competition. This is particularly true of the baseball and track outfits and just about as applicable to the lacrosse and tennis teams.

Two Have Finished

Track and tennis have ended, with the cinderpathers taking seven of nine dual meets and the racketers winning five of nine matches, but the stickmen have yet to meet Penn State at College Park on May 29, and the nine takes a northern trip, starting June 10, for five tilts, engaging Vermont twice, Dartmouth, Yale and Temple.

With Coleman Headley, ace distance runner, lost for the season, and Joe Ryan, sprinter, incapacitated most of the time, the trackmen did remarkably well. They were led by Frank Cronin, runner and pole-vaulter; Bill Guckeyson, discus, javelin and shot star; Edwin Miller, soph high jumper who set a new University mark of 6 feet 3¾ inches and won the Southern Conference title; Bill Theis, quarter-miler; Kenny Belt and Charlie Orcutt, distance men, and Alex Males, rookie javelin tosser. Males made wonderful strides in the javelin to toss it 194 feet 8 inches in his first varsity season.

Ball Team Produces

With Charlie Keller now hitting 'em a mile for the Newark Internationals and Jack Stonebraker, ace infielder, lost, and Guckeyson returned to track, the baseball outlook at the start was such as to expect not much better than a 50-50 campaign. However, with Fred Thomas, catcher; Waverly Wheeler, third; Mike Surgent, second, and Bill Bryant, outfielder, giving a veteran regular nucleus, and Lefty Wood and Dale Patterson, vets, and Charlie Weidinger providing a capable slab trio, the Terps hit a fast pace to win 12 of 16 games with only the jaunt north left.

Weidinger, along with the brothers Chumbris, Shorty and Lefty, and Eddie Johnson, were sophs to show their worth in varsity debuts.

Jack Egan, outfielder, and Tommy Scharf and Gordon Freas, infielders, were big helpers, the first named playing fairly regularly.

Joining the others in rising to the occasion, the lacrosse team marched merrily along in collegiate ranks, though beaten in early games by the powerful club teams, Mount Washington and Baltimore A. C.

Stickmen Upset Navy

Starting the season with a task of rebuilding the defense, though possessed of a fine attack, few looked for another victory over Navy such as scored on May 15, at Annapolis, when the Terps won, 6 to 2. It was the first time in years that the Maryland team had been looked upon, at best, as having no better than an even chance and generally was considered the underdog. But while the attack was soaring to great heights to penetrate the powerful Navy defense, the Maryland defense also came through in exceptional style, with Jack Kelly doing by far the best job of his career in goal. Seventy-five hundred fans watched the Terps turn the trick.

By the time the next issue of the NEWS rolls around, we will have a complete summary of the entire year in sports to dish out, so we will not digress further on matters now.

Games In North

For the good of alumni who may be close enough to see some of the tilts, here is the list of the ball games to be played in the North:

June 10 and 11—Vermont at Burlington.
June 12—Dartmouth at Hanover.
June 14—Yale at New Haven.
June 15—Temple at Philadelphia.

Maryland beat Vermont and Temple in games at College Park, but lost a 12-to-11 affair to Dartmouth, that was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Pitcher Found

Dale Patterson of Indian Head, Md., Maryland's ace pitcher, failed to make the freshman nine and consequently did not come up to the varsity in his sophomore year. He was a candidate for the infield as a freshman and started pitching as a soph in a fraternity intra-mural loop. He came to the varsity last year as a junior. He was only 16 years old when he entered college and now is much taller and 30 pounds heavier than when he was a yearling.

All-Timers

There are five all-time all-Maryland football players on the University campus. Bill Supplee and Al Heagy, ends, both in the Chemistry Department; Roy Mackert, tackle, head of Physical Education; Al Woods, quarterback, recently named assistant professor in Agronomy, and Bill Guckeyson, senior student. Supplee was in the class of '26, Heagy was '31, Mackert was '22, and Woods was '33.

Holzapfel Good

Norman Holzapfel, of Hagerstown, has been one of the outstanding members of the Terp freshman lacrosse team, although the game was entirely new to him when he came to College Park. He made the grade as regular center and his stickhandling and play along other lines has been exceptional considering the circumstances.

Riflemen Win Third Corps Trophy

We were up on the range the other day, and while we were engaged in clearing the dust from atop the cabinet in which the records are kept, we were greeted by the entire varsity and freshman rifle squads.

It seems that they had been called to hear some kind of a proclamation, which had recently been issued. After a time we were very much surprised to see Major Ward, who incidentally coached these aggregations, walk quietly in and just as quietly sit down and take from his pocket an extremely long, but official document. Having all his men around him he began to read.

In the course of his lecture we discovered several important facts. First, that the paper was merely "General Orders No. 15." Second, that it was concerned with the various honors achieved by Maryland's neophyte and veteran marksmen during the current season. Finally, that this group of riflemen must have been fairly good at punching the centers from the little white targets.

It seems that this Varsity aggregation won the championship of the Third Corps Area, and was being rewarded by a silver cup and ten bronze medals. Then, they carried off the title, to the W. R. Hearst competition for which Davis, Jensen, Welch, Mattingly, and W. Davis garnered shields, and gold medals. In their final achievement, the winning of the N. R. A. Middle Atlantic postal league, the varsity sharpshooters took ten bronze medals.

Not content with these honors the remainder of the squad, the freshmen, swept the field to win the National Intercollegiate team championship for which Meeks, Riley, Woodward, Preble, and Laughhead received bronze medals. Here the medal pinning ceased for a time, until Jensen was pinned for taking the Mehring Trophy, Mattingly took the award for a new range three position score of 289, Riley carried off the frosh high match average, and Lanigan received recognition for being the most improved marksman.

At this point someone remembered that a certain genial army officer had been behind all of this glory and fine shooting, and that person stepped forward. With great solemnity Pat Lanigan presented Major Ward with a genuine Meershaum pipe "to our friend, in recognition of services rendered."

Win National Honors » » »

MARYLAND'S CATTLE JUDGING TEAM competing against twenty-one colleges in the annual contest sponsored by Hoard's Dairymen, largest dairy magazine in the country, finished first to be declared the national championship team.

Maryland was followed in order by Washington, Kansas State, South Dakota, and Texas.

Husky Freshman

Maryland has a versatile athlete in Charlie Norton, husky freshman. Norton played halfback on the yearling eleven last fall, was the regular center on the basket-ball quint, and is a star pitcher on the ball team. Recently when the cubs did not have a ball game, Norton helped the yearling tracksters beat Gallaudet College by scoring nine points on seconds in the javelin, shot and discus. He had no practice in these events.

Catcher Thomas Turns Professional

Another of Terpdom's stellar athletes deserted collegiate ranks last week when Fred (Knocky) Thomas started on the trail which seems destined to end in the majors as he left College Park to join the Trenton Senators of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

The Old Line catcher was signed by the Washington Club of the American League and was immediately optioned to the minor league team.

He Loves The Game

Eddie Johnson, son of the famous Walter, is making a fine ball player for the Terps. Playing in the outfield he has hit around .380 with 16 games gone. It is possible that he may try pitching next year to see if there is a chance of following in Dad's footsteps in that line. He won his letter in basket-ball during the past season, too.

May Be Back

Bill Guckeyson, Maryland's four-letter athlete, may be back at College Park for the 1937-38 term, and if he has another year in each track, baseball and basket-ball. He didn't play basket-ball or compete in track in his junior year, playing baseball instead of the latter, due to nerve trouble in his shoulder. Guckeyson had hoped to enter West Point, but the outlook is that an appointment is not available. If he returns he doubtless will engage in basket-ball and track to finish out his college athletic career.

June Week To Have Popular Orchestra

Earl Mellen with his infant band, which he originated in Pittsburgh two years ago, and has sky-rocketed to fame and popularity among colleges of the East, has been selected as the melody master for all June Week dances.

His first appearance will be Wednesday, June 2, at the Rossburg Commencement Dance, followed by the Junior-Senior German on Thursday and the Commencement Ball on Friday.

Marriages

Married—Gretchen C. VanSlyke, '34, an A. O. Pi, and James Francis Welsh, of Baltimore, April 25. Mrs. Welsh took a very active interest in student affairs, serving as secretary of her class for two years. The newlyweds will live in Baltimore.

O

Married—Jane Goss, '36, of Chevy Chase, and Ensign Samuel Grill, U. S. C. G., of Takoma Park. Mrs. Grill is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. The newlyweds will locate in Oakland, Cal., where Ensign Grill is stationed.

O

Married—Carl O. McIntire and Miss Helen Hinebaugh, both graduates of Oakland High School. Carl now is located with his father in Washington as apartment house manager. The newlyweds will reside in Washington.

O

Married—Walt Whitman Osbourne, of Silver Spring, and Miss Dolores Iglehart, of Washington. Walt is a member of Delta Sigma Phi and Mrs. Osbourne is a grad of Central High School. They will make their home in Silver Spring, Md.

O

Married—Rev. Robert Cook Simmons, '29, formerly of Takoma Park, and Miss Kathryn Anne Wilkinson, of Washington. Robert is also a graduate of the Union Theological Seminary of New York in 1932. He is a member of Alpha Psi Omega fraternity. The newlyweds will live at Richmond Hill, Long Island, N. Y., where Rev. Simmons is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Obituary

Died—It is with deep regret the ALUMNI NEWS announces the death of the Rev. Canon Joseph Fletcher, '75, former librarian of the Washington Cathedral. Rev. Fletcher had served in the Episcopal ministry for more than 50 years. In 1933 he celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of his ordination by taking a trip to the Hawaiian Islands. He was always an ardent supporter and enthusiastic alumnus of the University of Maryland. In behalf of the Alumni Association the NEWS takes this occasion to express condolence to his family, relatives, and friends.

O

Died—Thomas O'Neill, '14, one of the South's most prominent entomologists, was stricken fatally ill in a café at Tifton, Ga.

For eight years he has been chief assistant to the State entomologist, and has for some years been in charge of inspection work in the vast plant fields in South Georgia. His work in the plant growing industry of Georgia attracted nation-wide attention among plant growers and entomologists.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters. Interment was made in the Arlington Cemetery.

O

Died—Miss Elizabeth Bond, formerly secretary of the Medical Alumni Association of the University died at a hospital near Baltimore. Her home is in Port Republic. Interment at the Christ Protestant Episcopal Church Cemetery. The NEWS express condolence to her parents and friends.

O

Died—Roland T. K. Garey, '89, a lifelong resident of Caroline County. At the time of his death he resided at Denton, Md.

Wholesaler—Frank G. Stewart is a merchant selling automotive tools and machinery at 1800 14th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Good luck, Frank —from the boys of '12. We might some night surprise you with a visit.

O

Moved—Richard Lawrie, Jr., registered engineer, is now at 111 South Front Street, Harrisburg, Pa. He is associated with M. Edwin Green, registered architect. The sign over the door reads Lawrie and Green.

O

Visitor—Victor W. Bennett, '10, industrial manager for the Farm Credit Administration, recently visited the campus after a lapse of several years. While his home is in Frostburg, his occupation has had him traveling throughout the country. He spent the entire day "On the Hill," sightseeing and visiting his former professors.

O

Visitor—Jerome H. Sullivan, '21, all-Maryland guard, was a recent visitor to the campus for the first time in several years. "Jerry," Dr. H. C. Byrd, Charles Leroy Mackert and Geary "Swede" Eppley had a regular gridiron gabfest. Many of the games of 1919 and '20 were played over again.

Sullivan is now the divisionl manager for the Boston office of the Fuller Construction Company.

O

Honors—Individual honors at the annual competitive drill was won by Francis Zalesak, younger brother of E. F. Zalesak, '25, vice-president of the Alumni Association. It was his second year in the R. O. T. C.

O

Moved—Mary T. Solomon, '34, Kappa Kappa Gamma, has moved from Silver Spring, Md., to the Keystone Apartment, Washington, D. C.

It's a Maryland Tradition!

After the game, in the evening, at lunch, at any and all times Marylanders get together you'll find them at the Varsity Grill—newly renovated. Your school spirit cannot be par until you are a regular patron.

Pi Delt Honors Ten

Ten undergraduate journalists and one faculty member were tapped Friday, May 7, by Pi Delta Epsilon national honorary journalistic fraternity, as part of the annual publication's banquet.

Those offered membership into the honorary were Professor Geary Eppley, John Freudenberger, Malcolm Owens, Harold Smith, Jerry Hardy, Larry Hoover, Jimmy Lewald, Karlton Pierce, John Wolf, Gus Warfield and George Eierman.

As a feature of the annual dinner, John T. Lambert, editor of The Washington Times, spoke before 200 journalists and guests on "Today's News." The editor was introduced by Major Howard Clark, toastmaster.

Theta Chi Wins Diamond Crown

Opening with a barrage of hits and runs in the first inning and keeping up the pace throughout the game, Theta Chi defeated Alpha Lambda Tau, 13-2, to capture the Interfraternity baseball championship.

The Theta Chi's defeated Alpha Gamma Rho 12-7, Sigma Phi Sigma 6-2, and Alpha Lambda Tau 13-2 in the round robin play-off, making a total of 29 hits and 31 runs.

Sigma Phi Sigma defeated A. G. R. to cop the second place in a closely contested game, the final score being 10-9.

Campus News

Intramurals

Maryland's spring Intramural track meet, with nearly 100 students competing, produced two new records and established one, as John Boyda, Charles Norton, and Doug McChesney tangled into a triple tie with a total of 13 points each for individual honors.

One of the best showings of the day was exhibited by Chuck Norton when he threw the 12-lb. shot 46 feet, 4½ inches for a new record—the old was made in 1936 by C. Stalfort with a distance of 42 feet, 10¼ inches. Chuck also established another new tally when he threw the discus a distance of 116 feet, 11 inches; the old record was made in 1936 by John DeArmey with a distance of 105 feet even.

Sigma Nu Wins Greek Track Meet

For the second consecutive year, the speedy snakes of Sigma Nu captured the Interfraternity track meet, to win the rotating plaque, piling up 74 points in a meet in which nine new records were established and one produced in a new event.

Theta Chi, came in second with 36 points with Alpha Gamma Rho, third with 22 markers. Eleven fraternities participated, a total of about two hundred men.

The meet was much faster than last year's. One of the best showings of the day was exhibited by the Theta Chi team in the 200 yd. Spring Relay (3 men) when it finished in the record time of 21.9 seconds. The old record of 22.2 seconds was made last year by the Sigma Nu stick carriers.

Frank DeArmey threw the 12-lb. shot 41 ft. 6½ in. for a new record—the old was made in 1936 by C. Callihan with a distance of 40 feet, 7 inches. "Biff" Norton threw the discus a distance of 124 feet, 2½ inches to established a new record. The old record was held by John DeArmey with a distance of 105 feet.

One new event added to the list this year was the 75 yd. low hurdles which was won by Morris with the time of 9.7 seconds.

Dr. Bay, '05, President Medical Alumni

Dr. Robert P. Bay, '05, was elected president of the Medical Alumni Association at the annual meeting held June 3, in Baltimore. The election was announced at the annual banquet held that evening at the Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore at which there were nearly 300 alumni. Dr. Bay is also president of the Baltimore Medical Society.

Speaking on this occasion were: Dr. H. C. Byrd, the Honorable Howard W. Jackson, mayor of Baltimore, Dr. Clarence P. Scarborough, president of the graduating class, and Dr. J. M. H. Rowland, dean of the Medical School.

Dr. Francis J. Kirby, '92, retiring president, was the toastmaster. Dr. Frank Morris, '27, was re-elected secretary.

Home Economics Entertains

The College of Home Economics entertained the Maryland State Home Economics Association, May 8, 1937. The group assembled at 10:00 A. M. in Washington at the office of Mr. John Ihlder, Alley Dwelling Authority, who gave a short address, and then conducted the association on a tour through the alleys of Washington, and to the model housing project for colored people on Hopkins Place. At the conclusion of the trip the group returned to College Park for lunch and a business meeting. Following the meeting they visited another housing project, Greenbelt, at Berwyn, Md.

Baltimore Group Dinner-Dance

The Mid-Summer Dinner-Dance of the Baltimore group of the Alumni Association will be held Friday, July 16, at the well-known Summit Nite Club.

Chester W. Tawney, '29, president of the Alumni Club, is expecting an even larger turnout than last year. He has appointed George Weber, '33, as chairman of the occasion with whom all reservations are to be made at $3.00 per couple. Address Weber at 32 South Street, Baltimore.

Senator Tydings, '10, Delivers Address » » »

ACCEPT only the "truth for authority; not authority for truth," was the theme of the address by the Honorable Millard E. Tydings, '10, United States Senator, to the one hundred and twenty-seventh graduating class of the University, on June 5, at College Park. Senator Tydings, a holder of three degrees from the University, urged the graduates "to devote a considerable amount of time, talents, and energies to the problems of the community, State and national affairs."

Nearly 5,000 people were present for the colorful graduation exercises in the spacious Ritchie Coliseum as Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University, conferred 756 degrees. Leading in total numbers was the College of Arts and Science with 145 receiving their A. B. or B. S. First among the professional schools and second in number was the Medical School when 111 received the degree of doctor of medicine. The College of Education was next with 72, with Dentistry, Pharmacy, Law, Engineering, Agriculture, Nursing and Home Economics following in order. Seventeen received the degree of doctor of philosophy, among whom were six who held former degrees from the University. Fifty-five received their master of science or arts degrees.

Among the Medical School graduates, William Broughton Long, Jr., won top honors and the University Gold Medal. He spent his undergraduate days at College Park as a member of the class of 1931 and the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Long hails from Westover, Md.

In the School of Dentistry, Darwin Robert Swinehart won top honors. In law, Allen Eugene Buzzell, Clifford Holmes Graves, and James Cooke Morton, Jr., were honor students. Bernard Leon Zenitz was the leader in the School of Pharmacy. Miss Jane Isabelle Slick won the highest honor in the School of Nursing, which is a scholarship to Teachers' College of Columbia University.

Among the graduates of the College Park Schools, Miss Flora Edith Waldman and John William Guckeyson won the citizenship honors with John J. Gormley winning the Athletic Medal and Lula Voncile Davis the Mortar Board Cup.

Honorary certificates in agriculture were awarded to two outstanding citizens of the State for meritorious achievements in their respective fields: Paul Lewis Gunby, Sr., of Somerset County, for his contributions in strawberry culture, and to Edwin Warfield, Jr., of Howard County, for his tremendous aid in cooperative organizations and scientific conservation of soils.

Following the exercises all graduates, their relatives and friends, were guests of the University at a picnic luncheon served on the campus.

Coed Students Have Mothers' Day

The eighth annual Mother's Day for mothers of students enrolled in the College of Home Economics was held May 17, 1937, in the Home Economics Building. Interesting exhibits showing the work of each department were on display throughout the building. Dresses made by the students in the clothing classes were modeled by them. Posters and illustrative material on consumer buying and consumer education were given special emphasis.

A corner of a room was furnished in keeping with the Victorian period.

Among the exhibits was one of old colonial kitchen equipment, loaned by Mrs. Walker Duval of Suitland, Md.

She also loaned many other antique pieces of textiles and household linens and bed coverings (quilts).

Demonstrations were given by several students in the food classes on "Food Fashions of Today."

Lunch was served in the Home Economics Building where the mothers were greeted by President Byrd, Mrs. John Whitehurst, and the members of the Home Economics faculty.

Annual Alumni Reunion

"It has been a very happy experience for me to come back to the campus and see so many of the boys and to view the marvelous improvements being made." This was the expression of alumni who traveled many miles to be on hand for the forty-fifth annual Alumni Reunion, May 29, at College Park.

An entertaining program had been arranged in which time was allowed for visiting the campus buildings, meeting former faculty members, and just visiting among the boys and girls, for old time's sake.

For the convenience of all, the University Gym was the established headquarters for the day. Here the alumni registered, received their programs and found out from the bulletin board who was on hand. Class reunions were held during the morning and lunch was served in the Gymnasium, cafeteria style. Immediately following lunch the annual meeting was held. Prominent among those who were present was Melvin C. Hazen, '88, first president of the Alumni Association. Other former presidents on hand were J. Hanson Mitchell, '98; W. D. Groff, '00; Fred W. Besley, '92; Fletcher P. Vetch, '93, and T. B. Symons, '02.

The meeting was also honored by the presence of E. S. Walker, '70, the oldest living former student. He was closely followed by R. S. Griffith, '76, of Waynesboro, Va.

The day was also reunion day for the twenty-fifth anniversary of the class of 1912, and the twentieth anniversary for 1917. Both classes had a large percentage of living members present.

An article in the ALUMNI NEWS about a portrait of Captain Silvester, former president of the institution, aroused the interest and enthusiasm of several alumni. It was announced that Edmund C. Mayo, '04, had written President Byrd offering his support in having such a portrait painted. It was suggested that action be deferred until Mr. Mayo sends President Byrd the results of his investigation as to cost. The association expressed appreciation for the initiative Mr. Mayo has taken and authorizes the secretary to render all possible help in carrying out the idea.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University, was called upon for his annual message to the alumni. President Hines asked Grenville Lewis, '96, and L. M. Silvester, '11, to escort Dr. Byrd to the platform. Dr. Byrd gave a very interesting and enlightening address on the accomplishments of the University as well as something about the plans for the future. His talk was followed with a few remarks by Melvin C. Hazen, '88, now District of Columbia Commissioner.

The business part of the meeting was the approval of the action taken in improving the appearance of the ALUMNI NEWS. President Hines expressed the gratitude of the association to M. S. Collins, '28, for his generous assistance in procuring advertisements for the NEWS.

In connection with the ALUMNI NEWS, it was voted unanimously by the association that the secretary be authorized to consider all annual contributions to the Alumni Association as payments for class or club subscriptions to the ALUMNI NEWS.

As the last Saturday in May seemed to be a desirable time for Alumni Day the association voted Saturday, May 28 as the date for the annual reunion in 1938.

Reports were heard from the Baltimore, New York and Washington groups.

Following the meeting all registered alumni were guests of the Athletic Association at the varsity lacrosse game with Penn State College held in Byrd Stadium. Maryland won.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: E. F. Zalesak, '25, president; C. Walter Cole, '21, vice-president; C. Vinton Koons, '29, representative for the College of Engineer-

The Victor E. Albright Scholarship

A SCHOLARSHIP, in memory of his father and mother, has been established at the University by Honorable Victor E. Albright, a native of Garrett County, Md., and now president of the Randall State Bank, Madison, Wis.

Mr. Albright has made available "to the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, its successors and assigns, the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000), in trust, to constitute a perpetual endowment, the income each year to be used for a scholarship for the benefit of graduates of high schools of Garrett County, Md." The scholarship will be known as the Victor E. Albright Scholarship.

In accordance with the requests of the donor, the scholarship is to be awarded "to a boy or girl of good character, of fair health, of the Caucasian or white race, who was born and reared in Garrett County, Md., and who graduates from a high school in Garrett County, Md., in the year in which the scholarship is awarded."

The value of the scholarship, "Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) per annum, is to be paid by the Board of Regents to the scholar selected, in such installments during the school year as the Committee on Scholarships and Student Aid of the University of Maryland, or its successors, may recommend."

The purpose of this scholarship is three-fold: first, to urge a boy or girl to do his best scholastic work in each year of his high school course so as to become eligible for this award; second, to encourage or assist him in securing a college education; third, to impel him to do creditable scholastic work in every semester of his college course.

Usually a scholar will be appointed every four years, but through low grades or other causes a vacancy may occur at any time and a scholar may be appointed in any year. Therefore, a copy of this instrument shall be sent by the above-mentioned Committee to every high school principal in Garrett County, Md., once each year soon after the opening of high schools in the fall. The principal of each high school in Garrett County, Md., shall give to his students a full knowledge of the terms of this scholarship twice each year by posting a copy of same on the school bulletin board, by publishing in the local press, or by reading same to the full student body, to the end that all eligible students may be given an opportunity to compete throughout their high school courses for the scholarship here offered.

The philanthropic act by Mr. Albright has exemplified a commendatory gesture in behalf of the youth of our State and nation. Although he was never a student at the University, he has shown an interest in the services the University is rendering the people of the State. His undergraduate days were spent at West Virginia Conference Seminary at Buchannon, graduating in 1898. From Ohio Wesleyan University he received his A. B. in 1901, and in 1904 his Master of Arts degree from Harvard. Columbia, in 1909, bestowed upon him a Doctor of Philosophy degree. Intermingled with his graduate work was four years of teaching. At Ohio Wesleyan he was a member of the Sigma Chi social fraternity.

Out in Preston County, W. Va., is a town bearing the name of Albright, from which migrated Mr. Albright's grandfathers, settling near Cranesville, W. Va. Here his father, Edmund, and his mother, Nancy Jane Albright, were born. It was shortly after his father's return from the Civil War when he married and settled on a nearby farm. A few years later he purchased a farm just over the line in Garrett County, Md. Here Victor Albright, the only son of a family of five children, was born.

Mr. Albright's ancestry goes back to great-grandfathers, both named Albright, descendants of early Pennsylvania Germans, who migrated from York, Pa., in the early part of the nineteenth century and settled near the present known town of Albright, in Preston County, W. Va.

In 1910, Mr. Albright married Miss Georgia French and went to the University of Wisconsin as instructor in English. After four years of teaching he organized the Randall State Bank, serving first as cashier for three years, then as president for the past 19 years.

He is the author of "The Shakespearian Stage," a literary treatise which was published in 1909.

The gesture by Mr. Albright is certainly a generous consideration in behalf of the youth of Garrett County, Md., and the NEWS takes this occasion to express laudatory praises for his splendid act.

In the evening a delightful buffet supper-dance was held in the Gymnasium. It was a very enjoyable affair and a colorful ending of a perfect day. The supper menu consisted of fried chicken, potato chips, cole slaw, pickles, olives, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. After a Paul Jones to the tunes of a modern orchestra an entertaining floor show was presented by talented artists.

Members of the senior class were invited to the dance as guests of the association.

Keller Nite Successful

When Charley Keller, '37, former Old Line diamond star, now a professional ball player with the Newark Club, appeared at Oriole Park the alumni group of Baltimore staged a reception for him. Keller was called from his dugout to the home plate prior to the start of the game and here he was met by Ches Tawney, president of the Baltimore alumni, Burton Shipley, his former coach, and Geary Eppley, director of athletics. In recognition of his fine accomplishments he was presented with a traveling bag by Shipley on behalf of the Baltimore alumni. Keller's mother who was in the stands, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Ches Tawney on behalf of the Baltimore group.

Following the game Keller was surrounded by quite a mob of enthusiastic rooters from the Old Line school.

Norwood Sothoron monopolized him for a while in a broadcast under the auspices of Wheaties.

Spring Mixer Well Attended

Maintaining their drive to build a large alumni group in Baltimore, a mixer was held on April 16 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. The affair was well attended and is certain to become an annual function.

George Schmidt, '25, a former professor of the School of Speech at Syracuse University, gave a very interesting talk on his experiences with the French Foreign Legion. George has traveled quite extensively in Europe and his talks are enlightening. Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University, gave a few brief remarks, as did Geary Eppley, director of athletics.

E. Gordon Hammond, '34, secretary of the group, made several announcements and read a resolution from the Alumni Board of the association recognizing the gift from the Baltimore group which inaugurates the Alumni Scholarship Fund.

President Chester W. Tawney, '29, was toastmaster for the occasion.

Before and after the talks, the alumni and many faculty members could be seen chatting and generally getting acquainted which is a most ideal way of perpetuating the real University spirit.

Senior Banquet

The annual senior banquet was held June 2, at which time Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University, made his farewell address to the senior class. John W. Guckeyson, president of the class, was toastmaster, and John Gilbert was general chairman of the occasion.

"With the graduation of this class will go the last of the athletes who were members of the last football team which I coached," said Dr. Byrd. "While his duties had carried him far from the gridiron teams he will never forget the great benefits he derived from associations made there."

As a part of the annual program of the senior banquet the citizenship medal for both men and women was presented. Miss Adele Stamp, dean of women, presented the women's citizenship honor to Miss Flora Waldman, and Prof. Geary Eppley, director of athletics, presented the men's citizenship honor to John William Guckeyson.

The banquet was followed by a dance, both of which were held at the National Press Club in Washington.

Guckeyson Becomes Cadet At West Point

Bill Guckeyson, Maryland's greatest athlete of recent years, has received an appointment to West Point and is destined to carry on athletically for the Cadets.

Guckeyson, who won letters in football, track, baseball and basket-ball, with the first two as his leading pastimes, also gained honors in other campus affairs.

He was president of the senior class, and this year won both the citizenship award as the student who nearest typified the model citizen and who did the most for the general advancement of the University during his college career, and the Linhardt ring as the outstanding Maryland athlete.

In his sophomore year he won the award for typifying the best in college athletics. This award this year went to John Gormley.

Both the citizenship awards, given by President H. C. Byrd, and the athletic award, given by the class of 1908, of which he was a member, are gold watches.

Guckeyson also was picked by the National Collegiate Athletic Association to go to Berkeley, Calif., as its guest to compete in the javelin event of the title meet. The meet was scheduled June 18-19.

Spring Teams Succeed---Giving Great Year In Sports » »

MARYLAND'S athletic teams had a great year, the varsity taking 49 of 78 dual affairs for a winning percentage of .63, better than 3 out of 5, and the freshman capturing 37 contests, tieing one and losing five.

However, as the yearlings staged most of their events with high school outfits their record should not be taken too seriously in figuring on recruits for the varsity combinations.

Here is the year's record of the teams:

Varsity

	W.	L.	Tied
Football	6	5	0
Boxing	6	0	1
Basket-ball	8	11	0
Lacrosse	7	2	0
Baseball	12	4	0
Track	5	3	0
Tennis	5	4	0
Totals	49	29	1

Freshman

	W.	L.	Tied
Tennis	4	0	0
Totals	37	5	1

O

Lacrosse Team Repeats

FOOTBALL, boxing and basket-ball have been reviewed in previous issues of the NEWS, leaving something to be said about the spring program that was attractive and fruitful.

A highlight of the spring season was the retention of the national collegiate lacrosse championship with a clean slate against varsity rivals. The games lost, both early in the campaign, were to Baltimore A. C. and Mount Washington, the country's best club outfits, and these, of course, had no bearing on the collegiate race.

Princeton, also unbeaten, eventually may be voted, when the lacrosse committee meets, to be co-champ with the Terps, but a team that follows a title season with an unblemished record cannot have the championship taken away from it. It is possible, too, that comparative scores may swing the unshared title to Maryland.

Ball Team Surprises

BASEBALL gained more success that was expected of it at the start, considering the loss of 1936 stars, and in its record of 12 wins in 16 games in the regular campaign, were 6 out of 7 in the Southern Conference, to give the Terps the runner-up position to Duke, the champion. This reversed 1936 matters when Maryland was first and Duke second.

Track, led by Frank Cronin, Bill Guckeyson and Edwin Miller, had one of its most successful seasons. Cronin led in the point making with 104, with the 440 yard dash and the pole vault as his specialties; Guckeyson got 98 in tossing the shot, discus and javelin, setting a new University record in the last named of 208 feet 5 inches. He also bettered the discus mark with a heave of 137 feet 8 inches and missed the shot put record only by inches.

Cronin set a new standard of 49.2 in the quarter and Miller high-jumped 6 feet 3¾ inches to beat the old mark by a wide margin.

O

Strong On Attack

MARYLAND presented a great six-man attack in lacrosse, with Charlie Ellinger as the hub, to score its clean-up in collegiate circles, and a defense that was shaky at the start developed into a real barrier in the late stages.

Led by Bill Bryant, outfielder, who hit .424; Waverly Wheeler, third base, who swatted .387; Mike Surgent, second sacker, who compiled an average of .390 and Eddie Johnson, who batted .412 as a near-regular, and backed by fine pitching of Dale Patterson, Lefty George Wood and Charlie Weidinger, the ball club played consistently throughout the campaign. The game with Duke, which decided the Conference title was one of the finest battles ever staged at College Park, the Blue Devils winning, 2 to 1.

Tennis, hard hit by graduation, was a little off par, but it is remarkable under the circumstances that the netmen were able to win a majority of their matches.

Noted Athletes Lost

THERE were some great losses when the boys marched up for their diplomas on June 5. Numbered among those who will not answer the call next fall are Bill Guckeyson, great gridder and four-letter athlete; John Gormley, football and boxing ace; Charlie Ellinger, grid and lacrosse stalwart; Ivan Nedomatsky and Tom Birmingham, Conference ring champs; Vic Willis, basketer and gridder; Jack Kelly, lacrosse goalie; Charlie Keller and Fred Thomas, basket-ball and baseball, and a host of others.

Keller, a senior, left school before the baseball season opened to become a star for the Newark Internationals, while Thomas turned to the pro diamond ranks at the end of the regular season, although he was only a junior. He and Keller were the regular guards on the basket-ball quint.

O

Riflemen Reach Top

MARYLAND also came into its own in rifle shooting, thanks to Maj. Frank Ward of the Military Department, who coached the marksmen. His varsity and freshman pupils won the intercollegiate championships in their respective classes, the former also beat Navy for the first time in history and carried off about all the other honors in sight in the Third Corps Area. Sad to say, Major Ward has been taken from Maryland to attend the Army Staff School at Leavenworth.

Most of the freshman teams will send better than average material up to the varsity squads for the 1937-38 term but it is not expected that a Guckeyson, a Gormley or an Ellinger will be among them.

Football, track, basket-ball and tennis probably will gain the most from the rookie talent, the yearling boxing, lacrosse and baseball squads, while having some good men, not being as well balanced as the others.

A list of letter men, appearing in this issue, with those to be lost indicated, will give a line on just how much graduation affected the various pastimes.

Award Assembly

ONE of the outstanding events of June Week activities was the general student assembly held June 3 on the campus, at which time honors and awards were presented. There were two awards which attracted a great deal of attention, the citizenship medal for men and women, presented at the senior banquet. Winners of these two coveted honors were Miss Flora Waldman and John William Guckeyson.

At the general assembly the medal for excellence in athletics was awarded to John J. Gormley, football, baseball and boxing.

The Mortar Board Cup for scholastic excellence was awarded to Miss Lula Voncille Davis. The Lindhardt ring for outstanding athlete from Maryland went to John William Guckeyson. The James Goddard Memorial Medal to a student from Prince George's County for excellence in scholarship was won by Charles Francis Janes.

People who had achieved prominence in certain sports were invited to the campus to make these awards. One to which considerable attention was centered was when Walter Johnson presented his son, Eddie, with his first varsity letter in baseball.

In boxing, Major Heinie Miller made the presentations. Major Frank Ward presented rifle awards, and Sergeant Seibeneichen made the band presentations.

Several alumni who were outstanding athletes in their college days made the presentations in their sport. Lewis W. Thomas, '28, presented track awards; William W. Evans, '30, presented lacrosse; Julian Radice, '30, presented basket-ball, and Egbert Tingley, '24, presented tennis awards.

The assembly was preceded by a concert presented by the University Band.

Gold awards were presented to senior athletes who had completed three years of varsity competition and who had won a varsity "M." Geary Eppley, '20, director of athletics, made the presentation, assisted by the coaches in the various sports.

May Day Was Well Attended

She was crowned Queen of the May, Miss Flora Edith Waldman, an honor graduate in the College of Home Economics. "Flo," as she is known about the campus, bedecked herself with many honors as an undergraduate. Among her many offices were president of the Y. W. C. A., secretary of her class in sophomore and junior years, and secretary of Student Government in her senior year, a member of Mortar Board, the Riding Club and Rifle Team, adding to her honors the Women's Citizenship Prize. She is a member of A. O. Pi and several honorary sororities.

In the queen's court were Jerry Schuh, Mary Bee Crisp, Florence Hill, Jean Barnsley, Isabel Resnitsky. The Queen was crowned by Miss Dorothy Hobbs, president of the Women's League.

Cleverly developed into dance themes was a chronological review of important women in the history of the world. Cleopatra supervised an Egyptian dance, Pocohontas gave moral support to the Indian maidens, and the Grecian number was led by Helen of Troy.

The junior coeds took this occasion to confer honors on several other persons who have contributed to the progressive success of the May Day. Mrs. John W. Whitehurst, first woman member of the Board of Regents, Mrs. Elizabeth Hook Day, '20, first coed graduate of the University, Mrs. Zita Ensor Hufford, '23, first Queen of the May, and first president of the Women's Student Government, Miss Ester Williams Newell, '24.

The largest crowd in the history of May Day attended the exercises which were well presented.

Military Annual Competitive Drill

It was a damp day for the R. O. T. C. boys on May 17 when the annual competitive drill was held.

Despite the rain it was as usual a very colorful affair and there was just as much zip in the drill as if nothing were wrong. The parade was the final formation at which time awards were presented. Company C, commanded by Capt. Irving P. Mendelsohn, captured first honors. Second platoon of Company A, commanded by Lieut. Parks Patterson, was tops among the platoons. The squad drill was won by Corporal Harvey Kreuzberg, Company I, second platoon, third battalion.

The individual honors for the best soldier probably attracts as much interest as any other. This was won by Francis Zalesak, brother of E. F. Zalesak, '25, newly-elected president of the Alumni Association.

The drill climaxed a great year for the Unit and for the fifteenth time won the excellent rating among R. O. T. C. units.

Terrapin Dedicated To W. H. Hottel

"Affiliated with the University for 15 years, director of athletic publicity, former adviser to student publications, always obliging with valuable assistance or a cheerful smile, solely responsible for the rapid growth and standards of student publications at Maryland to William H. Hottel, veteran newspaperman, and friend, that the 1937 Terrapin, is gratefully dedicated," was the dedicatory note of the Terrapin.

"Bill," as he is known by most of the alumni, has generously rendered his services to the University. There was never a more ardent supporter of the Old Line teams than "Bill," and he is always a familiar figure about the teams, be it a game or at practice. His contribution to the ALUMNI NEWS, about the Old Line athletic activities is gratefully appreciated and is eagerly read by many old timers.

R. O. T. C. Students Commissioned

Thirty-nine senior R. O. T. C. students were commisioned second lieutenants in the Organized Reserve Corps of the United States Army, Tuesday, at formal ceremonies in the rear of the library.

Lt. Col. Joseph D. Patch, professor of military science and tactics, presented the commissions and the certificates from the University, and Major Howard Clark, A. P. M. S. & T., administered the oath of allegiance to the cadets. Professor Geary Eppley, director of athletics, addressed the group following the ceremonies.

Pharmacy Alumni Elect Doctor Strevig

The annual banquet of the Pharmacy School alumni was held June 3 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. Walter P. Blakeman, State budget director, represented Governor Nice who was unable to attend. Other speakers on the program were Mr. Joseph Ayd, honorary president of the association, Dr. H. C. Byrd, and Dr. Gilbert W. Mead, president of Washington College.

The senior class was present as guests of the association and Dr. Andrew J. Du Mez, dean of the School of Pharmacy, made the senior class awards.

Dr. Robert L. Swain was toastmaster and Dr. John J. Wannanwetsch was the presiding officer, who is the retiring president of the association. Dr. John A. Strevig, '12, is the newly elected president for the ensuing year.

Dental Alumni Re-elect Doctor Bell

At the annual meeting of the Dental Alumni Association June 4, 1937, Dr. Arthur I. Bell, '19, was re-elected president for the ensuing year.

The Annual Alumni Banquet was held that evening at the Lord Baltimore Hotel at which time the Alumni Association presented the University with a portrait of Dr. W. G. Foster.

Married—Dr. John F. Moore, '23, now resident physician at the Veteran's Bureau Hospital at Bath, New York, was married in the early part of May, this year. Dr. Moore was an outstanding member of the gridiron squad of the Old Line school. He is originally from Washington, D. C., belongs to Sigma Nu fraternity, and is an ardent supporter of the Alumni Association.

It's a Maryland Tradition!

After the game, in the evening, at lunch, at any and all times Marylanders get together you'll find them at the Varsity Grill—newly renovated. Your school spirit cannot be par until you are a regular patron.

Lecture Series "The World Today"

"THE World Today," a six weeks course consisting of a series of lectures by seven of the most prominent authorities on current world affairs, will be one of the main features of the Summer Session of the University.

"This course is designed to furnish those interested in present day problems with a better understanding of the underlying causes of friction as well as the bases for international cooperation in the world today," stated Dr. Reuben Steinmyer, head of the political science department and chairman of the course.

The speakers will be Dr. Leon Marshall, professor of political economy of the Graduate School of American University; Gaston Nerval, author and authority on Latin-American affairs; Dr. Taraknath Das, special lecturer, department of history, New York University; Dr. Charles Pergler, Dean of the Law School, National University; Grover Clark, associate editor of the American Observer; and Dr. Leonid Strakhovsky, professor of European History, Georgetown University.

Each speaker is a specialist in certain fields that have to do with the various international mix-ups and each in his portion of the course will seek to make clear to the students the real underlying causes of world friction as they exist today.

There will be no charge for attending the introductory lectures on June 25 and 26. Thereafter persons other than registered students will be admitted by ticket. Tickets may be had at the Cashier's office in the Library Building.

Million Dollar Building Program

MARYLAND will start its $1,170,000 building program, which provides for the addition of four new buildings to the local campus and the remodeling and repairing of several others, early this summer.

The College Park branch will have added a new men's dormitory, a general service building, a home economics building, and a poultry building.

In addition, the Infirmary, engineering, men's dormitory group, and the dairy buildings will receive extensive improvements in the way of remodeling and equipping.

At Baltimore, two additional floors will be added to the new University Hospital, and the Dental and Pharmacy Schools and the Nurses' Home will receive needed improvements.

Stacks will be increased in the Law Library at Baltimore and the General Library at College Park and $25,000 will be expended for reference books for the local library.

Princess Anne Academy will receive a girl's dormitory, a Mechanics Arts Building, a new combination auditorium, gymnasium, and classroom building, and a small barn plus the remodeling of two of the present buildings.

Several greenhouses will be built at College Park for research work in agriculture, and a dairy farm of 216 acres will be purchased to supply the needed land for the new $110,000 Federal-built dairy unit on the campus which is among the finest in the country.

The new building program keeps the University first in physical improvement among State universities over the past 15 years.

Numerous replacements will be made in equipment and machinery for agricultural, experimental and laboratory work, according to present plans.

In addition to the improvement of the physical plant, every department of the University will be strengthened academically.

Enrollment Increases

A grand total of 4,918 students were enrolled in both branches of the University for the school year, 1936-37, with 3,487 at College Park, and 1,431 at Baltimore, according to an announcement made today through the cooperation of Willard M. Hillegeist, director of admissions, and Alma S. Preinkert, registrar at the College Park branch.

These figures include for Baltimore 1,275 for the regular session and 156 enrolled for the 1936 Summer School. At College Park 2,410 attended the regular session and 1,077 the summer session of 1936. An increase of 306 students over the 1935-36 sessions is noticed. This is in keeping with increased progress of the University, as enrollment has been continually rising.
